'VICE RUNS RIOT,' SAYS MALONE

Today

The Cassidys.
The Colby, Kan., Horror.
Other Means.
The Contractor Racket.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

TODAY'S events news can be told briefly, all except the Cassidy brothers' story. It deserves more space. "Red" and Peter Cassidy are, or were, hard fighters from New York's water front. Visits to other speakeasies had made them thirsty, and exacting, as regards service, before they entered the Hotsy Totsy Club on Broadway.

TIME: 3:30 a. m. The Hotsy Totsy ballroom was closed, in obedience to law, the bar was busy, the bartender tired, rather slow.

THE Cassidys, primitive beings that rely on their fists, announced a clean-up.

Gentlemen, with one lady, at the far end of the bar objecting to the noise, added to it with automatic pistols. One Cassidy fell down the stairs, with a bullet groove on the top of his head.

His brother, "Red," was hurried to the hospital, shot, as follows: Three times in the head, once in the abdomen, once in the groin. Not even a Cassidy could stand all that.

AT the hospital "Red," knowing that his time was short, refused to waste it, answering police questions.

Every minute of remaining life he devoted to cursing the police detectives. They testify that he had a line of curses, as fine as they had ever heard.

The lady was arrested, but chivalry means something, and even in a speakeasy, a lady is still a lady. The police would not give her name.

THERE are in New York city, police say, at least 32,000 speakeasies, more or less like the Hotsy Totsy, on the second floor of 1721 Broadway.

The police will close that one, and before it is officially closed it will have engaged quarters elsewhere, possibly on the same block, for customer convenience. It may change its name from Hotsy Totsy to Totsy Hotsy.

Can you tell Uncle Sam and prohibition enforcement how to handle that situation, in the jungles of great cities?

THE city of Colby, Kansas, again votes not to tax anybody or any property, real or personal, in the city.

Colby owns its power, light and water plant. Profits, which go to the city, make taxes unnecessary.

In fact, because of surplus profits, the water rate is reduced 25 cents this year.

YOU see what such bolshevism would soon lead to. That publicly owned light and water plant means that several fine American families have no private yachts, and members of those families may have to go to work, instead of going to Europe.

Above all, it does away with tax-paying, thus sapping the foundations of our national patriotism.

THE editor of the Skibbereen Eagle wrote, "We have our eye on the Czar of Russia."

He should now fix that eye on the bolshevik government.

While other nations talk peace, snubbing Russia systematically and stupidly, Russia, reserving the right to do as she pleases, says to China, in not too diplomatic language, "You do as we say, or we shall use other means."

MUCH meaning in those words "other means." Russia is still, as in Napoleon's day, "a feather bed, in which those that attack smother themselves."

RUSSIA can put in the field fifteen million fighting men. Russia is now free of a weak-minded czar, led by a superstitious woman, led in turn by the vicious priest, Rasputin, and Russia is free of grand dukes that stole money intended for army purposes.

China, if wise, will talk things over.

THE gangster racket based on commercial principles travels from Chicago to New York.

Gentlemen of the racket "declare themselves in" on, for instance, the electrical industry.

They say to contractors, "We are going to protect you and you are going to pay us 2 per cent of your gross receipts, with a salary for our head racketeer."

SOME contractors could not see the point and buildings under construction, dealing with them, were burned.

Contractors doing work on a close basis, leaving no margin for the racket, were warned, "It will be healthy for you to break that contract."

They testify that they took the hint.

Council Head Says City in Racketeers' Grip; Pledges Reform if Elected Mayor

The mayoralty campaign began in earnest today.

President James F. Malone, of City Council, first candidate to announce he would run, issued as the first plank of his platform a promise of warfare against rampant vice, if he is elected.

Friends of Mayor Charles H. Kline, candidate for re-election, put into wide circulation petitions for his nomination.

Judge R. H. Martin indicated he would decide, probably late today, whether or not he would be an "independent candidate."

"Pittsburgh is infested with the cancer of racketeering," President James F. Malone, of City Council, declared today, in announcing that in the event he is elected mayor he will reform the police department and insist that an honest effort to enforce the law be reflected in its activities.

"The power of the underworld has made itself felt in the Police Department, which has failed in the complete discharge of its duty," Mr. Malone charges in a formal statement.

"VICE RUNS RIOT"

His statement follows:

No man with an ounce of frankness will deny that Pittsburgh is infested with the cancer of 'racketeering.'

Each candidate must meet that issue. I am unalterably opposed to the policy of an admin-

KING OPERATED ON AGAIN

LONDON, July 15.—(INS.)—King George underwent a third operation of the chest today. Portions of two ribs were removed.

The attending doctors announced that the operation was successful. It was made necessary by an abscess in the cavity of the right side of the chest.

The chest sinus had failed to drain properly. The operation was performed at Buckingham Palace where the King and Queen are living. The monarch's general health is described as excellent.

PRINCE OF WALES THERE

The Prince of Wales was at the palace during the operation.

The operation was minor in character and the people were assured beforehand that there was no danger.

The abscess in the King's right side followed an attack of pleurisy last winter when His Majesty was in serious condition for weeks.

A reassuring bulletin was issued at 11:40 o'clock. The text:

CONDITION SATISFACTORY

CHINA IGNORES RUSS DEMAND

LONDON, July 15.—(A.P.)—Soviet Russia's ultimatum to China was regarded here as startlingly endangering the peace of the Far East and was reviewed with considerable anxiety.

Possibility of Japan's becoming involved in the quarrel was regarded with misgiving and the situation was admitted to be full of sinister possibilities.

The ultimatum delivered by the Soviet government was in connection with the seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway and the arrest of Soviet employes of the system. The BOSTON, July 15.—The Pirates today were anxious to keep unbroken their string of eastern victories as they prepared for action with the Braves. Rain yesterday kept the two clubs apart, but it is the intention to run off the cancelled game Wednesday when a doubleheader will be staged.

Heinie Meine was all set to pitch yesterday when the contest was postponed. Manager Bush later announced that the new righthander, who has won four games without a defeat, would hold to the slab assignment.

PHILADELPHIA SHAKEN BY BLASTS

Waterfront Terminal Plant Wrecked When Chemical Tanks Blow Up in Flames

PHILADELPHIA, July 15. (INS.)—Punctuated by deafening blasts of exploding chemicals, the most spectacular blaze ever seen on the waterfront here razed the Terminal Warehouse Company pier at Delaware avenue and Green street today. Nearby structures were damaged by the blaze and explosions.

The explosions, caused by tanks of ammonia, chlorine, sulphate ar other chemicals stored on the pier, were heard for miles, and Philadelphia and Camden police were swamped by telephone calls from excited citizens.

BLASTS STOP FIREMEN

Four alarms were sounded in rapid succession, but firemen could do little in controlling the flames as blast after blast rocked the 400-foot pier, keeping them at a distance.

Several firemen received minor injuries and others were suffering from inhaling poisonous fumes of the chemicals. Loss was estimated at between $250,000 and $400,000.

EXPLOSIONS HEAVY

Repeated blasts endangered firemen, who heroically braved danger to direct hose lines on the blazing pier and the highly-inflammable chemicals.

Buildings across Delaware avenue were shaken to their foundations and virtually every window was shattered. Wreckage was hurled six blocks away to Second and Vine streets, and smashed through a building on the southwest corner.

Firemen struggled with the flames to check further spreading of the fire.

Director of Public Safety L. B. Schofield personally supervised the fight against the flames which endangered the entire waterfront for a time.

The detonations were felt in Frankford, South Philadelphia, Camden and the Main Line district.

Fire officials will make an investigation to determine whether the fire occurred from incendiary origin.

'All Quiet on the Western Front'

The Greatest Story of the World War.

—By ERICH M. REMARQUE—

Young Soldiers Are Toughened by Labors Imposed by Contemptible Camp Disciplinarian

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The four soldier comrades—Kropp, Muller, Leer and Paul Banmer—the last, the author of the story—are at rest five miles behind the front. All enlisted at 19. Their spirits are made low by a visit to the dressing station where their friend, Kemmerich, lies dying, with his leg amputated. Muller eyes the soft, leather boots under Kemmerich's cot.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

IT is strange to think that at home in the drawer of my writing table there lies the beginning of a play called "Saul" and a bundle of poems. Many an evening I have worked over them—we all did something of the kind—but that has become so unreal to me that I cannot comprehend it any more. Our early life is cut off from the moment we came here, and that without our lifting a hand. We often try to look back on it and to find an explanation, but never quite succeed. For us young men of 20 everything is extraordinarily vague, for Kropp, Muller, Leer, and me, for all of us whom Kantorek calls the "Iron Youth." All the older men are linked up with their previous life. They have wives, children, occupations, and interests, they have a background which is so strong that the war cannot obliterate it. We young men of 20, however, have only our parents, and some, perhaps, a girl—that is not much, for at our age the influence of parents is at its weakest and girls have not yet got a hold over us. Besides this there was little else—some enthusiasm, a few hobbies, and our school. Beyond this our life did not extend. And of this nothing remains.

Kantorek would say that we stood on the threshold of life. And so it would seem. We had as yet taken no root. The war swept us away. For the others, the older men, it is but an interruption. They are able to think beyond it. We, however, have been gripped by it and do not know what the end may be. We know only that in some strange and melancholy way we have become a waste land. All the same, we are not often sad.

Though Muller would be delighted to have Kemmerich's boots, he is really quite as sympathetic as another who could not bear to think of such a thing for grief. He merely sees things clearly. Were Kemmerich able to make any use of the boots, then Muller would rather go barefoot over barbed wire than scheme how to get hold of them. But as it is the boots are quite inappropriate to Kemmerich's circumstances, whereas Muller can make good use of them. Kemmerich will die; it is immaterial who gets them. Why, then, should Muller not succeed to them? He has more right than a hos-

KUBALA SAYS INJURIES SERIOUS

Hope Rises for Idzikowski, First Reported as Dead, Now as Seriously Injured

BULLETIN.

LISBON, Portugal, July 15.—(AP.)—An officially confirmed message from orta published in this morning's Press states that Maj. Idzikowski was buried yesterday with all honors at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the Graciosa Cemetery. The population of the island attended the funeral.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Maj. Ludwik Idzikowski, one of the two Polish flyers, whose plane, the Marshal Pilsudski, crashed in the Azores, and who was reported to have been instantly killed, may still be alive, according to a cablegram received here today by Edward Weisblat, Polish consul general in New York.

The cable, dated Santa Cluz, Gracios Island, and signed by Maj. Kasimir Kubala, the other of the two ill-fated flyers, read as follows:

'SERIOUSLY INJURED'

TWO ARRESTED IN FIRE DEATH

Two men were arrested today on charges of arson, one at the funeral of Frank Stibel, of 45 Hazel drive, Mt. Lebanon, fatally burned last Thursday in a fire and explosion at the South Fork barbecue stand, Bethel Township.

Both men admitted, county detectives said, that they had poured gasoline on the stand to raze the building, party destroyed by fire three days previously. Steibel was caught within the structure by a sweep of flame and died the following day in the South Side Hospital.

Eugene Ashbaugh, of 424 Kenmont avenue, Mt. Lebanon, was arrested by County Detective Michael Stabile, following funeral services for Steibel at the latter's home. William Geary, of 1070 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, was arrested at his home. Geary was part owner of the stand. Ashbaugh was employed to help raze the building, he told the detectives.

Information against the two was made before Alderman George J. Anderson by Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren.

Bethel Township firemen informed the detectives that insurance was carried on the building. The defendants denied setting fire to the structure with the intention of obtaining insurance money.

Two Firemen Hurt In Fall From Truck

Fire Captain John Miller and Hoseman Sam Rogers, of No. 47 Engine Company, suffered, bruises and lacerations when they were thrown from the rear of a fire truck as it turned from Ridge avenue into Fulton street today. The men were returning from a minor blaze in the home of George Neff, Phipps apartments, Stockton avenue and Reedsdale street.

Lucky Bucks—New Money for Old

By LUCKY BUCK.

Folks, I have Diogenes all beat! I've found them. It didn't take a lantern, either. Since I'm prowling around Pittsburgh, distributing Lucky Bucks, I'm glad people are keeping an eye on their old dollar bills.

Lillian Capone, 613 Southern avenue, Mt. Washington, is a mighty fine girl. She's quick-witted, too. Lillian, only 17, is a cashier at the Stanley Theater. She received the bill from her first customer Saturday morning. Was she deluded by his negligence? She was not! Lillian collected her $20 in new size money at the Sun-Telegraph and split with her sister cashiers, Mary Pedone, 609 Herron avenue, and Claudia DeKladon, West End, under their agreement that if they found one of the Sun-Telegraph lucky simoleons, they'd divide it up. I wonder who had the most fun that morning, Lillian, or the theatergoer from whom she received the money? Three guesses and the first two don't count!

Edmund Jones, Jr., 25, 806 Woodbourne avenue, Brookline, is a man of keen insight. Now, Lillian caught me, but Jones, an attendant at a gas station at Dormont and West Liberty avenue, Dormont, just found Lucky Buck No. B39045471E in his cash register. Jones says he knew all the time he'd find that buck in the cash drawer, or he wouldn't have looked!

Well, folks, I'm glad to see you're watching for me. But I caught one of you napping Saturday afternoon. It was out in Verona, at the Fisher Hardware Company, 747 Railroad avenue. The man who waited on me while I bought some glassware had counted over 500 $1 bills Friday without finding a Lucky Buck. He's the fellow to whom I handed Fortunate Smacker No. Z21222625D—and he stopped looking Friday! Wonder who'll show up with that bone?

But the man I want to nominate for the hall of fame is the son of Bre'er E. H. Walters, 4360 Railroad avenue, Oakmont. I hid behind a screen in Walters' tailor shop while he pressed up my suit, and the younger Walters explained to me that he's saving all his fish and watching the Sun-Telegraph with avid eye. Then I handed him an old $1 bill which is worth $20 of the new size.

Mrs. Marie E. Bender, 300 Craft avenue, wife of Charles F. Bender, auditor of Wallace M. Reid & Co., found her "lucky buck" Saturday. For months both Mr. and Mrs. Bender have been buying street car passes and watching the numbers each day in the Sun-Telegraph. In this they were not so lucky, but in the "20 for one" game Mrs. Bender met up with good fortune.

Mrs. Bender's friends are envious—so envious, in fact, that they are all reading the Sun-Telegraph every day and watching their simoleons. Mrs. Bender had No. V59664618D.

A casual glance at the numbers of several old bills in her purse revealed her luck.

You see, folks, it pays to watch out for me and my Lucky Bucks. There are still several more straying around Pittsburgh, and you may run across one any time. I and the Sun-Telegraph pass them out every day—and each one's worth 20 just as good, but new and smaller. So watch your one-spots, folks—they may be double sawbucks.

And I'll tell you all about my perambulations in the Sun-Telegraph every day!

If you haven't a Lucky One-Spot, some of your friends may have it. Be sure to tell everyone you know of the Sun-Telegraph's offer. It may mean many dollars—new ones for them.

Many Lucky One-Spots will be put into circulation. Every day numbers of these Lucky One Dollar Bills will be printed exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

Bills must be redeemed within 10 days of publication.

HEADWINDS DOOMED FLIGHT, DECLARES FRENCH PILOT

PLANE SPEED CUT BY GALE

Costes Describes Plight Over Raging Atlantic; Feared Gas Supply Would Fail

By CAPT. DIEUDONNE COSTES
Pilot of the French Plane Question Mark, Which Returned to Paris After Completing More Than a Third of the Journey to New York.
(As Told to Newspaper Correspondents On His Return)

PARIS, July 15.—I have done nothing for which I should be applauded. Still, I am more fortunate than our Polish competitors.

Although I had studied the problems of the Paris to New York flight for 18 months and was convinced of its difficulty, I know now that I never realized how difficult it is.

Rather 10 trips from New York to Paris than one from Paris to New York. Sunshine is the thing that is needed.

While weather conditions were reported favorable when we left they had changed considerably before we had gone very far over the ocean. We encountered the stormiest kind of weather, with clouds, and clouds and more clouds, very low. The wind was violent at times.

About 300 miles from shore the headwind was so strong that although the plane was capable of making 125 miles an hour, we were making barely 45 miles and sometimes 50.

GAS SHORTAGE FEARED

Rather than risk exhausting our gasoline supply in mid-ocean we preferred to turn about.

Our machine and motor functioned perfectly. Our radio was extremely useful, although we had to repair the antennae twice, once soon after our departure and again on our way back. The information obtained from ships on the ocean permitted us to follow our route without deviation.

Having checked our position and exchanged messages with several [illegible], I decided to return to Paris. What else could I do?

The clouds were very low and [illegible] flight most difficult and dangerous. It was impossible to [illegible] a higher altitude above the clouds as the west wind there would retard us still more, so far as our progress toward America was concerned.

Because of the atmospheric conditions our gas consumption was much above what we had calculated. By returning we have avoided the disaster which would have resulted from a shortage of gasoline.

From Le Bourget to Cap Finistere where we left the land, our speed was sometimes more than 125 miles an hour. The plane obeyed perfectly every touch. We were in the air exactly 28 hours and one minute and covered 5,200 kilometers at an average speed of 114 miles per hour.

On our return we skirted the Gulf of Gascogne, avoiding the rough weather.

WILL TRY AGAIN

I shall start again, and this flight, which has been rich in information, will cause me to modify my plans.

It was contrary winds that stopped us. Our departure from Le Bourget was good, especially after I had taken out the gasoline reserve in the tail of the ship.

During the first few hours of the flight we made excellent headway, with an average speed of 200 kilometers an hour until we reached Spain. Then the contrary winds hit us and the average speed was much lower.

The bad weather which was predicted towards the Azores we found just off the Spanish coast but, nothing daunted, we kept on our route with magnificent precision, thanks to Bellonte.

Although in the first part of our trip we lost a part of our antennae on our radio, we were still able to converse with two ships which we met en route.

To calculate the distance covered, Bellonte made his first calculations, discovering that we had covered 2,300 kilometers in the first 13 hours and 18 minutes. We were able to verify this half an hour later by a ship which confirmed our results.

RETURN DANGEROUS

All the same, going back became more difficult, and at times we could only fly 20 meters above the sea. But how were we going to traverse the storm area which we were advised faced us on the other side of the Azores, when already we had to fly around huge imposing looking black clouds which it was impossible to fly over?

One must remember that we were not doing more than 80 kilometers an hour. To go further would have been foolish. We had already used much more essence than we expected to, owing to forcing the motor against the 40-mile wind, which lowered our average.

I would prefer to do the trip from the west to the east 10 or 20 times, rather than this way once. To do this trip meteorological conditions must be exceptional.

Personally, I think that the first part of the trip must be done at from 220 to 230 kilometers an hour until we are well off the Spanish coast. Otherwise it is useless to try it at all.

All the same, we had a marvelous machine and a wonderful motor. One must live those hours of conflict above the waves and above the clouds to know the comfort that the gay music of the motor can bring when you know that the smallest hitch is fatal.

We received many messages, among which was one from an ardent admirer. It said:

"Courage and forward! The Poles are behind you."

WILD SEAS BELOW

Beneath us was a terrible sea, waves that were as high as five-story houses. Storms continued to play around us, one after the other.

The thought of remaining in the air without the proper amount of oil and gasoline caused us some anxiety. We could estimate the miles we had traveled by the amount of fuel that was left in our tanks. We did not want to drain our carburetors, because on landing, we wanted to be able to tell exactly how much fuel we had used. This information would prove valuable for our next attempt, and we fully expect to make another attempt if atmospheric conditions will permit us.

Two Racing Packets Ruled By Youngest Captains

CINCINNATI, O., July 15.—(AP.)—The course of the race between the Tom Greene and the Betsy Ann, Ohio River steamers, scheduled for Tuesday, was to be decided today, as is the exact time. Both will depend upon the stage of the river.

The load to be carried by the contestants is to be left entirely to the judgment of the captains, Tom R. Greene of the boat that bears his name, and Frederick Way, Jr., of the Betsy Ann.

The masters of the two vessels have agreed the race shall be upstream over 20 miles. If the river is high enough to warrant a lowering of dams, the boats will race from here to New Richmond and from Fernbank Dam to a point just west of Little Miami River if the dams are up. The river stage would have to be approximately 20 feet to warrant lowering the dam.

The Chris Greene, sister ship of the Tom Greene, defeated the Betsy Ann by a scant margin last year in a similar race.

The commanders of the two boats are the youngest steamboat captains on the Ohio River. Tom Greene is 25 and Capt. Way, 23. Capt. Greene's mother, who holds a pilot license, probably will pilot the boat during part of the race, the captain said.

twin bill, the Cubs can reduce the Pirates' lead, for the Bucs are scheduled for a single game. The Phils are well "softened up," having lost four straight decisions to the Pittsburghers last week.

Ray Benge opposed Bush on the mound.

Hack Wilson hit his twenty-third home run of the season in the fourth inning. The bases were empty.

Chuck Klein, of the Phils, forged ahead of Wilson in the home run derby by smacking out his twenty-fourth circuit clout in the fifth inning. O'Doul scored ahead of him.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

CHICAGO—English walked. Heathcote doubled to right center, scoring English. Thompson threw out Hornsby, Heathcote taking third. Wilson fanned. Stephenson flied to Klein. One run, one hit.

PHILADELPHIA—McMillan threw out Southern. O'Doul singled over first. Klein forced O'Doul, Hornsby to English. Hurst walked. Whitney fanned. One hit.

SECOND INNING

CHICAGO—Grimm singled to center. McMillan forced Grimm, Thompson to Thevenow. McMillan stole second. Taylor popped to Thevenow. Bush grounded out to Hurst. One hit.

PHILADELPHIA—Thompson flied to Wilson. Thevenow fouled to Stephenson. Lerian singled to center. Benge singled to left, Lerian stopping at second. Southern fanned. Two hits.

THIRD INNING

CHICAGO—Thompson made a nice stop of English's grounder and threw him out. Heathcote fanned. Thevenow threw out Hornsby.

PHILADELPHIA—O'Doul singled to left. Klein singled to left, O'Doul stopping at second. Hurst popped to Grimm. Whitney flied to Stephenson. Thompson fouled to Grimm. Two hits.

FOURTH INNING

CHICAGO—Wilson hit his twenty-third home run of the season over the right field wall. Stephenson walked. Grimm hit into a double play, Thevenow to Hurst. McMillan doubled to right center. Taylor doubled to right center, scoring McMillan. Thompson threw out Bush. Two runs, three hits.

PHILADELPHIA — Thevenow flied to Wilson. Lerian singled to center. Benge singled over third, Lerian stopping at second. Southern hit into a double play, McMillan to Hornsby to Grimm. Two hits.

FIFTH INNING

CHICAGO — English fanned. Heathcote flied to O'Doul. Hornsby lined to Hurst.

PHILADELPHIA—O'Doul singled to right. Klein hit his twenty-fourth home run over the rightfield wall, scoring O'Doul ahead of him. Hurst flied to Stephenson. Hornsby threw out Whitney. Thompson flied to Wilson. Two runs, two hits.

SIXTH INNING

CHICAGO—Wilson fanned. Stephenson singled to right. Grimm flied to Klein. McMillan fouled to Hurst. One hit.

PHILADELPHIA — Bush threw out Thevenow. Lerian popped to Grimm. Benge flied to Heathcote.

cated from the burning machine. Idzikowski seriously injured. His leg burned. Little hope for his life."

The cablegram was sent from Santa Cruz at 7:45 a. m., Greenwich mean time (3:45 a. m., Pittsburgh time).

A similar cable was received at the Polish legation in Washington.

All cable reports direct from the Azores stated clearly that Major Idzikowski was killed instantly when the plane crashed. In addition the reports cabled by correspondents at the scene told of the major being buried yesterday. The above cablegram, received in New York this morning, may have been sent yesterday, and delayed in transmission.

HORTA, The Azores, July 15. (INS.)—Reports from New York quoting a message from here saying Maj. Ludwik Idzikowski, Polish trans-Atlantic flier, might still be alive, could not be confirmed here today.

All reports from the Island of Graciosa, the latest of which was received at 3:15 p. m. (11:15 a. m. Pittsburgh time) stated flatly that Idzikowsky had been instantly killed while landing and had been buried yesterday.

Late details from Graciosa this afternoon told the story of this latest air tragedy.

It was dusk on Saturday evening when residents of Graciosa saw a white plane approaching from the sea.

There were two men in the plane. One of them leaned over the side and made motions with his arms. He was evidently trying to find if there was a landing field any place in the vicinity.

The people of Graciosa stood staring skyward, thrilled by this strange and sudden sky visitor.

As the plane skimmed over cultivated ground near the village of Santa Cruz, the people on land did not know the airmen were in danger, but an expert could have detected mechanical trouble by the disjointed pounding of the motor.

PLANE DIPS, PLUNGES

Finally the nose of the Marshal Pilsudski dipped and the plane dropped speedily to land. So rapid was its progress the momentum carried it swiftly over a sharp declivity.

The plane turned over as it crashed and a human figure—the body of Kubala—shot from the cockpit. There was a flash of light and an explosion, and the non-metal portions of the machine were soon consumed by fire.

Idzikowski, piloting the plane, was strapped to his seat.

Spectators who had been watching the downward swoop of the plane, rushed forward when they heard the explosion. Some of them were injured by flying fragments of the gasoline tank. None was seriously hurt.

Kubala's most serious wounds were in the head, but his body and limbs were badly bruised.

Kubala, unconscious, was rushed to the nearest hospital. After an examination a doctor said his injuries were serious, but he hoped for recovery.

SECOND SEA ATTEMPT

This was Maj. Idzikowski's second attempt to fly the ocean. In August of last year he and Kubala took off from Le Bourget in a similar plane, but after nearly reaching the Azores, the airmen put about and returned, landing on the ocean 60 miles off the Portuguese coast, where they were rescued by a German steamer.

On that occasion Kubala was injured and was confined to a hospital for several days. The extent of his injuries this time has not yet been ascertained, but the action of hospital authorities in forbidding him to see interviewers indicates his condition is grave.

Princess Ileana Files Tax Appeal

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 15.—(AP.)—Princess Ileana thinks her taxes are too high. Tax commissioners assessed her estate at Peoni at $7,500. She insists that it isn't worth a cent over $4,000. She will have to back her statement in court.

CHINA IGNORES RUSS DEMAND

ultimatum demands immediate release of the arrested men, and the calling of a conference by tomorrow to settle the dispute.

Meanwhile, a message from Harbin states that 700 additional Russians have been arrested by the Chinese authorities. If this report is true, it indicates the Chinese authorities are ignoring the Soviet ultimatum entirely.

Troop movements are under way in Eastern Siberia and near the Manchurian frontier. Official advices received in Tokio report the movement of Soviet troop trains in the region of Lake Baikal.

RIOTING AGAINST CHINESE

TOKYO, July 15.—(AP.)—Harbin dispatches to the Japanese News Agency Rengo state that reports have been received of a demonstration in Vladivostok against the Chinese consulate there.

The Vladivostok populace, incensed by the Chinese seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway, were reported to have surrounded the Chinese consulate and to have hurled stones at it in addition to shouting insults.

U. S. FEARS WORST

By PIERCE MILLER.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 15. — The strange anomaly of the American government lending moral support to Soviet Russia in the present Chinese crisis, appeared among the possibilities today.

Traditional friendship of the United States for China, and its undisguised opposition to things communistic, appears not to have influenced Chinese experts in the State Department to give the Hoover administration advice favorably to the seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railroad.

On the contrary, comment among these officials is that China will have difficulty in persuading the world, most of which is opposed to Russia, that the seizure was justified.

The United States is waiting developments and is officially silent, and while professing to be optimistic over the peaceful outcome, officials privately fear the worst.

The greatest danger, according to well informed opinion here, is from Japan, and if that nation uses the massing of Russian troops on the Manchurian border as an excuse to send her own troops there, ostensibly for the protection of the South Manchurian Railway (Japanese owned), then the United States would probably feel called upon to protest.

The only basis for action by the Japanese which would be acceptable to the United States would be to go in as an avowed ally of China at the latter's behest, it was explained.

Queen Marie, Carol Have Short Visit

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 15.—(AP.)—Word was received in Bucharest today that Queen Marie and her son, former Crown Prince Carol, had a meeting at Klagenfurt over the week-end. Princess Mother Helen, who had accompanied the Queen to Bled, Jugoslavia, did not meet her former husband.

Girl, 2, Falls Into Monongahela, Dies

UNIONTOWN, July 15.—Helen Borchik, 2, was drowned near Alicia, when, in playing along a concrete retaining wall near her home, she fell, struck her head and was precipitated into the Monongahela River. The body was recovered a short time later.

Decision Lost, She Shoots at Judge

CHICAGO, July 15.—(INS.)—Enraged when a judgment for $1,000 attorney's fees was entered against her in the Municipal Court here this afternoon, Mrs. Ida Gembo Berg drew a pistol and fired three times at the head of Municipal Judge John Haas. None of the bullets took effect. The woman was disarmed.

Will Take Movies In King's Palace

LONDON, July 15.—(AP.)—The Daily Mail said today King George had authorized the use of the throne room at Buckingham Palace to a movie concern for the making of a film illustrating the fruit trade of the British empire.

Weather Bureau Disagrees From St. Swithin

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP.)—Take note of the weather for the next 40 days. St. Swithin, bishop of Winchester, England, and a weather prophet, was buried in 862. On July 15, 962, the story goes, it was decided to move his bones, but a terrific rainstorm burst and continued for 40 days. The remains were left where they were. And so:

"St. Swithin's Day, if thou dost rain
For 40 days it will remain:
St. Swithin's Day, if thou be fair,
For 40 days it will rain nae mair."

CHARGES VICE BOSSES POLICE

istration which permits the domination of city politics and the strangling of police department efficiency by the racketeer—whether he be bootlegger, slot machine magnate, gambling house proprietor, or the purveyor of vice in its nastiest form.

No one desires to give further unnecessary publicity to the taint in Pittsburgh politics, but common honesty demands a recognition of facts. Organized vice runs riot. The power of the underworld has made intself felt in the police department, which has failed in the complete discharge of its duty. The honest and decent majority of the police have been unable to perform their full duty because of the pernicious power and influence of the few who have sacrificed the public good for private gain.

RACKETEERS MUST GO

This is the time for plain talk. The rackateer is a criminal. He has no political significance. He must be driven from the ranks of the Republican party and from the intimate counsels of the city administration. It is not enough to state facts which are apparent to all. The responsibility for the present condition cannot be evaded. The Mayor of Pittsburgh and his appointed director of public safety share that responsibility. An honest purpose to enforce the law should be reflected in the activities of the police department immediately.

As mayor of Pittsburgh I shall accept that responsibility and in its discharge adopt the following policy designed to remedy present conditions:

1. The police department will each day wage aggressive war on the law violators so that no combination of them can organize or exist. Continuous law enforcement will replace occasional sporadic outbursts of enforcement. To that end the department will honestly co-operate with the county, state and federal authorities. No officer need fear to make an arrest because of the political consequences.

PROMOTION ON MERIT

1. Promotion in the department will be based upon merit and upon the officer's record of efficiency as a public servant. The officer who fails, neglects or refuses to abide by this policy goes out, but the one who lives up to it goes up in the ranks by promotion.

3. The civil service requirements for admission and appointment to the force will be honestly administered.

4. There will be established and maintained within the Police Department a training school so that each officer may become more adequately equipped and thoroughly trained in the many phases of metropolitan police work.

5. There will be established and maintained within the Police Department a women's division of sufficient size suitably equipped to properly handle those cases primarily involving the female prisoner or criminal.

6. The equipment of the department will be modernized so that it may more effectively combat modern motorized crime.

Upon the other important issues involved in this campaign I shall invite the attention of the public at another time.

DRY AGENT GETS MAN AT PICNIC

Alleged to have taken liquor to a picnic, Joseph Markowitz, of 3444 Ward street, was held for Federal court trial today by a United States commissioner.

He was arrested on board the steamer Roosevelt Saturday night on complaint of Capt. Oscar Moore, who reported seeing Markowitz with bottles of liquor at an outing on Fourteen-Mile Island, Allegheny river. Prohibition agents said they found 27 bottles of moonshine and 14 pints of gin in his possession.

NOMINATION PAPERS OUT FOR KLINE

'Faithful' Told to 'Sign Up' For Mayor—Judge Martin's Decision Ready

The nominating petitions for Mayor Charles H. Kline as a candidate for re-election were placed in circulation throughout the city today. The petitions are going into each election district of the city and "the faithful" are being told to subscribe, according to politicians.

The important question in political circles as to whether Judge Richard W. Martin will accept the invitation of independent groups and become a candidate for mayor is expected to be answered within the next 24 hours. Judge Martin indicated today that he will issue a statement soon.

FOURTH WARD FIGHT

A fourth candidate, said to have the Coyne faction backing, filed a petition today for the vacant post of constable in the Fourth Ward office of Alderman C. B. Quiniley.

The candidate, Louis C. Wicks, chief deputy sheriff in the Criminal Court department, presented a petition of 209 signers, including Police Inspector James N. Hoey. It is the supposition that Senator James J. Coyne's faction is backing Wicks, due to Hoey appearing on the petition.

This candidacy leaves the petition of Coleman Coyne, a brother of the senator, in doubt. He was the first candidate, filing his petition before Judge Frank P. Patterson on July 3, when Constable Peter J. Madden resigned when sentenced three to six months to the workhouse for election fraud.

JURY POST CANDIDATE

The other two candidates in the field are Michael V. Conroy, who has the backing of the McManus-Clanigan-Verona faction, and Deputy Constable George McFarland, an independent, who has been in office for 18 months. The four petitions will be heard July 25.

James N. Moore, of Coraopolis, member of the commission for the selection of jurors, has announced his candidacy for re-election as the Republican member of that body.

Moore declared the commission has been conducted efficiently and economically and pledged his fullest attention to duty if chosen by the voters for another term.

KING OPERATED ON AGAIN

Portions of two ribs were removed in order that the circumscribed abscess one and one-half inches across should be directly drained and treated. The condition of His Majesty is satisfactory."

The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, Sir Hugh Rigby, Prof. Wilfred Trotter, Sir Francis Shipway and Lord Dawson of Penn.

According to the Central News the operation was of a more serious nature than had been anticipated. It was performed by Sir Hugh Rigby and by Dr. Trotter.

FARMER FOUND HANGED

The body of John Kretzer, 47, a farmer, of Three Degree road, Shaler Township, was found hanging by a rope in his barn today, according to the coroner's report.

Both Kretzer and his wife recently had applied for a divorce, deputy coroners said they learned.

Persian Province Shaken by Quake

TEHERAN, Persia, July 15.—(AP.)—A severe earthquake today shook the Khorasan region of Persia. Although a number of villages were reported destroyed the casualties were light because of the fact that the shock came in the daytime.

The district between Shirvan and Kuchan was particularly hard hit. Disturbances also were felt at Mesched and Kuchan, while a slight shock, which caused no damage, was felt at Bender Abbas last night.

Three Youthful Gunmen Confess 100 Robberies

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP.)—Three 17-year-old youths who confessed to more than 100 robberies which netted them $15,000 were in jail today. One had a leather belt in which 68 notches had been cut, each representing a robbery.

The crimes to which they confessed included 11 armed hold-ups, in one of which Joseph Goldberg, a filling station master, was shot and seriously wounded. They said they spent the proceeds of their robberies entertaining three young girls.

The three boys, Albert Strouse, James Marchese and Israel Russo, were arrested in Brooklyn yesterday, all armed with loaded pistols. Marchese wore the notched leather belt. He said he had neglected to record all of the robberies.

The boys said most of their robberies were in apartment houses which they entered by means of fire escapes.

TWO BOY SWIMMERS LOSE THEIR LIVES IN RIVERS HERE

OVERTURNED CANOEISTS RESCUED

Ohio, Allegheny Each Claim Victim—Youth Saved Dives In Again for Friend

Two boys were drowned and two canoeists narrowly escaped the same fate in mishaps on the Ohio and Allegheny Rivers here yesterday.

Those drowned were Andrew Schayter, 14, of 421 Gardner street, McKees Rocks, who lost his life bathing with two companions in the Ohio River at Brunot's Island, and Earnest Green, 12, a Negro, of 2732 Spring way, who drowned while bathing at the foot of Twenty-first street in the Allegheny river.

Paddling close to the excursion steamer "Greater Pittsburgh" to give themselves and the passengers on the boat a "thrill" by riding the waves, Robert Bigley, 19, of West River avenue, and Frank Kusserow, 22, of 215 Harrison avenue, Bellevue, were thrown into the river when their canoe was overturned.

Bigley was hauled up on the boat but dived back into the river again to rescue his companion who was unable to swim. Government dam workers who heard cries for assistance pulled both of them out of the river into a row boat while the excursionists crowded to the rail of the steamer and watched the rescue.

LONE CARDINAL APPOINTED

VATICAN CITY, July 15.—(AP).—Pope Pius held his first secret consistory of the year today in the consistory hall of the Vatican palace. But one new Cardinal was raised to the purple—Father Lbefonso Schuster, abbott of the Basilica of St. Paul's Outside the Walls.

His Holiness indicated in his brief remarks to the assemblage of cardinals that there would be more cardinals created at next December's consistory. Cardinal Schuster will receive his Episcopal consecration next Sunday, at the hands of the Pope himself, and will later be inducted as archbishop of Milan.

No allocution was delivered, contrary to reports which have been current for some time there would be one dealing with settlement of the Roman question. The Pope said:

"Certain events transpired with which we shall deal later on in the year."

This was taken to mean the Pontiff would treat of the new relations with Italy and the Holy See in an encyclical before long.

Former Actress Hurt In Paris Auto Crash

PARIS, July 15. — (AP.) — Mrs. Waldo Pierce, former American actress and wife of the American painter and former Harvard football star, suffered painful injuries yesterday when a motor lorry, in which she was riding, was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Barbara Harrison, of New York, daughter of Frances B. Harrison, former governor general of the Philippines. Miss Harrison was slightly injured.

Mrs. Pierce was known on the stage as Ivy Troutman.

Ohio Couple Hurt When Cars Crash

WELLSVILLE, O., July 15.—Orville Campbell, 22, Toronto, is in the East Liverpool Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull and broken jawbone, as a result of an automobile crash in which Mrs. Minnie Roller, of Wellsville, sustained minor injuries. Their cars collided head-on when Campbell attempted to turn from the East Liverpool-Wellsville road onto the Lisbon highway yesterday.

Refuses Allegiance, Afghan Executed

PESHAWAR, India, July 15.—(AP.)—Afghan circles here state that Ali Ahmed Khan, prominent Afghan, has been executed for refusing to give allegiance to Ameer Habibullah, the former Bach Sakao, who is now King in Kabul. Ali for a short time ruled as King in Jalalabad in the confusion which followed the abdication of Amanullah Khan.

Theosophist's Body Cremated Abroad

STOCKHOLM, July 15.—(AP.)—The remains of Mrs. Katherine Tingley, noted theosophist leader, who died last week, were cremated at a solemn ceremony Sunday at Gothenburg. A large crowd heard addresses by Professor Esk, of Point Loma, Cal., and others. The ashes were placed in two urns, one to be kept at Visingoe, Sweden, and the other at Point Loma.

Charges Against Jimmy Walker Numerous

NE WYORK, July 15.—(AP.)—William H. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service, made public a letter he sent to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt asking the removal from office of Mayor James J. Walker for alleged misconduct in office.

Allen's letter specifically charges the Mayor with "prodigiously wasteful neglect, broken pledges, false official publicity, preventable delays, misspending, overtaxing, unfair assessing, encouraging graft and violating the law."

Announcement was made that a non-partisan committee, including former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and many Republicans would ask the Mayor to seek renomination.

NEW OAKLAND HOSPITAL DEDICATED

Montefiore Termed Good Will Offering of Jewry to Rich And Poor of Pittsburgh

City officials and men and women prominent in social and civic life in Allegheny County yesterday attended the formal dedication of the new $2,500,000 Montefiore Hospital, Fifth avenue, Oakland.

The building, towering 13 floors above the level of Fifth avenue, was characterized by Benjamin Kirshfield, vice-president of the hospital, and chairman of the meeting, as "evidence of the spirt of modern philanthropy."

HOME FOR HEALING

"It is not 'just another hospital,'" he said, "but a home for healing, a temple of health for rich and poor alike, a good-will offering from the Jews of Pittsburgh to the people at large, without distinction as to race, color or creed."

Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, was the principal speaker. Other speakers were Mrs. Henry Finkelpearl, chairman of Hospital Social Service; Nuthaniel Spear, chairman of the building committee; Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the city department Public Welfare; Mayor Charles H. Kline; Irvin F. Lehman, president, Federation Jewish Philanthropies; Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, of the Rodef Shalom Temple, and Albert C. Lehman, president of the hospital.

The services were held in the main driveway of the hospital where seats were erected for more than 3,000. Rabbi S. B. Friedman, of the Poale Zedek congregation, asked the invocation, and the benediction was delivered by Rabbi Benjamin A. Lichter of the B'nai Israel congregation. Mrs. Caroline Himelblau sang.

MAYOR ON PROGRAM

Mayor Kline and Mrs. Rauh represented the city. Mayor Kline termed the hospital the best-equipped institution in Pennsylvania. He said that it should be called a hotel hospital instead of just a hospital. He expressed regret that Judge Josiah Cohen, who is in Atlantic City, was unable to attend due to slight illness. Mayor Kline concluded by saying:

"This is a great day for Pittsburgh Jewry, and also a great day for Pittsburgh."

The hospital was open for inspection immediately after the exercises. The inspection will be continued four days, during which medical, hospital and social service groups will visit the institution as guests of the reception committee.

The hospital is built in two sections, rising at different levels from the hillside on Fifth avenue, between Chesterfield road and Darragh street. In the lower building, on Fifth avenue, are the out-patient department dispensaries, the clinics, laboratories and their related social service departments. The hospital itself, rising behind this building, joins the second floor with the sixth floor of the out-patient building.

OFFICERS ANNOUNCED

Officers of the hospital association are: President, Albert C. Lehman; vice presidents, Benjamin L. Hirshfield; J. H. Frank, Charles Dreifus, Abe Oseroff and E. C. May; treasurer, Aaron Cohen; secretary, DeWitt Maher; finance and audit, William B. Klee; purchase and insurance, Max Blum; buildings and grounds, Nathaniel Spear; medical affairs, Mr. Dreifus; out-patient and social service, Mrs. H. Finkelpearl; public relations, Charles H. Sachs, and nursing affairs, Mrs. E. J. Kaufmann.

Dr. John D. Spellman, director of the new hospital, today will be host to the Pittsburgh Hospital Conference, whose members will tour the institution. Tonight doctors of the hospital staff will show members of the Allegheny County Medical Association through the building.

The hospital will be opened to the general public Wednesday.

TARIFF BATTLE WIDENS

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP.)—The Senate Finance Committee turned its attention to the highly controversal administrative provisions of the House traiff bill today while the fight between Republicans and Democrats over various aspects of the measure gained momentum in other quarters.

The administrative provisions embody the changes from the present law voted by the House to facilitate and expand presidential authority to alter rates under the flexible tariff clause. They are regarded as comparable to the sugar schedule as a potential source of prolonged controversy after the measure reaches the Senate.

Further indications that the committee, despite pressure from Republican leaders to expedite its work, is not likely to have its report ready for the Senate's consideration as desired by August 19, were seen in the long list of witnesses remaining to be heard this week before the task of rewriting the House bill is undertaken in executive session with the Democrats excluded. Nearly 75 names were still on the list of those to be heard, although the original program for the hearings called for their completion last week.

Two subjects which have aroused widespread discussion—the forgein protests against various rate increases and the proposed 20 per cent duty on boots and shoes—figured in today's addition to the Republican-Democratic tariff controversy.

Husband of Woman Slain in 1913, Dies

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 15. — Oliver J. Price, 71, Rices Landing farmer, died late Saturday at the home of a son, Walter L. Price. Death followed an illness of two weeks and was due to pneumonia.

Price was the husband of Josephine Minor Price, whose death on September 12, 1913, at the hands of Walter Thomas, a youth employed on the Price farm, constituted a lively chapter of Greene County history. Mrs. Price was killed while sleeping in her home, her head crushed by a hatchet. Thomas was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. His death occurred a few years ago in an insane asylum, where he had been confined.

Greene Wool Clip Brings Fair Price

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 15. — Wool buyers operating in Greene County report that about 500,000 pounds, or approximately one-half of the annual crop, has been purchased. The market is reported as rather slow this year. The price paid per pound for this year's clip has varied between 31 and 32 cents.

The wool produced in Greene County is the highest quality produced in the state. It is marketed in Boston and New York.

Negro Loses Foot Under Freight Train

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 15.—Moses Bolling, 32, of Newark, N. J., a Negro, lost his right foot under a freight train at the College yards of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad.

Vice Crusader Lauds Chicago Police Head

CHICAGO, July 15.—(AP.)—The Rev. Phillip Yarrow, vice crusader and superintendent of the Illinois Vigilance Association, credited Police Commissioner William F. Russell with severing politics and protected vice and cleansing Chicago of disorderly houses.

"We know that Chicago of today is not a heaven," Yarrow said in an open letter. "It never will be. But we do know that almost a miracle has been worked during the first year of your administration."

Panderers have been driven from the streets, he said, and disorderly houses that formerly operated openly have been obliterated.

NEGROES FLEE FROM MOBS

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., July 15.—(AP.)—Negroes who fled the city in fear of mob violence will be given protection should they return, city and county authorities announced. Not a Negro was left in North Platte after mobs brandishing ropes had swooped down upon the Negro section, threatening exile or death to them because a Negro had killed a policeman.

Negroes had been ordered to "pack up or abandon their belongings" by a mob of several hundred persons. Edward Green, the slain policeman, was shot and killed by Louis Seelman, Negro, who was resisting arrest after refusing to leave town for mistreating his wife. Later in the day as other mobs formed, the Negroes started fleeing the city. They fled by auto, train, bus, horse and wagon and afoot.

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., July 15.—(AP.)—Negroes were a minus quantity here following a clash with whites, during which the former were driven from the town with clubs, guns, billiard cues, bricks and other weapons, following a fight between a Negro and a white man.

The trouble was precipitated after the fight, when an ultimatum was delivered to Negroes that they keep to one side of the main street. During sporadic outbursts, in which missiles were thrown from one side of the street to the other, a white girl was struck by a bottle, said to have been thrown by a Negro.

Patriarch of Greek Church Near Death

JERUSALEM, July 15.—(AP.)—Patriarch Damianos, of Jerusalem, was believed to be dying today. He suffered a stroke last Tuesday. The elderly Greek prelate has had a long career in the church, in the course of which the Greek synod attempted to remove him in 1908.

CARNOT'S CHURCH UNROOFED, WHOLE TOWN CONTRIBUTES TO REPLACE IT

The little village of Carnot, which has the only church in Moon Township, the Sharon Presbyterian, is devoting much of its manpower to replace the roof of the church, blown off by Friday's high wind. Sunday the congregation met in a schoolhouse.

Autos Stranded as Border Guards Scorn Overtime

WINDSOR, Ont., July 15.—(AP.)—Occupants of more than 200 automobiles from the United States were forced to remain in Canada Saturday night because, it was charged, American immigration and customs officials would not work overtime without four hours of written notice.

The visitors staged a demonstration when the Detroit and Windsor ferry halted its service for the night. Horns in the line of automobiles extending for several blocks were blown despite attempts of police to stop the disturbance. Most of the stranded tourists slept in their cars and many went to the police with protests.

Officials of the ferry said that they were willing to continue to operate boats until all of the United States cars had been taken to Detroit. They charged, however, that American immigration and customs officials declined to serve overtime without written notice.

Police have recommended that all-night ferry service be maintained during the tourist season.

DEAD WOMAN HURLED OUT OF AUTO

Speeding Driver Escapes Before License Number Can Be Seen; Victim Is 28

HATBORO, Pa., July 15.—(AP.)—The death of Mrs. Ethel Scott, 28, whose body came hurtling out of an automobile as it sped past a garage here late Saturday night, mystified the authorities today.

Theories of the investigators differed. Some held she had been slain before being hurtled out of the car, others that she had resented the attentions of a man in the car and leaped to escape, fracturing her skull in the fall.

HURLED AT WORKMAN'S FEET

Physicians at the Abington Hospital, who examined the body, said death had been caused by a blow from a blunt instrument, and that the woman probably was unconscious when she left the automobile.

The body fell almost at the feet of D'Arcy Smith, who was working in front of the garage, but the car sped around a corner so rapidly that he was unable to obtain the license number.

Mrs. Scott's body was identified by her brother and sister, Harry and Lena Fox, of Rising Sun, Md., where she formerly lived.

DIVORCED, REWED

Fox said that his sister had married William Scott about five years ago shortly after she was divorced from his first husband, Orville Hendrickson, of Avondale, Pa. Fox said Scott lived in Philadelphia, but he would not supply his address and the authorities were unable to locate him.

He added that Mrs. Scott, while visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Fox, in Rising Sun two weeks ago, appeared to be on the best of terms with Scott. She had two sons by her first husband, one of whom lived with her in Philadelphia, Fox said.

DE PRIEST SEES NEW FURORE

CHICAGO, July 15.—(INS.)—Chicago Negroes today were discussing Congressman Oscar De Priest's intention, announced in the pulpit of a church, to introduce a federal election law bill that will "create more storm than the White House tea party," at which his wife was a guest of Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

De Priest was described by Alderman Louis B. Anderson, who introduced him, as the "lone representative in Washington of 12,000,000 Negroes in the United States." In his first speech in Chicago since his election, De Priest said:

"The states south of the Mason-Dixon line bar Negroes from voting by requiring them to pass an education test before local election boards of Crackers who can't read and write themselves. My bill would put national elections in the hands of government election boards.

"I'm going to continue my tours through the South, notwithstanding threats I have received. I'm going to try to teach the colored people of their rights under the Constitution."

Ambridge Woman Honored by Club

AMBRIDGE, Pa., July 15.—Mrs. Samuel C. Mitchell will be honored at a luncheon Wednesday noon at the Beaver Valley Country Club by the American Homes Committee of the Beaver Valley County Federation of Women's Clubs of which Mrs. James I. Armstrong of Monaca is chairman.

This committee has entered Mrs. Mitchell in the $5,000 contest of the Pictorial Review prize for the woman who has done the most outstanding work for her community. Mrs. Mitchell during the past five years has conducted a school for foreigners here.

Private Tutor, 88, Dies at Cadiz Home

CADIZ, O., July 15.—(AP.)—Prof. John Howard Brown, 88, Civil War veteran and former member of the faculty of Hagerstown Academy in Carroll County, Ohio, died yesterday at his home here. He was a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pa., and had been a private tutor here for many years.

Escaped Convict's Slayers Saved From Avengers

JACKSON, Ky., July 15.—(AP.)—After shooting and killing Vard Noble, an escaped convict, and then disappearing over night, Deputy Sheriff Caleb Dunn and Mize Hensley were back home today, safe and sound, with a tale of harrowing experiences.

A posse of 15 men, sent out to search for the deputies, came upon them near Quicksand Creek. The men had stayed at the home of a friend after they had received word that friends and relatives of Noble had laid an ambush on the Jackson road.

The officers had been informed that Noble would pass along the Jackson road at a given time, they said. Accordingly, they lay in wait, but Noble apparently had information that the officers were seeking him. Instead of taking the road he came through the bushes, where the deputies were hiding, and stopped not 30 feet from them. At their command to surrender, he started firing and was shot and killed by the deputies.

Soon after the shooting, word reached the deputies that the Noble clan was out for revenge, and that an ambush had been laid on the Jackson road. They went to the home of a friend. Meanwhile, officials in Jackson, fearing that the men had met with foul play, sent out a posse to search for them. The deputies received word that the posse had passed and waited at the roadside, meeting it on the way back.

RAINBOW VETS OPEN SESSIONS

BALTIMORE, July 15.—(AP.)—Eleven years to the minute after the Fourth French Army, to which the Forty-second (Rainbow) division of the A. E. F. was attached, loosed its fury against the massed German lines along the Champagne front, that division, with its French commander, one-armed as the result of that affair, and with the French ambassador to the United States in attendance, met here last night in its annual convention.

Tears gleamed in the eyes of Gen. Henri Etienne Gouraud, now military governor of Paris and permanent honorary president of the Rainbow veterans, as Paul Claudel, French ambassador to the United States, rose to deliver, he said, to those veterans a flag, "a mutilated flag of a wounded nation, a living flag, living symbol of honor, courage and sacrifice."

Today 3,000 members of the outfit were to march down the streets of Baltimore, led by Gen. Gouraud, to be reviewed by President Hoover. In the line of march will be various other military units, sent from surrounding camps and forts to augment the parade. At the same time, members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Rainbow Division will entertain Mrs. Hoover at a tea at the hotel headquarters of the convention.

NEGRO NABBED AS BANK BANDIT

HARRISBURG, Pa., —July 15.—(AP.)—The last of the trio of robbers who a week ago, slugged the cashier of the Dauphin National Bank and escaped with $1,200, is under arrest.

Acting upon a tip from Hagerstown, Md., police went to the Maryland city and arrested Clarence Stanton, 25, negro, in a cigar store. Stanton's home is in Steelton, near here.

He will be given a hearing this week on charge of robbery, assault and battery with intent to kill, and carrying concealed weapons. His companions, Joseph Cork, also of Steelton, and Fred Campbell, of this city, a former coal and iron policeman, are in jail here awaiting trial.

Stanton confessed, police say, that he was one of the two who entered the bank and struck the cashier over the head. He charged Cork with being the instigator of the crime.

No money was found on the man. His share of the loot was estimated to be $358.

Check Yellow Fever Spread in Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia, July 15.—(AP.)—The yellow fever epidemic in the City of Socorro, Santander province, was officially pronounced under control by the national department of hygiene. The few remaining cases have been isolated and authorities expect no further outbreaks because of the strict quarantine regulations.

KING RECOVERS VALUABLES

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 15.—(AP.)—King Albert has recovered the articles of great sentimental value which were stolen from his bath house on Friday while he was swimming at Mariakerke. The thief was arrested at Blakenberge today when he attempted to sell his booty to the jeweler.

He gave the name of Itchen Alexander and said he was born in Kiev, Russia. He admitted the theft, but declared that he was unaware of the identity of his victim. King Albert, as he likes to do, had gone to the resort incognito and accompanied only by an orderly. Beside a pocketbook containing 500 francs, his gold watch and gold pen knife, which were valued highly for their associations, were taken.

The ruler did not conceal his displeasure at the robbery and the fact that this important sea resort did not enjoy better protective service.

CUTTER TOWING DISABLED SHIP

BOSTON, July 15.—(AP.)—Radio reports received here from the coast guard cutter Modoc said that it had reached the steam trawler Harvard, which was reported in need of assistance off the Maine Coast and had started to tow the craft to Boston. The skipper of the Harvard said that his net became tangled in the propeller and that it would be necessary to drydock the boat.

The Modoc was on its way from this port to relieve the Tampa on ice patrol when ordered to go to the aid of the Harvard.

Lindbergh Lauds Endurance Flight

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh believes the 246-hour endurance flight of Loren W. Mendell and Roland Reinhart in the plane Angeleno will be "of great value to commercial aviation."

"Not only was their work remarkable from the standpoint of human endurance," Col. Lindbergh commented, "but it also demonstrated the extraordinary reliability of present-day airplane motors."

Ex-Peddler Sells $650,000 Building

NEWARK, N. J., July 15.—(AP.)—Costas A. Psichos, a Greek immigrant who started a fruit stand 35 years ago, has sold a five-story brick building for $650,000. He rose from peddling to real estate operations.

Another Skyscraper Goes Up in New York

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP.)—A 58-story office building is to be erected at the corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-second street. The site is assessed at $28,000 per front foot.

LIQUOR SUPPLY SURVEY BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP.)—The Prohibition Bureau is expected to begin a survey in a few days to find out exactly how much of the 15,000,000 gallons of liquor supposed to be in the nation's government-controlled medicinal supply is actually in storage.

Surveyors of distilleries estimate that the official total has dwindled to about 7,000,000 gallons through leakage, evaporation, theft and adulteration. If the government survey shows less than 10,000,000 gallons on hand, steps probably will be taken at once to bring about resumption of distillation so as to replenish the supply and allow time for the required four years of aging for the new product.

2 DEAD AFTER ROW AT PARTY

SOMERSET, Ky., July 15.—(AP.)—Two men, one of whom was not concerned in the argument, were dead today as the result of a shooting affray at the home of Hiram Sexton, 65, last night, which started when Sexton admonished several young people at his home for making so much noise.

Sexton's warning resulted in a quarrel and a few seconds later guns were blazing. Sexton dropped, mortally wounded, and died a few seconds later.

Witnesses said Sexton was shot by Raymond Huff, 21, one of the visitors. Huff was struck twice in the exchange of shots but his wounds were slight. The younger man ran out the door following the shooting and fled on horseback, followed by Claude Sexton, 21, son of the dead man.

The horseback chase continued almost to Huff's home when young Sexton, who had gained, fired, killing Huff's horse. Huff ran into a cornfield and hid and Sexton, thinking Huff had gone to his home, rode up to the door and demanded that he come out.

The call was answered by Cecil Merkel, 21, who was calling on his sweetheart at the Huff home. As Merkle appeared in the door with a flashlight, his sweetheart by his side, Sexton fired, killing him. Sexton fled but was captured today at Burnside, near here.

Huff is still at large.

Butler County Man, In Swimming, Dies

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 15. — Walter J. Mantag, 29, of Jefferson, Butler County, was drowned in Slippery Rock Creek at McConnell's Mills, while bathing. Unable to swim, he got beyond a safe depth and despite efforts of a brother, drowned before his family, with whom he had been spending the day. A pulmotor was brought from the police department at New Castle but without success.

The drowned man had been accompanied by his wife, a 3-year-old daughter, his parents, sisters and a brother.

Boy Anglers Hook Parrot; Police Come

NEW YORK, July 15.—The fishing was fine for Theodore Marron, 10, and Joseph Sheopun, 11, until they hooked a parrot. The screams of the bird brought a policeman to the roof of a pet shop. He found the fishermen angling for pets through a skylight with an open padlock on the end of a string.

Fall Proves Fatal To Greensburg Man

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 15.—A fall of 10 feet from his front porch to the stone pavement resulted in the death of Grant Kuhns, 54, of Greensburg. Kuhns alighted upon his head and sustained a fractured skull.

Judge Who Tried Thaw Sanity Case Dies

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., July 15.—(AP.)—Former Supreme Court Justice Isaac . Mills, before whom the first suit brought to test the sanity of Harry K. Thaw, was tried and who later was counsel for Leonard Kip Rhinelander and for James A. Stillman, is dead at his home here.

Justice Mills retired from the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in 1921, after 27 years on the bench. He was a descendant of John Mills, who came to Massachusetts from England in Governor Winthrop's Fleet.

MEXICAN REBEL LEAGUE QUITS

MEXICO CITY, July 15.—(AP.)—The National League for defense of religious liberty, which was long alleged to have supported the so-called Cristero rebellion, in a manifesto to the nation admitted it had supported the movement and declared the time had come to lay down arms and adopt other means of restoring the rights of the church.

Instead of continued warfare it called for a national referendum to determine the will of the people in regard to laws governing religious activities in Mexico. Jose Tello, secretary of the league, who signed the manifesto, declared that this is in line with the statement of President Portes Gil on June 21 when he said that every inhabitant has the right to petition.

The manifesto said that the league resorted to armed force because all other means of defending church rights had been exhausted. Although it said that neither the Mexican episcopate nor the Vatican had anything to do with the armed movement, the league would respect the decision of the Vatican and abide by the agreement made between church and state.

This agreement, however, was said to be an "armistice" to give opportunity for negotiations toward final settlement of the differences.

Two Wash. County Stills Discovered

WASHNGTON, Pa., July 15.—Two alleged moonshiners were taken into custody by officers in weekend raids. Frank Presto, 50, 735 Allison avenue, was arrested when a 30-gallon still was found in his home. W. H. Bryson, 40, a millworker, who recently moved into the rural section of Amity, was arrested when a 15-gallon still was discovered.

Weather Conditions.

A low pressure area, centered over the South Atlantic Coast is producing cloudy weather with showers from Pennsylvania southward to the gulf. The rainfall was generally light over that section. Showers were general over Iowa and Missouri, heavy over Southern Iowa and Northern Missouri. This showery condition is due to a low pressure area developing over Kansas. A rather marked high pressure area is centered over the lake region developing eastward. Moderately cool weather is general.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.3 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.0; Dam No. 6, 8.5; Dam No. 9, 9.4, and Dam No. 12, 6.2. The dams are up.

Driver, 73, Lives After Plunge Over Cliff

SANDUSKY, O., July 15.—(AP.)—Running wild at 60 miles an hour, an automobile with a 73-year-old driver, who was helpless through fright, plunged from a 30 foot cliff near here and landed in Lake Erie. The driver, A. W. Miles, a farmer of East Norwalk, Ohio, was injured seriously, but surgeons said he probably would recover.

Witnesses said apparently the accelerator of the car had jammed. The automobile, tearing out bushes and small trees in its path as it rushed from the road, landed 14 feet from shore. Miles was rescued by passing motorists.

Three Seek Places On Judicial Ticket

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 15. — Judge James I. Brownson, president judge of Washington County, has formally announced his candidacy for renomination by the Republicans at the September primaries. Republicans will nominate two for judge. Judge Howard W. Hughes, appointed some weeks ago as the second additional law judge created by the 1929 Legislature, will seek renomination, and Attorney D. M. McCloskey, of Charleroi, is already in the field as a candidate.

Musician Is Killed In Roadhouse Fight

BRADFORD, Pa., July 15.—(AP.)—Frank Wilson, 50, Olean, N. Y., musician, was fatally hurt at a roadhouse in Eldred, 12 miles from here, in what police said was a brawl. Coroner H. Clay Heffner said an autopsy revealed Wilson's neck was broken. O. D. Schoonover, of Rixford, was arrested and charged with involuntary manslaughter as an outgrowth of the fight.

Wilson came from Olean to play at a dance, it was said, the fight following the dance.

Inventor of Remedy For Gas Burns Dies

INDIANAPOLIS, July 15.—(AP.)—Dr. Lafayette Page, internationally known as specialist of diseases of the ear, nose and throat, died at his home here yesterday. Heart disease from which he had suffered since the World War, was the cause of his death.

Dr. Page, who was 66 years old, was an authoritative writer on subjects of nose, ear and throat diseases. He developed a treatment for gas burns and gas poison that was adopted by all the allied forces.

CANADIAN AIR MAIL LOOTED

LONDON, July 15.—(AP.)—Many registered packages of considerable value were missing when Canadian mails arrived here yesterday. A portion of the Montreal air mail was found to have been rifled.

Although the air mail bag seemed to be intact when the steamer Laurentic docked at Liverpool, about 80 registered packets couldn't be accounted for.

When the Laurentic reached Liverpool postal officials there found a mysterious discrepancy between the contents of one bag of registered mail and the number of packages listed on the official record which accompanies each bag.

The mystery was all the more baffling because the official seals were not broken and the bag itself was not damaged. The mail was taken from Montreal by airplane and transferred to the liner at sea.

PLAN SCHOOL AT BRADDOCK

A regional Catholic high school, to cost about $200,000 will be erected soon on Verona street, Braddock, to serve the district from Trafford to Swissvale. The school is part of the building plan prepared for the Pittsburgh diocese, for which a drive was made several years ago.

Approximately half of the cost of the building will come from a bequest of $105,656.63 from the estate of William W. Vilsack. The additional funds will be supplied from the school funds. Plans for the building are now being completed. It will be erected on property owned by the St. Thomas congregation.

Hangs Self in Cell, Necktie for Noose

ALTOONA, Pa., July 15.—(AP.)—W. O. Biddle, 27, of Altoona, committed suicide by hanging in the Blair County jail where he was awaiting trial on a charge of larceny. He used a necktie, fastening one end to a nail used to hold clothing of the cell occupant. Despondency and nervousness was believed to have prompted the act. The widow and three children survive.

RECORD FLIERS TELL PERILS OF REFUELING PLANE

LIVES MENACED BY CHOPPY AIR CURRENTS

Mendell and Reinhart Fight Hard to Keep Awake, But Finally Conquer Obstacles

By LOREN MENDELL
and
R. B. REINHART,

Pilots of the endurance plane Angeleno, which landed Friday after smashing all world's endurance flight marks.

(Written Especially for the Los Angeles Examiner and Universay Service, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Rough choppy air during refueling contacts formed one of our chief sources of worry, particularly in the daytime, when the heat made the air extremely bumpy.

That condition, we might add, however, does not usually prevail about Los Angeles. In that respect we were simply unfortunate and had to make the best of the situation.

The task of refuelling in choppy air, of course, is tremendously more difficult than ordinarily and consequently that much more dangerous. There is always the possibility that the refuelling ship might hit an air pocket that the endurance ship might miss. That would send the nurse ship either plunging down on the endurance ship or might send it 30 or 40 feet straight up, breaking contact with disastrous results.

The endurance plane, on the other hand, might hit a pocket which lay just below the level of the nurse ship with similar dire results.

NARROW ESCAPE

That menacing condition we were forced to fight to the utmost for six or seven days of the Angeleno's flight. Once, through a miscalculation, the hose missed our propellor by inches and we went clammy and limp with fright.

In refuelling, it is necessary for the nurse ship to maintain level flight while the endurance ship gradually comes into position, usually about 30 feet away. Thirty-five feet is the maximum distance which can separate the ships without breaking contact, but a five-foot safety factor is almost essential, since both ships sway in the air.

But we never broke contact once with the nurse ship. That speaks volumes for our refueling pilots, Paul Whittier and Slade Hulbert. They gave as masterful a sample of flying as we have ever witnessed and they made the new world's endurance record possible.

There was one occasion, however, on July 8, when the refueling stunt came as close to bringing disaster to all of us as it is comfortable to think about even now.

Through a miscalculation, we made contact in the fog. For about five terrifying minutes we were flying virtually blind, as were Whittier and Slade in the nurse plane. It was virtually impossible for us at the time to see the nurse ship. It was a case of instinct and luck—and our luck held. But it was also a hair-raising experience whose very thought still causes goose pimples to break out.

FACE CRASH

Just a single slip in the blinding fog, a fraction of a moment's hesitation, the least error on the part of the refueling ship pilot or on ours would have ended everything for the four of us then and there.

But as time went on and we obtained more experience, the dread left us to a great extent. The refueling operation became less difficult. We became more confident and finally we began to look forward to our refueling contact with pleasure, since the nurse ship was our only link with the world below. They began to bring us telegrams, newspapers and letters of encouragement. They also brought us supplies which we needed sadly.

Those telegrams and letters, we might say, were a life-saver. Here we were in a world all our own, fighting the elements, battling fogs and sleep and fatigue, our nerves on edge and our minds in a semi-stupor.

Then up would come the refueling ship with its burden of encouragement to give us renewed confidence. In the face of that confidence, we could not give up in spite of our own discomforts, downright torture and constant anxiety.

Particularly, we felt that we could not give up in the face of the confidence that the people of Los Angeles, our own home-towners, and the people in the rest of the country felt in us. So we gritted our teeth and continued. We decided that as long as that faithful old Wright Whirlwind motor continued to purr like a contented tom-cat and the Buhl air-sedan likewise functioned perfectly we could do no less than keep going.

DISASTER LOOMS

At times, particularly in the first few days of the flight, lack of sleep brought us close to disaster time and time again. Repeatedly, we would slosh water into our faces as we felt ourselves nodding off at the controls. That aided us a great deal. We did that almost constantly. But after a time, even this resort to cold water began to fail us.

Time and time again, one of us would doze off at the controls—pass away in nightmarish slumber. Outraged nature apparently was having her way with us.

Then we would wake up with a start to find the nightmare almost a reality—our staunch little ship in a screeching glide to earth.

Each time this occurred, of course, the terrifying experience would keep us awake for a half hour or so, nerves throbbing. Then we would fall asleep again and go through the same hair-raising performance. During those first few days, it was a continuous fight, just a remorseless and apparently never-ending tilt with danger and possible death below.

TERRIBLY TIRED

That tendency to doze off, strangely, was much stronger on the second and third days of the flight than later. Towards the end of the flight, it seemed as if our bodies became more accustomed to the unusual conditions and the terrific grind.

We became terribly tired as the days dragged on, but found sleep almost impossible. Our bodies seemed at the lowest ebb and our nerves at the raw. We ached throughout and our legs, from their cramped positions, pained us terribly. But sleep was almost impossible.

We would lie on our air mattresses during off hours, tossing and tumbling fitfully, trying to get a few moments of refreshing sleep and usually being unable to get even that much rest.

At the beginning of the flight, we had an idea of flying not above the airport, but to various cities and towns such as San Diego, Bakersfield and even San Francisco. But the first couple of days taught us our lesson. We discovered that time passed much more quickly in circling the Culver City airport from which we had taken off, than in flying about.

We came to the conclusion that this was due perhaps to the fact that we kept our eyes glued to the watch when going somewhere, wondering when we would get there. That made the time seem doubly long, of course.

So we confined ourselves to the airport and Los Angeles, where we had nothing to worry us except keeping the ship going and guarding against mishaps of any kind.

That, of course kept our eyes off the watch, to a great extent, and on the job in hand.

WATCH CROWDS

Up until the time the record was finally shattered, we flew as far as Long Beach and north as far as Mt. Wilson, up the valley to the Metropolitan airport, over Glendale and all along the ocean front.

The crowds on the beaches diverted us considerably. We even went so far as to flirt a little with the bathing beauties now and then but that sort of flirtation isn't exactly satisfactory. We decided we had bes confine our flirting to land.

Of course, the rules of the National Aeronautical Association, provide that to establish an endurance record, the plane must land and take-off at the same airport. Therefore, after Joe Nikrent on the ground had waved that long-awaited checkered flag to inform us that we held a new world's endurance record in our possession, we began to stick close to the field, within gliding range.

That seemed easy, but proved otherwise. Heavy blanketing fogs crept in almost every night towards the last and we began to have our hands full every minute. Those unforgettable fogs!

ITALY BESTOWS TOP HONOR ON ROME FLIERS

Thousands Cheer Williams And Yancy in Elaborate Ceremony at Flying Field

By ROGER Q. WILLIAMS, Pilot and CAPT. LEWIS A. YANCEY, Navigator

Of the Airplane Pathfinder Which Flew From Old Orchard Beach to Rome.

ROME, July 15.—At 6 o'clock last night we were jolted down the Gittorio airport, Rome's happy flying ground. There were cheers to the right of us and shouts to the left of us, with Roman salutes.

The gay and smiling faces of cheerful boys in black shirts and radiant girls in black skirts shone on all Fascisti roads that were lined for miles with the huge Sunday crowd. It showed us that Rome is alive and that "young Italy" is as enthusiastic as "young America" can be.

We steered safely through the crowded lane of cars and got to the gate of the airport where the daughter of Prince Lancellotti, president of the air port, and a little boy, presented us with a huge bouquet of flowers.

The grand stand cheered wildly as the officials put us into motor cars to parade us around the field to give the crowd a chance to see the "two American wonders."

CHEERED EVERYWHERE

There were cheers and cheers everywhere. Never was there such a wild burst of joyful enthusiasm. Then they lifted us out of the car and walked us around the field along the edge of the crowd. Some kissed us, some shook hands, some cried.

At the grand stand Gen. Balbo received us and presented us with a gold medal, the highest Italian flying decoration. The squadron of Italian planes with mumming and throbbing motors were only waiting for the signal, at which they glided into the air amid streams of light and circled around the field in beautiful formation.

The spectacle was a great and instructive lesson which we American flyers can well appreciate, each plane dipping, moving and following a prescribed course in the evolutions with wonderful ease and dexterity—evidence of the marvelous training of the Italian flying corps, under the command of Gen. Balbo, Gen. De Pinedo, and other glorious leaders.

Our glorious old Pathfinder was then rolled down the field towards the grandstand in the midst of breathless expectation. It stood out in perfect trim, the beautiful ship of burden that had carried us so far and so well.

FLY PATHFINDER

We confess we stepped into it with pride and satisfaction.

We took Gen. Balbo and Gen. De Pinedo up to show them our appreciation of all the enthusiasm shown by Rome, and the wonderful cordiality bestowed upon us.

Young Italy and Young America flew side by side in the good old Pathfinder over that field in the glorious Roman sunset. Round and round we sailed, gently, in perfect balance, showing to the Romans the grand qualities of our ship to the frantic applause, cheers and shouts of tens of thousands of spectators.

We landed near the grand stand, where the whole crowd seemed to rush up once more to express their delight.

Today's honors will always be remembered.

Gen. Balbo, who accompanied us when we went to lay a wreath on the tomb of Italy's unknown soldier, later on presented us with a beautiful silk flying pennant in the name of the government. The ceremony made us honorary members of Italy's Royal Air Club.

pital orderly. When Kemmerich is dead it will be too late. Therefore Muller is already on the watch.

We have lost all sense of other considerations, because they are artificial. Only the facts are real and important to us. And good boots are scarce.

Once it was different. When we went to the District Commandant to enlist, we were a class of 20 young men, many of whom had proudly shaved for the first time before going to the barracks. We had no definite plans for our future. Our thoughts of a career and occupation were as yet of too unpractical a character to furnish any scheme of life. We were still crammed full of vague ideas which gave to life, and to the war also, an ideal and almost romantic character. We were trained in the army for 10 weeks and in this time more profoundly influenced than by 10 years at school. We learned that a bright button is weightier than four volumes of Schopenhauer. At first astonished, then embittered, and finally indifferent, we recognized that what matters is not the mind, but the boot brush, not intelligence, but the system, not freedom, but drill. We became soldiers with eagerness and enthusiasm, but they have done everything to knock that out of us. After three weeks it was no longer incomprehensible to us that a braided postman should have more authority over us than had formerly our parents, our teachers, and the whole gamut of culture from Plato to Goethe. With our young, awakened eyes we saw that the classical conception of the Fatherland held by our teachers resolved itself here into a renunciation of personality such as one would not ask of the meanest servant — salutes, springing to attention, parade marches, presenting arms, right wheel, left wheel, clicking the heels, insults, and a thousand pettifogging details. We had fancied our task would be different, only to find we were to be trained for heroism as though we were circus ponies. But we soon accustomed ourselves to it. We learned, in fact, that some part of these things was necessary, but the rest merely show. Soldiers have a fine nose for such distinctions.

By threes and fours our class was scattered over the platoons amongst Frisian fishermen, peasants, and laborers with whom we soon made friends. Kropp, Muller, Kemmerich and I went to No. 9 platoon under Corp. Himmelstoss.

He had the reputation of being the strictest disciplinarian in the camp, and was proud of it. He was a small undersized fellow with a foxy, waxed mustache, who had seen 12 years' service and was in civil life a postman. He had a special dislike for Kropp, Tjaden, Westhus and me, because he sensed a quiet defiance.

I have remade his bed 14 times in one morning. Each time he had some fault to find and pulled it to pieces. I have kneaded a pair of prehistoric boots that were as hard as iron for 20 hours—with intervals of course—until they became as soft as butter and not even Himmelstoss could find anything more to do to them; under his orders I have scrubbed out the Corporals' Mess with a toothbrush. Kropp and I were given the job of clearing the barrack square of snow with a hand-broom and a dustpan, and we would have gone on till we were frozen had not a lieutenant accidentally appeared who sent us off, and hauled Himmelstoss over the coals. But the only result of this was to make Himmelstoss hate us more. For six weeks consecutively I did guard every Sunday and was hut orderly for the same length of time. With full pack and rifle I have had to practice on a soft, wet, newly ploughed field the "Prepare to advance, advance!" and the "Lie down!" until I was one lump of mud and finally collapsed. Four hours later I had to report to Himmelstoss with my clothes scrubbed clean, my hands chafed and bleeding. Together with Kropp, Westhus and Tjaden I have stood at attention in a hard frost without gloves for a quarter of an hour at a stretch, while Himmelstoss watched for the slightest movement of our bare fingers on the steel barrel of the rifle. I have run eight times from the top floor of the barracks down to the courtyard in my shirt at 2 o'clock in the morning because my drawers projected three inches beyond the edge of the stool on which one had to stack all one's things. Alongside me ran the corporal, Himmelstoss, and trod on my bare toes. At bayonet practice I had constantly to fight with Himmelstoss, I with a heavy iron weapon whilst he had a handy wooden one with which he easily struck my arms till they were black and blue. Once, indeed, I became so infuriated that I ran at him blindly and gave him a mighty jab in the stomach and knocked him down. When he reported me the company commander laughed at him and told him he ought to keep his eyes open; he understood Himmelstoss, and apparently was not displeased at his discomfiture. I became a past master on the horizontal bars and strove to surpass my instructor at physical jerks;—we have trembled at the mere sound of his voice, but this runaway post horse never got the better of us.

One Sunday as Kropp and I were lugging a latrine bucket on a pole across the barrack yard, Himmelstoss came by all polished up and spry for going out. He planted himself in front of us and asked us how we liked the job. In spite of ourselves we tripped and emptied the bucket over his legs. He raved, but the limit had been reached.

"That means clink," he yelled.

But Kropp had had enough. "There'll be an inquiry first," he said, "and then we'll unload."

"Mind how you speak to a non-commissioned officer!" bawled Himmelstoss. "Have you lost your senses? You wait till you're spoken to. What will you do, anyway?"

"Show you up, Corporal," said Kropp, his thumbs in line with the seams of his trousers.

Himmelstoss saw what we meant and went off without saying a word. But before he disappeared he growled: "You'll drink this!"—but it was the end of his authority. He tried it on once more in the ploughed field with his "Prepare to advance, advance" and "Lie down." We obeyed each order, since an order's an order and has to be obeyed. But we did it so slowly that Himmelstoss became desperate. Carefully we went down on our knees, then on our hands, and so on; in the meantime, quite infuriated, he had given another command. But before we had even begun to sweat he was hoarse. After that he left us in peace. He did indeed always refer to us as swine, but there was, nevertheless, a certain respect in his tone.

There were many other staff corporals, the majority of whom were more decent. But above all each of them wanted to keep his good job there at home as long as possible, and that he could do only by being strict with the recruits.

Practically every conceivable polishing job in the entire camp fell to us and we often howled with rage. Many of us became ill through it; Wolf actually died of inflammation of the lung. But we would have felt ridiculous had we hauled down our colors. We became hard, suspicious, pitiless, vicious, tough—and that was good; for these attributes had been entirely lacking in us. Had we gone into the trenches without this period of training most of us would certainly have gone mad. Only thus were we prepared for what awaited us. We did not break down, but endured; our 20 years, which made many another thing so grievous, helped us in this. But by far the most important was that it awakened in us a strong, practical sense of esprit de corps which in the field developed into the finest thing that arose out of the war—comradeship.

FOREST LOVE by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Begs Roger to Take Her Along on Long Mountain Trip

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, vibrant and beautiful, becomes cynical toward love when she gives up Mat Tully at her mother's request because he is poor. She encourages the attention of Jack Beamer, wealthy married man, who, enamored of Nancy, wishes to divorce his wife. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with a handsome ranger, Roger Decatur. Leaving her chaperons, the rich Porters, Nancy, after a violent but brief courtship, secretly marries Roger. Doubts assail her as she spends long, lonely days in his rough mountain cabin. She is startled by the telephone bell. It is Mrs. McKimmons, a neighboring ranger's wife. Nancy is troubled as she pictures herself growing to be like her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

HELEN McKIMMONS telephoned twice, but Nancy didn't go back to the lookout on the hill.

"Mrs. McKimmons is a nice little thing. Don't you like her?" Roger questioned curiously.

"Yes—she's awfully nice."

"Well, then, I should think you girls—" But Nancy's mobile face darkened so quickly that he didn't finish. He was going to say "You girls could keep each other company while McKimmons and I are away." But the least mention of going away upset her so that he hardly dared speak of it. He wondered how other fellows managed. Perhaps rangers oughtn't to marry at all . . . but how could he get along without Nancy or Nancy without him. They belonged to each other . . . things would work out some way.

He followed her out to the lean-to kitchen, suddenly hungry for the sight of her, aching to hold her in his arms.

"Nancy—"

She was making icing for a cake, whisking the egg-beater, repeating from memory as she whisked—"Add sugar, beat seven minutes . . ."

"Roger, just look in the oven will you? I can't leave this—"

He opened the door, eyes still on her. "Looks all right to me . . .oh Nancy girl, you're beautiful. I don't suppose anyone ever told you that before!"

"Look at the cake!"

"The heck with the cake . . .what's a cake . . .love your old man, honey? Do you? Just a little—"

"Idiot, you know I do—that's why I'm slaving in your old kitchen, making cake for you . . .stop. I've got to beat the icing!" But she didn't beat the icing, she left it to thicken and bubble unstirred on the stove. She couldn't resist Roger. She never could. Not since the day in the Meadows when the bus went off without her and she lay, tearful and happy in his arms, in a freshly rain-washed world, with violets blooming through the soft green carpet of the grass, and the blue sky above . . .

"Roger, no one ever loved as we do—"

"No, Nancy . . .Nancy, kiss me again—oh, my dear, what would I do without you? I wasn't living before you came—"

"Don't ever leave me—"

They clung together, happy . . .happy . . .happy.

The smell of burnt cake came from the oven. The ruined icing boiled on the stove. Smoke curled round the kitchen.

"Roger Decatur, you've gone and made me burn my cake!"

Roger jerked it out of the oven—burnt to a crisp. There was a little round spot in the middle, quite unspoiled. They ate it gingerly; it was so hot. Their laughter echoed through the little house. What's a cake? What's a smoky, sticky kitchen, when you're in love?

While they cleaned up the mess together she said, "We'll always be like this, "won't we . . . carefree, I mean . . . not settled and horribly married like the McKimmons—"

He didn't understand. "Why, I always thought they were an ideal couple. Gee, they seem happy. And they've got a mighty fine little kid."

"Yes—he's cute," Nancy slammed the cupboard. "Let's get out of the kitchen—"

And she thought, walking back to "the sitting room," her arms interlaced with Roger's . . . "Oh, well, you can't expect men to understand those things . . . besides it's the girl that sets the pace in marriage. That McKimmons girl likes her life . . . she made it for herself . . . Roger and I will never be like that . . . domestic and shabby . . . We're lovers . . . we're different."

It was easy to feel that when he was with her. When he was away it wasn't so simple.

She'd wave to him from the doorway when he would ride away on Maggie, or go chugging and backfiring down the narrow, dusty road in the old roadster. Then she'd go back to the kitchen, scene of their joyous, picnic breakfast.

And it would seem that a spell had come over the place. There would be nothing joyous or picnicky about it now. Just shabby and greasy. Full of dirty dishes. She would poke up the fire and put a kettle on to heat. Imagine having to heat water for everything . . .dish washing, bathing, everything . . .

While the water would be heating she would go back to the big room that had seemed so cozy and romantic last night. The fat iron stove would look at her coldly. She'd see the nail holes in the home-made bookcases, the stuffing beginning to work through the cretonne covering of the barrel chair, the dust Roger had tracked onto the Navajo rugs . . . It looked like Helen McKimmons' place . . .

Hastily she would run to the mirror, study her lovely face in the glass. Was her skin getting leathery? Was her hair as bright and soft as it was?

She would look at her roughened hands . . .wonder how long before she'd have another manicure . . .get to thinking about home . . . mamma . . .Louis . . .Jack Beamer . . .

Suppose she had married Jack instead . . .Visions of life as it might have been would go racing through her head . . .A maid. All her clothes in order . . .soft lights, a silken bed . . .

It helped to pass the time, dreaming about what Jack was doing. It was a sort of game, imagining herself at his side, taking her place as his wife. She would see herself, slim and golden and beautiful, dropping an ermine wrap carelessly behind her at the horseshow, leaning forward in her glittering gorgeous gown to watch Jack's hunter take the blue ribbon . . .Riding in his low slung, powerful car, heedless of traffic cops, speeding . . .Wearing expensive, disarmingly simple tailor-mades, half smothered in silver fox furs . . .

Just a game! She didn't want that life really . . .not if it would mean giving up Roger . .Roger, her lover . .

And she'd fly to the window and begin watching for him . . . hours before he could possibly return.

He never had to wait for his dinner. The table was always set, and the food dried up to a mere nothing, long before six.

"Why don't you take Maggie and ride in the afternoons?" he asked her, over and over.

"I will sometime," she'd say evasively.

The truth was that she didn't enjoy riding alone. With him beside her she rode like a cowgirl.

Alone, she rode slowly, her eyes on the horse's ears, nervous, worried, picturing herself and the horses at the bottom of every cliff. And besides she'd always be wondering if he hadn't got home early, and turn back to make sure, before her ride had really begun.

One night he asked her again, "Don't you care to ride, Maggie?"

"Not particularly alone."

He sucked on his pipe in silence for a long moment. "Then you won't care if I take her when I'm gone for two or three days with McKimmons?"

So he was going. He hadn't given up the idea at all.

"I don't care what you take, if you don't take me!"

"I can't do that, Nancy."

"You could if you wanted to. There's no rule against it, is there?"

"Now, look here, Nancy, don't be babyish. I've put this thing off as long as I can. We've got to go now, in a day or so."

"I'm not babyish. I'm just telling you, I won't stay here without you—"

"Now, now—Nancy!" He tried to touch her, to take her in his arms, but she slid through his fingers and evaded his grasp.

"Don't make it hard for me, girl!"

"Don't make it hard for me . . . oh Roger, don't leave me . . . don't—please don't!"

She wept then, and he confronted her as he would a frightened child. "Don't cry, honey . . . it will be all right . . . don't cry!"

She waited, rigid, for his promise.

ALL STOMACH TROUBLES

ACIDINE never fails to banish and keep it away.
This remarkable new discovery really banishes, not merely relieves, indigestion, acidosis, gassiness, sour stomach, sick headache, acid stomach, chronic constipation, head colds and acid rheumatism. It alkalizes, balances excess acid, keeps the whole digestive system sweet and clean.
ACIDINE is the only perfect, modern, anti-acid which is combined with Japtase, a powerful starch digestant—it digests 900 times its own weight of pure potato starch in 30 minutes. Your stomach deserves protection. ACIDINE gives it.
A meat and starch digestant, anti-acid and carminative beyond compare. Soothing to the stomach and intestinal membranes. Slightly laxative, but not excessively so. A really perfect medicine for mother, father, children and babies. Used and recommended by physicians everywhere. Money back guarantee. POPE RECEIVES U. S. FLIERS

ROME, July 15.—Received by the Pope and feted at a state dinner, Roger Q. Williams and Capt. Lewis A. Yancey, the Pathfinder fliers, hopped off today for San Rossore, summer residence of the royal family, near Pisa, where they are to be entertained at lunch by King Victor Emmanuel.

Later in the day they will go to Seste Calende, on Lake Maggiere, to visit the great Italian hydroplane station. On Tuesday they will return to Rome.

Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher came to Rome yesterday from Monte Cattini especially to attend the state dinner given last night to 500 guests in honor of the fliers at the Hotel Excelsior. All of Rome's highest state officials, dignitaries and distinguished society people were present.

Gen. Balbo, chief of Italian army aviators, read a letter of greeting to the fliers sent by Premier Mussolini. In a speech following the reading of the letter from Mussolini, Gen. Balbo said:

BALBO TO FLY

"Williams and Yancey, I promise you in the presence of your ambassador that I will pay you a visit by flying from Rome to New York, and very soon, in an Italian civil plane. I promise also that before long regular flights from Rome to New York, with the cooperation of Italian and American aviation, will become an accomplished fact."

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon Pope Pius received Williams and Yancey in private audience, at which time the Pathfinder fliers delivered to His Holiness the letter they brought from Cardinal Hayes, of New York, at the instance of the New York American. They were accompanied to the Vatican City by Monsignor Burke, of the American College.

POPE INTERESTED

The Pope asked them many questions about their flight which they answered in detail. Taking the letters they brought, he thanked them for having brought the messages from his "beloved sons in America."

After 20 minuts' conversation the Pope presented the fliers with two medals just coined, like those that are to be issued next week commemorating the reconciliation of the church and the Italian state.

Williams and Yancey will leave Wednesday for Paris in a big Bellanca plane. They will remain at the French capital for two days and will then go to London for two days and sail from there on the first liner they can catch. The Pathfinder will go with them on the same ship.

Local police officer ends aching, burning feet

Coolene is securing these remarkable results not only in this city but everywhere. Officer A. C. Evans, of Lancaster, Pa., pictured above, another popular policeman, says "Coolene ended the burning and aching of my feet at once."

EVERY day, rain or shine, you'll find Officer Wm. A. Maynard directing traffic at his important post here in Pittsburgh. But hard city pavements scorn the law, and even policemen can suffer foot tortures. It wasn't long before Officer Maynard began to get burning, aching feet. Every muscle pained him. Then one day a friend told him about Coolene. He tried it—and lucky for him! Here's the story in his own words:

"Being a policeman may have its advantages—but it certainly is hard on the feet! There was a time not so long ago when I thought corns and sore feet were part of the job. Not any more! Ever since one of the men on the force put me wise to Coolene I haven't known what it means to have burning, aching feet. You can use my 'say-so' for whatever it's worth—Coolene ended my foot troubles almost at once."

Coolene soothes and heals sore, aching feet—instantly! It contains rare, penetrating oils—and two world-old, soothing unguents—frankincense and myrrh, used by the ancients for centuries.

Get Coolene today. This wonderful healing cream takes all the burning and soreness out of corns, callouses, bunions and blisters for good. Coolene is ivory-white, greaseless, stainless. Easy to use. Vanishes instantly. Relief guaranteed from burning, aching, tired feet—or its small cost refunded. Sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

'NUMA,' PROUD SCREEN LION, PLAYS WITH CELEBRITIES; KEEPS UNION HOURS

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 15.

IT BEING a fairly good day, ye scribe braved the traffic to El Monte and Gay's lion farm. This spot is reckoned by connoisseurs to be unique plus. Mr. and Mrs. Gay began their business umpty-ump years ago with three lions. They've grown to be a sightseers' resort.

Sooner or later, every one ventures down there. In Mr. Gay's autograph book are superlative compliments by Adolphe Menjou, Charlie Murray, a couple duchesses, et cetera.

The most famous lion in the present colony of 150 is Numa. Numa has earned $70,000 in the past seven years. He has worked with Charlie Chaplin, Doug MacLean, Gloria Swanson, Bebe Daniels and umpty-ump others. Numa is apparently a union lion. He quits when the whistle blows. No one gainsays his right to depart the set first!

Gloria Swanson.

Now a curious thing about Numa is his children are utterly lacking in flicker talent. They are all nervous, too nervous to carry on their daddy's career.

On the other hand, Cyclone, an oldtimer of 16 years, counteracts this deficiency. Cyclone is a mean devil. No one dares enter the cage with him. Not even Mr. Gay. Only Rosie, his present mate. And Rosie isn't anything to get sympathetic over. Rosie likes to devour her young. She made away with one cub in the last contribution to posterity. The other two were rescued and reared on goat's milk fed them from a bottle. Being near-adults now, they have joined the meat brigade, eating a paltry six pounds or so at one feeding. They'll eat any kind of meat but pork. This, they absolutely disdain.

Dead Trade Mark Continues to Yap

THE lion you yaps as the M. G. M. trade mark was formerly a gay citizen. His name was Slats. Was is right. Slats passed away last year, but his film negative goes on forever.

"Slats."

Prince is a husky beastie now being trained for sinematic endeavors. Prince's poppa is the ferocious Cyclone. His next door neighbor is Butterfly, so called because he's the durndest leaper in captivity. Butterfly dislikes every one on principal. He wants to eat 'em first and make inquiries later. He listens, however, to Mr. Gay.

Verily, this farm is an intriguing one. Only it does seem a bit absurd to view a scantily feathered chicken strutting across the lawn and gaping disinterestedly at the King of Beasts!

Special Showing For Bessie Love

BESSIE LOVE, who was badly injured in an automobile accident a week or so ago, is just about ready to sit up without protest. Bessie sustained some wicked cuts to forehead and cheek, but fortunately they will leave no scars. T'other eve a couple of her friends dropped in to run Buster Keaton's comedy, "Spite Marriage," for her. They borrowed Marion Davies' projection machine and took along their own sound devices.

Bessie Love.

They do be telling an amusing story about Bessie's Spanish maid, Catalina. Catalina adores Bessie. When she was brought home from the hospital, bandaged and looking like a wounded soldier from the front, Catalina promptly went into hysterics. It was Bessie who quieted her, but the excitable Latin is still heard moaning and lamenting the so-and-so who caused the terrible accident to Miss Love!

Youthful Doris In Gilbert Film

SEVERAL of our readers have written asking to know more about this Doris Hill youngster who draws salary from Famous Players.

Doris is average height, in her teens, with auburn bobbed hair and hazel eyes. At the present penning she is appearing in Jack Gilbert's celluloider, "Olympia," as Hedda Hopper's daughter. Upon the conclusion of this flick, she returns to Famous to emote in a really swell part in "The Children," an Edith Wharton yarn which Lothar Mendes is to megaphone. Frederick March is to hero.

Doris Hill

Vivian Seegal, recruited to the sine-musikals from Broadway, sang a few numbers in a midnight performance given recently at the Warner Theater. Later she went to a party. A charming woman stopped to chat.

"Are you the little girl who sang tonight?"

"Yes."

"You have a very sweet voice. You ought to go into pictures."

"I am in pictures," Miss Seegal enlightened.

"What company are you with?" surprised.

"Warners."

"Really? Why, my dear, you have a magnificent voice!"

Comedy By Nugents Pitt Play for Week

"By Request," a comedy by John C. and Elliott Nugent, is to be the week's attraction in the Pitt, opening tonight. Next week the famous melodrama, "Madame X," will be given by the George Sharp Players.

Aged Clarion Man Falls Down Stairs

FRANKLIN, Pa., July 15.—Frank Bowman, 82, Clarion resident, slipped at the head of a flight of stairs and fell, injuring himself seriously.

Nevada Weddings Far Exceed Divorces

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP.)—The number of marriage vows taken in Nevada last year far exceeded the matrimonial knots severed in divorce courts.

Even in Washoe County, in which Reno is located, marriages took the lead over divorces.

Reports to the Department of Commerce show that 4,168 marriages were performed in 1928 while 2,595 divorces were granted. This compares with 2,398 marriages in 1927 and 1,953 and 2,103 divorces compared with 1,538 marriages and 1,603 divorces in 1927. In addition 43 annulments were granted in 1928 as compared with 39 in 1927.

The increase of 73.8 per cent in marriages for the state over 1927 was attributed by the commerce department largely to the change in the marriage law of California requiring three days notice before issuance of a license.

To avoid the delay, many Californians journeyed across the Nevanda State line to take their vows.

LASKY COMBINE ADDS TO CHAIN

NEW YORK, July 15.—(INS.)—Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation announced today acquisition through an exchange of stocks of all the outstanding capital shares of the Finkelstein and Rubin chain of 145 theaters, known as the Northwest Theater Circuit. The basis of the stock exchange was not made known.

Northwest Theaters owns and operates theaters in Minnesota, Wisconsin and North and South Dakota.

EYE TECHNIQUE

Evelyn Brent's eyes, in this movie episode with Hal Skelly in the forthcoming "Woman Trap," are registering something of "fire and honey and sky light and star dust." At least, that's what the movie director told her to register.

DISPUTE SPLITS FILM UNION

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—(AP.)—The ranks of 1,400 union carpenters employed in motion picture studios here were split by the decision of one group to ask a Superior Court injunction to restrain certain individuals from interfering with activities of newly-elected officers of Studio Local No. 1682, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

Spokesmen for the group said they represented 60 per cent of the union membership. They explained that William L. Hutchinson, of Indianapolis, general president of the union, had reinstated Bennett Simmons and J. P. Lippitt to the local union offices of business agent and financial secretary after they had been defeated in a union election. They said that in making the reinstatement Hutchinson revoked the charter of the local and formed a new one, despite the favorable recognition of the old union by the district council of Los Angeles carpenters.

Police Seek Baby Lost by Father On Rum Tour

ERIE, Pa., July 15.—(AP.)—James Hill, Sr., is in the city jail charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct, while police searched for his 21-months-old baby, James, Jr., who, police said, Hill lost while making a round of speakeasies.

Officers said the man told them he did not know where he left the child.

MEN

Sensational Clearance of

563 SUITS

ONE AND TWO PANTS

We've gathered together all odd lots and broken assortments from our higher priced ranges into one great group—and regardless of former selling prices or cost—offer them to the men of Pittsburgh at a price that will insure an absolute Cleanup . . .

SEVENTEEN DOLLARS

Now, men, don't let this low price mislead you as to the real quality of these suits—don't feel that Seventeen Dollars is too low a price to pay for a good suit . . . ordinarily it would be, but this is a clearance and a clearance with us is just what it means—a bargain opportunity on standard merchandise at a ridiculously low price. That's just what this event offers—standard well-made suits that we sell day in and day out at considerably higher prices—priced ridiculously low to quickly effect an absolute disposal . . .

SEVENTEEN DOLLARS

We include quite a number of two-pants Suits—most extraordinary, you will say—but they're broken sizes and they go in with the one-pants suits in this clearance! There are all sizes among these 563 suits, not a full size range in any particular coloring and pattern, but your size in the lot in many suits that will give you about what you want . . . and at a "knockout" price, Seventeen Dollars. This is a great opportunity for vacationists—you can buy several suits at about the price you would regularly pay for one . . . and at a time you will appreciate the savings most.

SEVENTEEN DOLLARS

Shrewd men who have attended these clearance events in the past will be here early tomorrow—they "know their selection"—and we advise you to do the same!

Things I Never Knew Till Now

THAT condemned men at Sing Sing do not pass thru a "green" door to go to the Hot Squat. It is a brown door.

That Annette Kellerman was a cripple when a child.

That the term "Roaring Forties" is also used to describe dangerous waters around 40 deg. s. latitude in the Atlantic Ocean.

That pate de foie gras is ritz for goose liver.

That life insurance was once considered gambling and prohibited by law in France.

That Georges Clemenceau once taught French in New York.

That the correct name for the Mormon Church is The Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints.

ACCORDING TO HOYLE

THAT the phrase "according to to Hoyle" originated when Edmund Hoyle wrote his "Book of Games" in the Eighteenth Century.

That lemon extract in black coffee, an old Navy drink, is so potent three drinks keep you from taking yourself seriously.

That avocado pears (alligator pears) contain as much nourishment as six eggs, a steak, etcetera. A fact never known until it was extensively advertised by a fruit growers' group, who cleaned up.

That at the Strand Roof Cafe four years ago Ruby Keeler and Virginia Frank were a "sister team" of hoofers. Today one is a star and the other is in the chorus of the same show.

That a bullet in the rib of Lincoln A. Wagenhals brought him $5,000 insurance with which was built the Astor Theater and the fortune of Wagenhals and Kemper. Mr. W. was shot in a small Ohio town while carrying the payroll for a one-night stand troupe.

That A. L. Erlanger is convinced that $212 gross on any night tells more about show business than all the words in the dictionary.

ORIGINAL TWO-TIMER

THAT the expression "two-time" originated during the building of the first transcontinental railroad by "Two-Tie" Bacon, who had his crews laying two ties at a time.

That small dealers only make a cent on a 25-cent sale of two packs of ciggies. And that those ads on book matches cost anywhere from $400 to $600 for a million of them, which the dealer doesn't rate gratis.

That good gin can be had for $12 per case, with a profit for the bootlegger and no headache for the gargler.

That the lining of a coat wears out before you reach the second pair of trousers.

That Bismarck herrings are great to sober up on.

That Connie Immerman, producer of the colored revue, "Hot Chocolates," pays his chorus girls more than any other producer, some of the sepias rating $100 per week.

That Negroes in Broadway shows get paid twice weekly.

That Time, the mag, discovers that the Wilfred J. Funk, whose verse often leads this bureau, is the publisher of the Literary Digest.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

THAT Robert Ripley, creator of the "Believe It or Not!" cartoons, has a research staff that sets him back $8,000 a year digging up his weird material.

That it was Frank Wilstach, the inventor of similes, who gave Trixie Friganza the wheeze: "Many an actor's fingers are stiff with rings: The bigger the stiff the stiffer his fingers."

That Irving Berlin, now in Baden-Baden, sends his cables via Western Union.

That Jack Lait's ass't editor is a cousin of Holbrook Blinn and his ass't secretary is a niece of Margaret Anglin.

That Ring Lardner sits for hours in the Lambs' Club listening to a comedian who producers think is unfunny.

That the manuscript of the "biog" of Georve V, which cannot find a publisher in England because of its scandalous nature, will be making the rounds of the local publishers soon.

That Eddie Cantor, who is a fresh-air fiend, has the star dressing room, a private shower and other privileges, but no window.

That H. T. Webster, one of the better cartoonists, frames his contemporary's finest drawings in his bathroom.

That one of the material witnesses in the Marlow mystery has been third-degreed three times, telling eight different fables.

And that in the Co-Operative Restaurant in Union Square, where the radicals gather to discuss making this a better and more honest world, the first thing that greets the eye is that well-known symbol of capitalistic institutions, "Watch Your Hat and Coat!"

Violet Rays Prove Art Works' Value

NEW YORK, July 15.—(INS.)—Ultra violet rays have been found to be invaluable in establishing the authenticity and true age of works of art at the Metropolitan Museum, an announcement made today revealed. The announcement culminates a long period of research into the property of the rays by officials of the museum.

Spurned Suitor Attacks Rival, Killed by Car

CHICAGO, July 15.—(AP.)—The unusual manner of Daniel Rogers' death was being investigated today.

Rogers was killed early yesterday in front of the home of Anna Kircher. He had been waiting there for her return with his rival for her favor, Charles Eberhardt. When the two drove up in Eberhardt's car, Rogers ran forward and leaped to the running board, raining blows upon the driver.

Surprised at the attack, Eberhardt lost control of the car. It climbed over the curb, and Rogers, caught between the car and a tree, was crushed to death.

The Song of the Sea-Shell

By Truda Dahl

© 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

Truda Dahl

S-H-H-H! What does she hear? What is the song that comes from the depths of the sea-shell which so fascinates her? Is it telling her of far off lands and people? Does she hear the song of the mermaids and the soft swish of the deep-sea folk as they softly flash their way through the cool, green depth of the water? Or is it singing the song of the surf, with its crashing harmony and telling her of the joy and beauty to be found in the world of which she knows nothing!

You're wrong! Dan Cupid wouldn't miss such an opportunity for the world! As soon as he saw her lift the shell to her tiny pink ear, he immediately took his loudest trumpet and played the song of Love to her so that it would drown out all the other songs which the shell might sing. And all she can hear is the "I love you!" of which she has dreamed and for which she has so long waited. So you see, the shell is Love's messenger, so be careful!

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Lillian Gives Some Comforting Theories

THERE was a sureness of conviction about Lillian's words which quieted my nerves and enabled me to obey her command to relax and listen to her explanation of the imitation jewel episode as she saw it.

I had unquestioning faith in her keenness of perception and accuracy of judgment. And she had spoken but the truth when she said she thoroughly knew Dicky, Edith Fairfax and the magazine game. That her version of the episode would be one to which I could give full credence, I was sure.

"That's more than most people tell me," she retorted, with a grin. "But I'll try not to talk you to death. However, there are several things to be said."

She bent toward me and wagged an emphatic forefinger.

"In the first place," she said, "I am holding no brief for Edith Fairfax. She's getting harder and more unscrupulous every minute, that dame. Did you see that cool smirk upon her face when you and I caught sight of her prinking in the mirror over those ornaments? I'd have liked to have spoiled that grinning map of hers right there, but I remembered that my parents taught me to be a lady, no matter what the temptation, and I held my hand."

Her tone and pose were irresistible. Upthrough my misery came an involuntary chuckle which brought an answering comprehending grin from my friend.

"You're rounding to," she said approvingly, then went on with her appraisal of Edith.

"She'd have liked you to believe those things were real, a frightfully expensive gift, and that Dicky had just bestowed it upon her. She wouldn't have cared what sinister inference you drew, just so she could drive into your soul the iron of jealousy and disbelief in your husband."

Lillian's voice had lost its lightness, and flippancy. It was as solemn as an old-fashioned preacher's as she finished and I shivered involuntarily at the picture she was drawing of the woman who once had taunted me with the boast that she loved my husband far better than I could.

"That's right," Lillian said, breaking off her diatribe against Ruth. I want you to quake a bit, for I want you to know what you're up against with that lady. Not that she has a hundred to one chance with the Dicky-bird. If you and he were to part forever tomorrow, the Fairfax woman would not have a chance to grab him, not in a thousand years. But though I think she knows that little thing, down in the lump of adamant she calls her heart, yet that won't keep her from pulling any little—or big—stunt she can which would widen the breach between you."

I scarcely heard her last words, so intent was I upon the assertion she had made concerning Dicky's indifference to Edith.

"But," I said tremulously, "didn't you hear him when he answered her protest against taking the ornaments, and when he pulled her around facing the mirror, and told her to look at herself. His voice sounded so—so—"

"So sugary affectionate," Lillian finished, as my voice trailed away. "Of course it did. You ought to know by this time that the Dickey-bird can no more help softening his voice to that saccharine jelly when he speaks to a good looking woman, than he can keep from breathing. It doesn't mean a darned thing."

I made the dreary mental comment that it was a long time since I had heard that particular inflection in my husband's voice, but somehow I knew that Lillian's theory was the correct one, and that there had been nothing unusual, nothing to cause me any uneasiness in that colloquy of my husband and his business partner.

"There's one thing certain," Lillian went on. "That yarns about the designer, and the ad and the story Edith is writing for the magazine, and the offer of the firm to give Dicky the jewelry is all true. I haven't listened to the Dicky-bird tell all kinds—true, half true and made up from the whole cloth—all these years without knowing absolutely when he's lying. I know that side of him better than you do. And this one was the goods absolutely.

"About the rest of it, I'm not so sure," she went on slowly. "That Edith admired the things, and that Dicky good-naturedly dug down in his jeans and paid for one for her is most probable. He'd have done the same thing for anybody working with him, you know that. And then, no doubt, Ede did a particularly good piece of work on the stunt, and he thought she was entitled to one of the things. But that he planned the wholesale distribution he staged tonight, I very much doubt. Incidentally, that was a distinct tribute to you, old dear."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, July 16.

THE sidereal operations for this day emphasize the benefits that may be attained by straightforward and above-board methods. There is much incitement to subtlety, craft, expediency and intrigue which may offset several excellent testimonies. Employment, industry and labor are suspiciously aspected, and with precaution and discretion should bring substantial recognition and rewards.

Those whose birthday it is stand at the threshold of a year of splendid opportunity, with promotion, preferment and substantial returns for application, fidelity and straightforwardness. But shun subtlety and craft.

A child born on this day may rise to good position by its faithfulness, industry, talents and good qualities, but it may jeopardize these by expediency and craft.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Live Right and You Need Not Fear Age

NO ONE wants to be old. It isn't nice to be old. But the worst of it is, we just have to get old.

Suppose I had a sure process for keeping young. What would you give for the secret? If you are past 60 years you would give me half your fortune. I know a man who would give me a million dollars for every year I could add to his life.

DR. COPELAND

It is an interesting fact that boys and girls are not excited over the idea of living to be a hundred. But after middle life it is a matter of great concern.

Of course we don't want to be old, but isn't it foolish to attempt to fool our acquaintances about it? I say attempt to fool them, because it is only an attempt and a useless one. We just can't fool them. Age will tell with most of us.

One way or another everybody knows the age of everybody else in the community. Gossip fixes the date anyhow, but the worst of it is the face is very likely to tell its own story. It is only an occasional person who escapes the verdict. A shrewd observer rarely misses in the estimate by more than two or three years. We can't escape the truth.

The trouble about the age business is a silly belief that nobody loves you if you are past 40. That is all nonsense.

We love children for their innocence. We love boys and girls in their teens for their sprightliness and vivacity. We love young people in their twenties for their ambitions and their self-consciousness.

It is not until thirty years is reached that life becomes really serious. From that birthday forward you feel you are "old." To everybody under thirty you are old. To everybody above thirty nobody is old till he really is old—eighty or more.

We never begin to tell stories about our age till we are past thirty. Since we can't hope to fool the young folks, it will do us no good to yarn about it. The rest won't care what the real age is, because it does not regard thirty-plus as really old.

The cold fact is, we are absolutely wasting our time and our reputation for veracity by all the vain tales about youthfulness. We fool nobody.

By right living, fresh air, exercise, cheerful thoughts, kindly deeds and particularly by simple eating you can preserve your figure, your clearness of complexion and the avoidance of wrinkles. Then they will say of you: "She is every bit of 42, but isn't she a wonder? She doesn't look a day over 30."

Let us not worry about age. We are as old as we feel and really no older. Let us govern our lives so that we can continue to be active and useful, no matter how many years we have acquired.

When I look at Senator Warren, one of the most active men in the Senate and recall that he is past 85, the fear of age leaves me. There is no good reason why good sense in the observance of the rules of living will not permit most of us to live to be really old.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. E. A. N. Q.—What treatment do you advise for gall stones? Can they be dissolved? The X-ray picture revealed four and I have an attack about once every six months.

A.—The treatment depends upon the severity of the attack. Careful dieting and general care will sometimes bring about relief, while in other cases more drastic measures are necessary. Follow your doctor's advice.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Rising When Introduced

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Must a girl rise when she is introduced to another girl, whether the girl is older or not?

2. Does a girl rise when she is introduced to a gentleman?

3. Nowadays, at dances, people are hardly given time to make pleasant remarks (especially a girl) on the dance just completed. When the gentleman thanks the lady for the dance is it proper for her to say, "Surely" or "Certainly?" The great majority of the people I have listened to say either of these, and I am wondering if they are correct.

4. Please criticise my letter-paper and writing. MAY.

NO, not unless she is being introduced to a much older woman.

2. No. (And, by the way, the gentleman is introduced to her.) Of course, if she is a very young girl, and the gentleman is an old man of special distinction, she would rise, to show a due respect and social graciousness.

3. No, we mustn't let you say "Certainly" or "Surely" in answer to the gentleman's thanks. For instance, she could say: "The dance was delightful," or "I enjoyed the dance very much," and it wouldn't take much longer!

4. I don't like one-sheet letter-paper, and so I am afraid I am no unbiased judge of such paper. The double-sheeted letter paper takes on a form that, to my taste, gives some distinction and interest; frames the letter in an interesting case.

Your handwriting is basically good, though a bit immature. However, don't change it a bit, and the maturity will grow into it. It is delightfully legible, and most carefully done. Your letter-form, too, is good, except the abbreviation of the state in your heading.

Accepting an Invitation

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been invited to a wedding which is to take place in church, and to the reception at a hotel. I sat down to accept, having been taught to conform to the wording of the invitation. Then I became puzzled, and decided to appeal to you. What of the reception? Do I accept for that, too? That is, do I include that in my acceptance, or simply accept the wedding invitation?

M.

IT is the invitation to the reception that you do accept. That is, an invitation to the church ceremony only does not require an answer, but the invitation to the reception does, since it "requests the pleasure of your company," and usually "the favor of an answer." Too the hosts must plan with the caterer as to about how many guests they are to expect.

You are right about following the wording of the invitation. Write your acknowledgment on the first page of your double-sheeted note paper (the kind you used in your letter to me is excellent), and like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Brown Leamington accept with pleasure
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowen's kind invitation for Tuesday, the first of June at five o'clock.

Nine out of ten screen stars keep their lovely skin petal-smooth with Lux Toilet Soap

LYA DE PUTTI, Columbia star—"I find Lux Toilet Soap wonderful for my skin—it keeps it so marvelously smooth."

GILDA GRAY, famous screen star, says: "Lovely skin does so much to make a girl attractive! Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin like velvet."

BILLIE DOVE, First National star, in the modernistic bathroom built especially for her in Hollywood. It offers a charming background for her delicate loveliness.

"A smooth skin is most important to every girl whether she is a motion picture player or not. I find Lux Toilet Soap delightfully pure and refreshing."

Billie Dove.

"For real loveliness a girl must have exquisite smooth skin," say 39 leading directors

PETAL-SMOOTH skin—how subtly and surely it wins its way into hearts everywhere!

"Smooth, flawless skin is beauty's greatest asset," says Al Rocket, production manager for First National. "The perfection of an exquisite skin is much more to the screen star—or to any woman—than any other physical quality."

To keep their skin really lovely for the screen, nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. In Hollywood, of the 451 important actresses, including all stars, 442 care for their skin with this daintily fragrant white soap. And all the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

You'll love the way it leaves your skin so petal-smooth! You'll be delighted with its quick, generous lather in your bath, too, and for the shampoo. Ample, caressing lather even in hard water—for Lux Toilet Soap is made by the famous French method. Buy several cakes—today.

A close-up—and the huge, new, incandescent "sun-spot" lights beat down on the screen star's face and shoulders and arms! No wonder a girl must have petal-smooth skin, flawlessly beautiful, if she is to rise to success in the motion pictures.

Chorus and Famous Organ To Feature Broadcasts

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

THE great organ in the $4,000,000 Mormon Tabernacle at Salt Lake City will be heard over KDKA at 6 o'clock tonight. The organ itself represents a lion's portion of the $4,000,000 investment—it is one of the mightiest musical instruments of its kind and is expected to reproduce perfectly over the radio due to the superb acoustical properties of the Tabernacle.

Three hundred voices will blend with the organ in the presentation of the Chorale from Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," the Finale from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" and "The Morning Breaks." Pilgrim's Chorus from "Tannhauser" will be an organ selection by Edward P. Kimball.

Of all the queer ideas that Brigham Young took to Utah from the "Show Me" state we believe the construction of this mighty zephyr was the worthiest. You will find tonight's broadcast on a par with the best broadcasts of the year.

FOR GOLF FANS

Lou Hamburg, Jr., the merry gentleman at Hamburg Brothers who struck an eagle on the Schenley links not a month ago, will be delighted with "The Nineteenth Hole," a new feature at 7 p. m through WCAE.

Those who have seen "Rose Marie" and "The Desert Song" will appreciate just a little bit more the singing of Ethel Louise Wright during Roxy's hour, KDKA at 7:30. Ethel played a lead in both companies.

What environment provides a stage director with inspiration and enthusiasm for his work? We may learn at 9 p. m. over KDKA when the favorite musical selections of David Belasco will be presented. The Edison Recorders' concert last week featuring the favorites of John D. Rockefeller was one of the best programs we have heard and more than a little did we enjoy the unique arrangement for "Sun of My Soul."

WJAS will offer a good Grand Opera concert at 8 and the U. S. Navy Band at 9:30.

Altoona Man Found Dead; Gagged, Shot

ALTOONA, Pa., July 15.—(AP.)—Believed by county and city authorities to have been murdered, the body of Genry Lesch, 76, with a bullet wound in the head, was found in a vacant lot near the Altoona Hospital. A revolver was found in the man's hand, a gag had been tied around the mouth and his clothing had been ripped.

A pocketbook which friends said the aged man carried could not be located, indicating that robbery might have been a motive for the killing, according to officers.

Paper Plant Burns With Million Loss

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., July 15.—(AP.)—The plant of Westminster Paper Company, Ltd., was destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $1,000,000. The chemical plant of the Triangle Chemical Company, Ltd., also was burned, causing an additional loss of $250,000.

Patriots Oppose Passport for Pacifist

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP.)—A plea that the passport recently issued to Dorothy Detzer, secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom be revoked is made in a letter sent to Secretary Stimson by H. Ralph Burton, general counsel of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss Detzer was permitted to receive a passport after "affirming" to "support" the United States, instead of the usual "swearing" to "defend."

Burton's letter described the act of the State Department in granting the passport to attend a convention of her organization August 8, in Prague as "almost open defiance' of the United State's Supreme Court decision against Rosika Schwimmer holding that naturalized citizens of this country must "swear' to "defend" the constitution.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

W. C. Robinsons Announce Plans for 'At Home' In Winter Season

A REAL "Midsummer Night's Dream" for the society editor just now would be a calendar full of interesting parties and big weddings. It would, necessarily, be only a dream, though, and we'd waken to find that all the folks who would be giving these parties have fled the city.

Before they left town, though, some of these people announced plans which will reach their fruition next winter. Among them was an "at home" which Mrs. William Christopher Robinson and her debutante daughter, Mary Franklin Robinson, will give on Wednesday afternoon, December 11, at their house in Ridge avenue, North Side. I told you, before, you may remember, that the Robinsons will give a ball in the Pittsburgh Club on December 26 for Mary.

At present, though, most of our news centers around the travelers and the many delightful plans being made for the remainder of the summer. The James C. Chaplins and their son, David Campbell Chaplin, of Frederick avenue, Sewickley, are among those who have gone away. They sailed Saturday from New York, I hear, for a trip to California by way of Havana and the Panama Canal. From San Francisco they will sail for Honolulu to spend several weeks.

Leaving later in the month are the junior William Penn Snyders, of the "Little House," Sewickley Heights. They are planning to go to Southampton then, to spend three or four weeks. Other Sewickleyans away now are the Wilson A. Campbells and their children, of Creek drive, who have opened their cottage on Lake Joseph, Muskoka Lake, Elizabeth Campbell has Elizabeth Craig, of Thorn street, as her guest for this month. William L. Clause, of Creek drive, has opened his Muskoka Lake cottage, too, and his daughter, Mrs. George Graham Bell, and her children, are spending the summer there. Also his guests are the Tracy W. Guthries, of Edgeworth, and Elizabeth T. Wardrop.

Several Sewickleyans sailed last week for Europe, among them Mrs. Alexander Montgomery Brooks, of Bank street, and her son, Alexander M. Brooks, Jr. They sailed Wednesday on the Majestic for England, and expect to be gone until September. Then Mary Magee, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Magee, of Grove street, is planning to sail next month for Europe, and will study in Paris next winter. Mrs. Magee and Mary motored last week to Blue Hill, Me., where they are visiting Mrs. Frederick Thatcher.

The junior George Pomeroy Bassetts, of Northumberland street, and their sons, George P. Bassett III, Henry B. Bassett and Richard Bassett, sailed on Friday for a trip abroad. They took their car with them, I understand, and are planning to motor on the continent until late in September. Out of town, also, is Mrs. Thomas G. McCutcheon, of Castleman place, who is visiting Mrs. William Campbell King, of Shady avenue, at her summer home, Mountain View, Whitefield, N. J.

I am sure you are interested, too, in the plans of Mr. and Mrs. William Thaw II, and their debutante daughter, Virginia, of New York and Pittsburgh. The Thaws are at their Southampton place just now. And on September 5, Virginia will be guest of honor at a large supper dance which her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. T. Markoe Robertson, will give at their summer home, Guinea Hollow Farm, at Westbury. Shortly after that, Virginia is coming to Sewickley to visit her grandmother, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., who will give a tea dance for her on September 14.

WEARING a gown of pink organdy made in period style, with a large bow of pink shading into orchild, Miss Helen Bell Rush yesterday became the bride of Arthur R. Davis, of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Davis, of New Kensington. The bride's hat and shoes were of pink also and she carried orchids, roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Mrs. J. E. Krotzer, who was her only attendant, wore light green organdy with matching hat and shoes. J. E. Krotzer served as Mr. Davis' best man and after the ceremony he and Mrs. Krotzer entertained at tea in their home, Marie street, in honor of the bridal couple. Mr. and Mrs. Davis (she is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rush, of Dawson) will make their home in New York.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage of Miss Ruby Jane Andrews, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John B. Andrews, of Siloam Springs, Ark., and Charles Rankin Dorland, of Pittsburgh, which was solemnized July 6 in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Siloam Springs, by the bride's father, assisted by the Rev. Pat Murphy, pastor of the church. Mrs. Ben Garst was her sister's matron of honor, and Miss Vivian Perrine, maid of honor, while the bridesmaids were Mrs. Besse Caraway and Mrs. Byrd Miller, sisters of the bride; Miss Anna Despain and Mrs. J. B. Jacobs, of Clarendon, Ark. Janet Smith and Donna Fay King were flower girls. J. Allan Andrews, brother of the bride, was best man and the ushers included E. T. Paganini, Charles Miller, Ben Garst and Dr. George Fellows. Mrs. Ralph Naill, sister of the bride, organist, and Miss May Elise Pyeatte, violinist, played the wedding music, and Mrs. George Fellows, another sister, sang. Ben Garst, Jr., and Billy Sunday Crowe were pages. A reception in the bride's home followed the ceremony and later Mr. and Mrs. Dorland left for a lake trip. They will make their home in South Euclid avenue, Bellevue.

Dormont Play Writer Goes to Chautauqua

MRS. LANE THOMPSON, a member of the Dormont New Century Club and play producer for the Pittsburgh Drama League, has been asked to direct four plays at Chautauqua Assembly Grounds this summer. The first of these was given before an audience of 5,000 persons in the amphitheater by the Jamestown Players, who have appeared for two consecutive years in the Drama League's amateur players' contests. The play was "Fashion," by Anna Cora Mowatt, a comedy in five acts and an epilogue. The second play, "Polly With a Past," by George Middleton and Guy Bolton, will be given (also by the Jamestown Players) in the new Norton Memorial Hall Thursday and Saturday nights of this week. Then on July 25 and 27 the Pittsburgh Players will put on "In Love With Love," by Vincent Lawrence, with a cast that includes David Gorman, Paul Crofford, Charles Roe, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Floyd Steele, Miss Dorothy Husted and Mitzi Snyder. The last program will be given August 1 and 3 and will consist of three one-act plays. One will be "The Wedding," by John Kirkpatrick, presented by the Jamestown Players, and the other two, "Minnie," by E. P. Conkle, and "Nettie," by George Ade, by the South Hills Repertoire Players of Pittsburgh, including Howard Eulenstein, William B. Stricker, W. Charles Roe, Jr., Frederick G. Clerihue and Charles Van Essen in the Conkle play and Mr. Eulenstein, Mr. Stricker, Philips Bown, Mr. Clerihue and Mr. Roe in the "Nettie" cast.

THE third and closing week of the social service school being conducted at Pennsylvania College for Women by the Henry Clay Frick Educational Committee began today. Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the city Department of Public Welfare; Dr. Ralph P. Truitt, clinical professor of psychiatry and director of the psychiatric clinic, University of Maryland, spoke at this morning's session, which was followed by field trips to the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, Kingsley House and Soho Community House. Tomorrow morning "The Mental Hygiene Aspects of Social Case Work" will be discussed by Miss Amelia Igel, associate social worker, Allegheny General Hospital, and Dr. Truitt will speak on "The Child and Mental Development." Group discussions will be held in the afternoon and in the evening a lawn party will be given at the home of Miss Cora Helen Coolidge, president of the college. Dr. Truitt will speak again on Wednesday, Dr. James Hammer, of Mayview, being a second speaker, and the class will make a field trip to Lillian Rest and Convalescent Home. Thursday's speakers include Dr. E. Bosworth McCready, Dr. Truitt and Miss Helen M. Harris, of Kingsley House; Friday's, Miss Miriam Finkelstein, of Montefiore Hospital, and Dr. Truitt; Saturday's, Dr. Florence M. Teagarden, of the University of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Truitt.

American Opera, But Lines Will Be in French

CHICAGO, July 15.—(AP.)—An American opera, but in French, has been announced for the opening of the 1929-30 season of the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

The opera, based on the French play, "La Dame Aux Camellas," is by Hamilton Forrest, a Chicago composer and protege of Mary Garden, who is to sing the title role.

French was employed instead of English, the composer explained, because of his inability to make adequate translation.

Fashionable Dance Goes on During Gambling Raid

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., July 15.—(AP.)—While dancers in the jungle room of Le Touquet, a night club at this fashionable summer resort, glided about the floor oblivious to anything but the music, state and local police early today raided an adjoining room, arrested two men and seized $224, a roulette wheel and two slot machines.

The police declared they would push an investigation in an effort to apprehend those "higher up."

Le Touquet in past years has been an exclusive retreat for the pier's smartest society. This year it was converted into a night club and opened to the general public.

Landslide Death Toll Estimated at 199

PARIS, July 15.—(AP.)—A Havas Agency dispatch from Angora Turkey, said that it was estimated that 199 persons had been killed and 50 injured in landslides that followed floods in the vicinity of Surmene on the Black Sea. More than 216 houses were destroyed. The landslides were continuing.

PARTNERS FACE NEW CHARGES

NEW YORK, July 15. — (AP.) — New troubles brewed over the weekend for the four partners in Clarke Brothers, 80-year-old bank which failed recently with $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 shrinkage in assets and estimated losses to depositors of from 75 to 95 cents on the dollar.

With an imposing array of new evidence, United States Attorney Tuttle prepared to go before a federal grand jury and ask that the four be indicted on a charge of conspiracy to conceal assets in bankruptcy.

Meanwhile a referee in bankruptcy and 20 federal investigators will continue efforts to find out what became of the bank's money. The New York county grand jury also prepared to receive information concerning the crash tomorrow.

The four bankers, James Rae Clarke, Philip L. Clarke, Hudson Clarke, Jr., and John F. Bouker, have been indicted for using the mails to defraud and two of them, unable for the time being to raise bail of $25,000, rode to jail manacled to United States officers.

All of the bankers are at liberty today, however. Hudson Clarke, the last to be released, was freed when his brother, Philip, brought surety bond of $25,000 to the Federal House of Detention.

3 KILLED OVER CARD GAME

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., July 15.—(AP.)—Three men were dead, a fourth was wounded and two others were held by Pike County, Ky., authorities as the result of what officers termed a dispute and shooting at a card game at McVeigh, Ky.

The dead are Veto Depoalis, Charles Casey, 18, and Dominick Calonte, 45. Fred Depoalis, brother of one of the slain men, was in a Williamson hospital, where it was said he would recover.

Dimmy Topeka, in whose home, officers said, the shooting occurred, was held in the county jail at Pikeville for investigation. Butler Casey, brother of Charles Casey, was released on bond to await a hearing.

They Called Her Scrawny But Not For Long

Is your face drawn and pinched? Your skin flabby? Are your cheeks sunken with great hollows under the eyes? Does your figure show unbecoming angles instead of the softly rounded slimness of youth? All these conditions rob you of attractiveness and make you look old. But worst of all, these may actually be the symptoms of simple anaemia—that dread ailment so often suffered by women.

There's nothing so good as McCoy's Tablets to put on firm flesh, round out face and figure and build rich, red blood.

So if you need a few pounds of flesh to round out the hollows, if you want to get back old-time energy and health, get a box of McCoy's Tablets today. Just a short treatment will make you look and feel like a new person.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read his ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty-cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One-Dollar boxes of any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—May-Liggett Drug Stores or your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

"FORTUNATE DAY WHEN I FOUND NEW KONJOLA!"

Lady Had Striven in Vain to Find Relief—New Medicine Scores Another Victory.

What joy Konjola, the new and different medicine, has brought into the world! How many homes have been made happy by this modern compound that has proved the deadly enemy to the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and to rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

MRS. ALICE MOORE

Yet it is not to be wondered at that Konjola wins when all else tried has failed. It is not strange that Konjola conquers even the obstinate cases that have resisted, defied and baffled all medicines and treatments put to the test. Konjola does the seemingly impossible because it is actually 32 medicines in one, and of these 32 ingredients 22 are the juices of roots and herbs long known to medical science for their powers. Remember, above all, that Konjola is not a "cure-all"—there is no such thing. Nor is Konjola a medicine based on promises, pledges and claims. It is a medicine of deeds, of performances, of success. Learn all about Konjola. Get the facts...the whole truth ...hear the remarkable story of this more remarkable medicine from the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. There every day he is meeting those who would know all about this medicine of which they have such astounding reports. Learn how Konjola's 32 ingredients, working together, attack disease at its very source. Learn how the ailing organs are cleansed and stimulated; how the system is cleared of poisons; how Konjola gives Nature a chance to exert its powers.

Consider, for instance, the case of Mrs. Alice Moore, 314 Arabella Street, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man just last week: "I had heard and read so many glowing reports about Konjola and the wonderful work this new medicine was doing right here in Pittsburgh that I determined to give it a trial. I was dubious, however, for I had tried so many different medicines and treatments for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, and none of them had helped me in the least. I was assured, however, that Konjola was really different; that it actually made good, no matter what had failed. I was miserable all over. Foods did not agree with me, and I lost weight and strength. Faulty liver and kidneys filled my system with impurities. I was weak and rundown generally, and certainly discouraged.

"But Konjola made short work of all my ills. Why, the very first bottle helped me so much that I could hardly wait to finish the second. Still more improvement, and in another week all of my organs were functioning as they should; my appetite was fine and digestion perfect. I am feeling simply great; rejoicing in health I never expected to have again."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. Konjola is all pure, powerful, wholesome medicine, every drop, and every drop works.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

STUDENT GONE, HUNT BEGINS

Wayner Heitz, 21-year-old Carnegie Tech student, left his clothing and school equipment in his rooms at the Tech dormitories and hasn't been heard of since June 25, the Missing Persons Bureau learned yesterday. Heitz is being sought by his mother, Mrs. A. Heitz, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Young Heitz, about 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 140 pounds, has dark hair and was dressed in a dark suit mixed with gray. He wears a belt with a Notre Dame buckle and a St. Mary High School finger ring. His address is 526 South Seventh street, Clarksburg.

CHINA WILL TRY DOPE SUSPECT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—(INS.)—Ying Kao, suspended Chinese vice consul in San Francisco, his young wife and Suen Foon, chancellor to the Chinese consul general here, all charged with complicity in a $500,000 opium smuggling conspiracy, will be returned to China for prosecution, it was learned today.

Definite information that the trio would not be tried in the United States was disclosed by W. Anching Kung, Chinese consul general here. He announced receipt of orders from the Chinese ambassador at Washington directing him to prepare their passports at once.

Conviction on opium smuggling charges, it was said, would make the three liable to sentences of from one to 10 years in prison in China.

Good Gas Strike Is Made at Van Buren

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 15.—A gas strike was reported on the Young lease near Van Buren, a production of more than a million feet being secured with the 50-foot sand just tapped. The Young lease joins the John M. Day farm, on which a Columbia Gas and Electric subsidiary made a big oil strike, the well coming in at 490 barrels a day four months ago and is still flowing at the rate of 100 barrels per day.

350 Fight Flames Threatening Forest

BEAUMONT, Cal., July 15.—(INS).—Sweeping over 3,000 acres of land northeast of here, a brush fire today threatened to destroy the San Bernardino National Forest. A force of more than 350 men marshaled by forest rangers, combatted the rapidly gaining blaze which had advanced almost to the forest's edge.

English Actor's Wife Gagged by Burglars

LONDON, July 15.—(AP.)—Lady Alexander, widow of Sir George Alexander, the noted actor, was gagged and bound in her home in Chelsea early this morning by burglars who broke open a safe and fled with a quantity of jewelry.

10,000 PA. MILITIA START GIANT WAR GAME

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Boyle is in Paris. Until his copy arrives, Mr. William Pfarr will conduct his daily column.)

FOR that person who would like to be known as a collector of the freakish, Sidewalks suggests "race records"—those recordings that are made for and by Negroes. The records are substantially different from those manufactured for the white trade. On one side, for instance, you might find "the famous Rev. J. M. Gates" preaching the sermon, which is entitled "You Midnight Ramblers," while the other side might offer Blind Willie Dunn warbling "Bullfrog Moan." A few more of the current records are titled "The Devil Is Loose in the World" and a second Gates sermon, "Dead Cat on the Line."

Some day these records will be the fad and no party will be complete without them. When that time comes, don't say Sidewalks didn't warn you, you wallflower, you!

Sir, I am a student of diets, somewhat jealous of the popularity reached by that 18-day menu. I have my own diet and I wish you'd print it.

Breakfast—Fried ham, three eggs, thickly buttered toast, milk.

Lunch—Two pork chops, medium-sized order of fried potatoes, pie, milk.

Dinner—Sirloin steak in mushrooms, mashed potatoes smothered in butter, creamed peas, pie a la mode, milk.

INCONSTANT READER.

P. S.—It should be explained that this menu makes you fat.

A NEWSPAPERMAN was roused from his sleep by his young son, who had run home from school with unexpected good news.

"Pop," the boy exploded, "I passed!"

"Good!" father conceded. "Tell your mother to give you a dime."

"All right, pop, but what does conditional mean?"

They tell an interesting story even if it isn't true, of how a night club was closed recently. The management fired the fiddle player in the orchestra. The fiddler complained to the ward boss, a close friend. The boss asked the management to take the fiddler back. The answer was no. The place was closed.

TO SIDEWALKS' accusation that while he insists that Kennywood bathers shun the one-piece suit he himself probably wears a one-piecer at Atlantic City, Brady McSwigan sends in the following defense:

"I use the deep-sea diving suit of polka dot design, made by the Mussel Shoals Divers Suit Company. When weather permits, the helmet is used as a headpiece. I find many advantages to this novel bathing garment. In it one doesn't get wet. Sharks and octopuses keep out of range because of difficulty in penetrating this heavy hide. Also, the complete covering conceals discrepancies in male pulchritude, and nature's handiwork is not exhibited to the curiosity seeking multitude. Have you got a match?"

STATE TO AID EAST END STREETS

Announcement Brings Joy To Civic, Trade Bodies; Ask More Car Stops

East End business associations are highly elated over the action of the State in awarding to Pittsburgh the sum of $200,000, under the act of the legislature, for the construction and maintenance of streets which are a part of the state highway system.

The streets included in the program outlined by the state are Dallas avenue from Kelly street to Wilkins avenue and Reynolds street to Wilkins avenue. The total cost of this improvement is estimated at $14,000 of which the state will assume $8,000. The work may be done in two ways either by the state or by the city. If done by the latter, the state will be billed for its share. The state, however, will not be responsible for maintenance of city constructed streets and will not assume responsibility for more than 20 feet.

East End civic and trade organizations are expected to urge City Council to take early action toward these improvements.

Another matter which the East End district will urge upon Council is an additional street car stop between Negley avenue and Highland avenue. This question has been agitated by the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce several months since the Railways Company eliminated all but one stop between the two thoroughfares.

GOVERNOR REVIEWS PITTSBURGH TROOPS

MAJ. GEN. PRICE GEN. MARTIN GOV. FISHER

Gov. John S. Fisher before headquarters at Mt. Gretna, national guard encampment where he reviewed troops now in annual maneuvers. Maj. Gen. William G. Price, Jr., today leads 10,000 of the citizen soldiers against a "mythical" enemy.

'RED' TROOPS ADVANCE ON COAL FIELDS

Twenty-Eighth Division Goes Afield for 4-Day Drill; Governor's Review Thursday

By FRANK J. SHENKEL
Staff Correspondent.

CAMP THOMPSON, MT. GRETNA, Pa., July 15.—The biggest war problem and tactical maneuver to be presented to officers and men of the Twenty-eighth Division, National Guard of Pennsylvania, during an encampment, began today. Led by Maj. Gen. William G. Price, Jr., commander of the Twenty-eighth Division, 10,000 citizen soldiers under canvas here moved out of the reservation early this morning to meet and repulse a mythical enemy.

The maneuver will require four days to complete, during which time every man of the division will bivouac in the field. The troops will return to camp next Thursday, in time to be reviewed by Gov. John S. Fisher and Gen. Henri Gouraud, wartime military governor of Paris.

"REDS" PUSH FRONT COAST

A combination of overseas powers, known as the "Red" army, recently declared war on the United States, or the "Blue" army. The Blue fleet has been defeated in the North Atlantic. The Red army has landed on the northeastern coast, and is advancing to the south. The Blue main forces, which have been hurriedly mobilized, are engaged in bitter conflict with the Red army along the Stroudsburg-Schuylkill-Haven-Meyerstown sector.

The object of the invaders, who are now operating in Eastern Pennsylvania, is to capture the anthracite coal fields and capture and destroy military supplies stored near Mt. Gretna.

FORCES CONCENTRATE

The Third Corps, consisting of the Seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth and Seventy-ninth Divisions, completed its concentration at Fort George G. Meade, Md., and has moved north by rail to join the Blue army and protect its left flank.

Under cover of darkness, the Third Corps took up its position along the Cornwall and Lebanon Valley Railroad from Cornwall to Conewago Junction. The Seventy-ninth Division is entrenched in the vicinity of Cornwall; the Twenty-eighth, Pennsylvania's crack division, has taken Mt. Gretna and is awaiting orders from headquarters to proceed; the Twenty-ninth Division is at Bellair and the Seventh Division is quartered near Conewago Junction.

Gen. Price at 4 p. m. yesterday received a message from the corps commander which read in part:

"Reliable reports indicate that Reds have begun movement of troops from Pottsville to Manada Creek and Trout Run Valley, north of Blue Mountain. Early July 15, the corps will advance and hold the general line, Little Swatara and Swatara Creeks, to protect the left wing of the Blue army. Your division will occupy the sector near the Union water works."

DIVISION MARCHES

Gen. Price with his division is now on the march. By nightfall the division will be near its position ready to attack the invading hordes in event they are encountered.

Yesterday the men attended church services, Army chaplains dwelled upon the impending battle. The seriousness of the fight that opens today was brought before the soldiers. At the camp of the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery Regiment, commanded by Col. Eric Fisher Wood, of Pittsburgh, Capt. Burleigh A. Peters, chaplain, faced the Pittsburgh soldiers, some of them he will probably see for the "last time."

MORNINGSIDE TO HOLD OUTING

Arrangements are complete for the annual outing of the Morningside Community Association which will be held at Highland Park Wednesday afternoon and night. The sports committee has arranged a program of events and at meal time coffee and cream will be furnished while lemonade will be served all evening.

General Chairman Edward S. Halli has named the following as aids for the event: Charles Aaron, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chapman, William Colvin, Neil Crain, Jacob Cohen, Joseph C. Dawson, Henry Dengel, T. F. Dewey, Charles F. Dinan, John Duffy, James Farrell, Walter W. Haller, Miss Loretta Happi, John Henry, Mrs. P. J. Kearns, George Hartenstein, F. X. Larkin, John Maxwell, James McCue, L. J. McGlinchey, Heber McDowell, Edward Mechler, Stanley Munson,, Thomas O'Leary, E. J. Parry, Thomas E. Prout, Charles Pursch, George Relland, Mrs. M. Reilly, Herman Samovich, William Shore, Edward Steihler, Stanley Sybo, William Stapf, M. J. Sweeney and William Thomas.

Miss Emily Johnson will be in charge of the Red Cross Committee, and the following physicians comprise the First Aid Committee: Dr. W. A. Clark, Dr. G. W. Dippel, Dr. Brown Fulton, Dr. Glen O. Smith.

JULY 4 BURNS KILL CHILD

Fourth of July celebrations claimed another victim—8-year-old Evelyn Israel, of 745 South Linden avenue, who died last night in West Penn Hospital.

A spark from a sparkler set fire to Evelyn's dress in the basement of her home on the eve of July 4. She ran to her sister, Dorothy, 18, who extinguished the flames by rolling the child in a rug—but not before Evelyn had been seriously burned.

Evelyn was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Israel.

The 18-Day Diet Again

In response to an unabated flood of requests, the Sun-Telegraph is reprinting in daily installments, Hollywood's 18-day diet, first presented to Sun-Telegraph readers by Louella O. Parsons, motion picture critic and writer.

EIGHTH DAY

Breakfast—One-half grapefruit, melba toast, coffee; lunch, 1 broiled lamb chop, lettuce, grapefruit, coffee; dinner, 2 eggs, plain spinach, 4 stalks asparagus, ½ grapefruit, toast, tea.

Melba toast is made by cutting white bread very thin—less than one-fourth inch—toasting it very slowly in oven under low fire until crisp and toasted all the way through and then buttering it as desired.

(The ninth day's installment of the diet will be published Tuesday.)

Officer Not 'Hard Boiled,' Letter Is Reward

The motoring public is inclined generally to look upon policemen and traffic "cops" on a whole as being "hard boiled." There is, however, one motorist in the United States who takes exception to this classification and halts long enough in his travels to pay a compliment to on of Pittsburgh's "finest."

Traffic Officer J. J. Chandler, attached to the Frankstown avenue station, is the officer thus complimented. Early in June a touring car, covered with dust and grime, showing the result of many miles of travel, and heavily laden, stopped before Chandler and the driver inquired the way through the City of Pittsburgh. Not only did the officer enumerate the streets to be traveled, but also drew a chart of the city, showing clearly how the stranger could find his way to his destination. Having done so, the officer thought no more of the instance, accepting such an act as part of his duty.

July 11, just one month later, Mr. Chandler received a letter, postmarked Mt. Pleasant, Mich., and purporting to be from the person he had so kindly directed through this city. The writer states he has driven his touring car through 34 states of the Union and 19 of the 34 from two to 12 times, and has even toured outside the United States, but never in all his travels has he encountered such courtesy and kindness as was shown him by the Pittsburgh traffic officer.

While Officer Chandler had no thought of reward in directing the strange tourist, he feels that the letter has repaid him many times for his trouble and proposes to file it away with his other treasures.

Will Rogers Says

SANTA MONICA, Cal.
July 15.

That was nice about 'em promoting Smedley Butler. He has served in Cuba, France, Philadelphia and China.

The only war he has missed is Chicago. He has now more medals than any American outside of John Philip Sousa.

Russia and China are arranging the details for a war. According to the Communist, all are equal, so they will all be generals.

Yours, WILL.

TWO KILLED, 12 INJURED BY AUTOS OVER WEEK END

CHILD STRUCK NEAR HOME AT UNIVERSAL

Hit-Run Driver Hits Woman, Who Dies in Hospital; 5 Nabbed at McKeesport

One child was killed, a woman fatally injured, and five women and seven children suffered slight injuries in automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district over the week-end.

Two-and-a-half-year-old Mary Rodriquez, of Main street, Universal, was killed near her home last night when an automobile driven by Casey Bachiscio, of 6353 Apple avenue, struck her, according to the coroner's report. The child, morgue attaches said, ran from behind another machine into the path of Bachiscio's car. Bachiscio was ordered to appear before the coroner.

A hit-and-run motorist who struck and fatally injured Mary Mitchell, 27, Negress, of 3109 Dobson street, at Penn avenue and Twenty-ninth street, Saturday night, was being sought by the police. The Mitchell woman died in the West Penn Hospital yesterday of a fractured skull.

TWO CHILDREN HURT

Two children were injured, a house was damaged, and an automobile wrecked when Gus Katasis, of McKeesport, tried to operate a machine with the brakes on, according to the McKeesport police.

Katasis, an unlicensed driver, the police report shows, attempted to start the machine. Boleslaw Erzymala, the owner, climbed in and released the brakes. The machine struck the curb, a front tire burst, a wheel broke off, and crashed into the front end of a building at 1128 Locust street. The building was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars and the car was wrecked.

Carmel Fusco, 7, of 1331 Locust street, was struck by the car, and was taken to the McKeesport Hospital, suffering from lacerations of the head and body bruises.

Police Lieut. Sam Mermelstein and Motorcycle Patrolman William Corcoran placed both men under arrest for reckless driving. They were interfered with, they said, and were forced to arrest three men on a charge with interfering with officers. They are Albert Pokrywka, his son, Edward Pokrywka, and Henry Fraley, all of Locust street, McKeesport.

John Connors, 6, of 1040 Tubeworks street, ran from between two parked automobiles and was struck by a taxicab driven by M. H. McMillen. He is in the same hospital suffering a probable fracture and contusions of the left foot. The driver was not arrested. Police said the boy was running to the scene of the crash.

A mother and her daughter were slightly injured when the automobiles of Louis Glosser, of Mt. Oliver, and Harry Phillips, of 2107 Wharton street, collided at South Eighteenth and Sarah streets. Mrs. Carrie Glosser and her daughter, Dorothy, passengers in Glosser's car, were treated at the South Side Hospital for bruises and cuts. They later went home. The drivers were arrested by Patrolman C. Schmidt on a charge of reckless driving, and released on bond.

CARS COLLIDE

Three women were injured yesterday when two automobiles collided at West North avenue and Fulton street. They were Mrs. Catherine Fisher, 27, of 1211 Fulton street; Mrs. Mary Bowser, 45, of 205 Renova street, and Mrs. Grace McLane, 22, of 340 Franklin street, Aliquippa. They were taken to Presbyterian Hospital. Drivers of both machines were arrested on charges of reckless driving.

Mrs. Minnie Shields, 28, and her son, Neil, 8, of 7116 Doak street, were injured last night when the automobile driven by her husband, Darby Shields, 34, collided with one driven by Joseph Pint, 28, of 1867 Runnette street, at Meadow street and Larin avenue. They were taken to Homeopathic Hospital.

Three children struck by automobiles on the South Side were treated at the South Side Hospital for cuts and bruises. They were Grace Vogel, 5, of 5 Holt street; Joseph Auberzinski, 5, of 149 South Eighteenth street, and Sophia Menetz, 9, of 106 South Eighteenth street.

Toiling With Tillie.....

or a Long Leap from railroading!

C-a-s-h boy! Railroad clerk! Dullness personified to young Russ Westover! So he drew pictures on the parcels he wrapped. And even the railroad pay vouchers he made out were not art-proof. After that his dad gave in and got him a job in the art department of a San Francisco paper. The Art Institute, where he studied evenings, abetted his artistic yearnings, too. But after all, Russ found that he simply could not take art seriously. He turned to cartooning.

The creator of "Tillie the Toiler" holds a public record for allegiance to one woman. "Tillie has been running for a good many years," he said, "and I'm still enthusiastic about her." Maybe that's because he doesn't have to pay for Tillie's clothes!

The other woman in the case, Mrs. Westover, has the upper hand of Tillie. Russ asks her criticism on his drawings. Probably that's why everything is so peaceful at his little vine-clad cottage out in New Rochelle. Russ works at home, you see. He never got "arty" enough to want a studio.

THIEVES STEAL $4,000 DIAMONDS FROM PARKED CAR

LOOT OF $6,500 IN WEEK-END ROBBERIES

Express Office and Homes Suffer Losses—One Victim Held Up by Three Bandits

Robbers who operated in the city over the week-end obtained approximately $6,500 in loot, police said. Included in the plunder were a pair of diamond earrings valued at $4,000 reported stolen from a parked automobile.

A small leather case containing the earrings, an $18 cigaret case and $5 were stolen from the automobile of Edna Williams, of 1201 Federal street, late Saturday night, police were informed yesterday. The car was parked in front of the Williams home.

Held up in front of his home by three Negroes, Julius Corbett, of 2811 Berthoud street, was robbed of $14 and a watch valued at $45.

A diamond ring valued at $900 was reported stolen from the third floor of the home of Mrs. Lillian Murray, 403 Oakland avenue.

From a desk in the office of the Allegheny Express Company, Parkway and Sandusky street, $108 was stolen.

Jimmying a rear window of the home of Mrs. Alberta Hartzog, of 2300 Webster avenue, robbers obtained clothing valued at $332.

A boy who broke into the home of Mrs. James Stover, of 192 Morewood avenue, escaped with a revolver valued at $32. He is believed to be the same one who July 4 stole $50 in the home of Louisa Stokes, 213 Morewood avenue.

A. Rothman, 20 Ledlie street, reported that his home was entered and clothing valued at $80 and a bag worth $5 taken. The home of Cesial Ross, 645 Fifth avenue, was entered and two electric fans valued at $75 were taken.

FIVE SETS OF TWINS IN ONE BLOCK

FIVE SETS OF TWIN LIVING ON SAME STREET

STREET RULED BY 10 TWINS

Ohio street, Clairton, boasts of five sets of twins within a block.

Whether it's just a coincidence or not, nobody knows exactly, but Clairton folk are said to think twice before making their home on Ohio street. At any rate these five pairs of boys and girls have given the natives something to think about and the rest of the world something to talk about.

Three pairs are boys, the other two sets girls. At the Carnegie Land Company playground where youngsters of the neighborhood are wont to spend a few hours each day, Pauline Baxendell and Mildred Stokes, instructors, have their hands full.

Let Pauline tell about it.

"We have George and James Taylor, Romaine and Catherine Goodman, Albert and William Felicitty, Jean and Jessie Lawson and Lester and Donald Sutter.

"They are the loveliest children—of course, sometimes a bit hard to manage. Five pairs of smiles are rare. When George and Jim are on their good behavior, Lester and Donald are sure to be 'on the warpath.'

"It's always one of a pair to start trouble. Jim gets something and George wants his share. It's the same with the Sutters—Lester is sure to be jealous of Donald or vice versa.

"The Felicitty boys are usually satisfied with anything and the girls are always happy—girls are that way naturally," she concluded rather defensively.

Furniture Sale Funds Willed Bible Classes

Furniture in the C. C. McClure homestead, Dravosburg, is directed to be sold and the proceeds to be divided between the Men's Bible Class and the Ladies' Bible Class of the Amity Presbyterian Church, according to McClure's will, which was filed for probate today. The Amity church also receives $600 in cash.

The estate is valued at $9,500, and after the sale of the furniture and the gift to the church, the balance is directed to be divided between the testator's sons, Charles E. and Fred McClure. Charles E. McClure and L. A. Morton are named executors.

CRASH VICTIM NEAR DEATH

Patrolman Stephen Jeneda, 29, who Saturday was seriously injured when his motorcycle crashed against a stone wall in the 1200 block of Chartiers avenue, West End, was reported as being in a critical condition in the Mercy Hospital today. Doctors stated that the officer was suffering from a compound fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain.

It was the same motorcycle from which Patrolman Ray Gentile was hurled to his death a few months ago on the South Side.

Janeda's mother, Mrs. Madeline Janeda, is in the same hospital, suffering from a fractured leg. Two of his nieces occupy an adjoining ward, suffering from slight injuries.

Janeda, married and the father of two children, lives at 117 Steuben street.

JAWORSKI LOOT MAY BE FOUND ON FARM

Chief of Sleuths to Quiz Member of Gang Arrested In Buffalo; Confesses

Chief George W. Murren, of the County Detective Bureau, was preparing today to go to Buffalo to interview Frank Moszczenski, member of the notorious Paul Jaworski gang, arrested in that city Friday.

He is alleged to have confessed part in the Coverdale payroll holdup and the Central City Bank robbery.

Buffalo police say the prisoner has declared his willingness to aid in another search of the Weckoski farm in Washington County, where much of the loot of the Coverdale robbery was buried. Of $104,000 supposed to have been hidden on the farm, only $37,000 was recovered.

THREE INJURED IN FIGHT AT HOSPITAL

Drink-Crazed Orderly Rows, Threatens Nurses; Police Are Hurt During Scuffle

Two policemen were injured last night while subduing an orderly, said to have been crazed by drink, in Presbyterian Hospital. They were Patrolman Ephraim Reatchlous, kicked in the stomach, and Patrolman Herbert Akins, struck in the eye with a handybilly when Patrolman Arthur Jennings, who struck at the orderly missed his mark.

At North Side Police Station the orderly gave his name as Robert Gardener, 56. He was only slightly injured in the melee.

The police were summoned to the hospital on a riot call when Gardner was alleged to have threatened several nurses and began breaking up furniture in the office, police said.

Bank Depositors To Rank Alike At Uniontown

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 15.—Christmas savings funds in the closed Citizens Title & Trust Company will receive no special preference in the distribution of the bank's assets, according to Frank W. Jackson, named by the state banking department to supervise the affairs of the institution.

It had been expected that the $60,000 in Christmas savings might be given preferential consideration, but the banking examiner has announced that all deposits will rank on a parity.

More than 1,000 depositors have already filed proofs of claim. Banking officials are hopeful there will be no loss to any depositors.

SERVES CHURCH 35 YEARS

Appropriate services were held yesterday at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church at McKees Rocks, in commemoration of the rounding out of 35 years as pastor by the Rev. John H. Tarnedde, who has continuously served the congregation since 1894.

The services were jointly in English and German and the pastor was assisted by the Rev. Elmer Bittle, of Pittsburgh, and the Rev. Paul Porath, of Carnegie. Special music also was rendered for the occasion.

Born in Schleswig, Germany, Mr. Tarnedde studied for the ministry at Kropp and upon completing his studies came to America and was ordained at Philadelphia. Following a series of missionary assignments he accepted the call of the McKees Rocks church and preached his first sermon as pastor of that congregation July 22, 1894.

SMOKE BANNED BY BRENTWOOD COUNCIL

Borough Takes Lead to Keep Community Clean; Object to New Road

Determined to be in the van of those endeavoring to abolish the smoke nuisance in the Pittsburgh district, Brentwood Borough council at its regular meeting passed finally an ordinance making it illegal for any person or persons, company or factory to permit the escape of smoke in any great quantity. This is a part of the drive by the municipality to keep that particular section spotless.

Inscreased lighting system along Brownsville road was held in abeyance and defective sidewalks will be temporarily repaired at once.

Objections was filed by Charles Eleanor Nies to the route of the proposed new Clairton road. The petitioners claimed the new throughfare would cut through the whole lenght of their property which they valued at $25,000 to $30,000 and would result in heavy damages.

The treasurer's report showed the following balances: general funds, $131,057.61; sinking funds, series 1917, 1927, 1928, $5,767.11.

HUB DUAL BILL HANDICAPS PIRATES

IT TOOK the weather man to halt the pennant rush of the Pirates after mere ball clubs had found the job too big for them. The postponement of yesterday's scheduled game in Boston interrupted the Buccaneer streak, after the Bushmen had put over their seventh consecutive victory in Philadelphia on Saturday behind the fine pitching of Remy Kremer, their twelfth triumph in the last 13 games played.

Remy Kremer

Whether the enforced lay-off meant only a brief pause, or the breaking of the team's sensational stride remains for the next few games to tell. Sometimes an interruption causes an onrushing club to lose some of its impetus, and sometimes a rest proves a benefit. For one thing, in the Pirate case, it gave George Grantham an extra day in which to mend and will put him in better shape for his proposed return to the lineup in the Boston series. In any event, the Rovers lost no ground in the flag chase as far as their margin of leadership over the Cubs is concerned, as the Bruins also were idle and Pittsburgh remained out in front by three full games up to today.

THE PIRTES have been fortunate in escaping postponements and consequent double-headers. Yesterday's wash-out marked the first time a Buccaneer game has been postponed in almost six weeks, or since June 5, when rain prevented the playing of a scheduled engagement with the Braves at Forbes Field.

Up to date, the Bucs have experienced only nine postponements all told, four at home and five abroad. Yesterday's was the first on the road since May 14 at Brooklyn. If any significance may be attached to past performances, yesterday's postponement was an unfavorable break for the Corsairs, as Sunday has been their lucky day this season. They have won no fewer than nine Sunday games while losing only two.

ADAM COMOROSKY was the only Pirate to go hitless in the final number of the Philadelphia series on Saturday. That's something that doesn't happen very often. The Polish boy, whose great work has had much to do with the club's success, usually is in there pounding the ball whether his mates are connecting or not.

Comorosky has failed to hit safely in only four of his last 23 games and in only two of his last 15. Since he started to play regularly on May 13 he has made one or more safeties in 41 out of 56 games.

Adam Comorosky

ONE OF the close baseball observers not overlooking the huge part that Danie Bush is playing in the pennant drive of the Pirates by his masterful handling of the team, is A. K. Rowswell, who writes: "I cannot refrain from sending in my word of hearty approval of your splendid sport editorial in the Sun-Telegraph a few days ago. One thing in particular was very gratifiyng to me, and that was the phrase: 'Thanks to the smart and smooth handling of Donie Bush, off the field as well as on it, there is no strain on the Pittsburgh club.'

"SINCE Donie Bush came to Pittsburgh," the letter continues, "he has been the target for more unjust criticism and abuse than any man who ever wore a baseball uniform, but in spite of it all he never has 'squawked.'

"Nor have I ever heard him utter a word of complaint against the actions of the Pittsburgh fans, though down in his heart he must have known that some of the criticism hurled at him was very unfair.

"IT HAS been my good fortune to sit alongside Manager Bush in the club house and on the bench before games; many times I have watched him plan his method of attack, and many times I have seen him analyze the strength and weaknesses of the opposing clubs.

"Always I have marveled at his keen insight. Surely, the fans of Pittsburgh and surrounding territory should soon realize that Donie Bush is indeed a real leader. I was glad to see you again give public recognition of his ability."

THE CUBS will be more formidable than ever if Harold Gust Carlson's sudden return to pitching form proves lasting. The former Pirate was almost a total loss last year, winning only three games and losing two, and until recently he did not hold out much more hope for the present season. He was lifted from both of the first two games that he started and was demoted to relief duty in nine other contests. Carlson did not pitch a full game until last Monday, when he beat Boston, 11 to 3, allowing only five hits, and last Saturday he followed by shutting out the Giants, 4 to 0, yielding only four blows. It will mean a lot of help to the Chicago staff and a harder fight for Pittsburgh if he can keep that up.

Harold Carlson

YOU'VE got to be good to make your rivals in a pennant race publicly express respect and fear. That the mad dash of the surging Pirates is due to real class is admitted by the managers of both the Giants and the Cubs. Asked which club he considers the more dangerous, Pittsburgh or Chicago, John McGraw replied:

"I have been inclined to favor Pittsburgh a little from the first. The Cubs are tough to beat in their own park, with its short boundaries, but they are not so good away from home. Pittsburgh has been getting fine pitching and is a faster club than Chicago. Those Pirates have speed. Apart from men such as Cuyler, the Cubs are not so speedy."

JOE McCARTHY admits Pittsburgh is the team the Cubs will have to beat to win the pennant. "They're fast, they're hustling, they're getting good pitching, and you can't strike them out," he said.

"They're not going to be easy to beat, I'll tell you that. Of course, the Giants will have to be considered all the way, but I don't rate them as high as I do the Pirates."

UNLESS they suffer in their eight remaining games with Boston and New York on the Eastern trip three defeats more than the Cubs meet with in their eight clashes with Philadelphia and

BOSSES WOULD CURB HOMER EPIDEMIC

ST. LOUIS, July 15.—(AP.)—A majority of big league baseball managers believe the present epidemic of home run hitting is ruinous to the game and believe something should be done to increase the efficiency of pitchers, a survey made today by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, shows.

Fifteen of the 16 managers in the two big leagues answered telegrams sent by the paper.

That the principal cause of the trouble is a lively or rabbit ball is the view of a smaller majority. Miller Huggins, of the Yankees; Connie Mack, of the Athletics; Joe McCarthy, of the Cubs and Emil Fuchs, of the Braves, were the only leaders who thought that plenty of home runs helped the game. Ten leaders were stoutly opposed to the home run craze and blamed the ball.

WOULD ALTER BALL

All remedies suggested, with two or three exceptions, related to altering the ball, discoloring it, or keeping it play for longer periods. Several managers thought the liveliness in hitting was due to high visibility of the ball, the frequent use of new balls in a game, the employment of an anti-gloss process on the ball, and too great restrictions on the pitchers. Following are some of the opinions of the leaders:

Dan Howley, Browns: Go along with those who think the excessive home run hitting is ruining the game. To my mind the increase in hitting is due to weaker pitching and the handicaps on the pitchers.

Connie Mack, Athletics: "I cannot see how high frequency home runs are hurting the game. These outbreaks are caused by weak pitching."

Miller Huggins, Yankees: "Home run hitting, being spectacular, helps the game."

Russell Blackburne, White Sox: "The ball should be reduced in liveliness and present restrictions on old balls changed to allow more old balls in the game."

USE BALLS LONGER

Walter Johnson, Senators: I would keep balls in the game regardless of their condition. This would make pitchers more effective."

Roger Peckinpaugh, Indians: "I don't believe there should be any changes regulating pitching, but the ball should be deadened."

Stanley Harris, Tigers: "Any statement from me would have no effect."

Billy Southworth, Cardinals: "Something should be done to curb home run hitting. The lively ball ruins a pitchers' confidence."

Wilbert Robinson, Robins: "The home run has become a joke. I believe the umpires should treat the ball with dirt before it is used."

Donie Bush, Pirates: "Pitching is the weakest department of baseball. Anything that could be done to help the pitcher would be a good thing."

Joe McCarthy, Cubs: "Home runs don't hurt the game. The trouble is not tht ball but restrictions on pitching."

BLAMES PARKS

Jack Hendricks, Reds: "Build ball parks, not band boxes."

Emil Fuchs, Braves: "I believe the spirit of the day demands the lively ball."

Bert Shotton, Phils: "Home run hitting is running away with baseball. The ball is at fault."

John McGraw, Giants: "The present hitting is ruinous to the game. There can be no doubt the present ball is livelier. Discoloring the balls might help some."

TOMORROW—DO TWO AND TWO MAKE FOUR?

MARTIN, FARR BOX AT BOWL TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

A perfect little human boxing machine who has been the despair of the best men in his division, Andy Martin, of Boston, will be on display in the main bout of 10 rounds in the weekly show at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, tonight, mingling with a rugged specimen who has met all of the stars, Johnny Farr, of Cleveland.

Martin, who possesses so much class that it is a wonder there is anybody else in the featherweight ranks capable of outdistancing him to the extent of being champion while he is around, is no new story to the fans of this section, who marveled at his form in his two bouts with Johnny Datto and Midget Mike O'Dowd at Motor Square Garden. He was slated to oppose Benny Bass in the opening show of the Bowl, but reinjured one of his hands against Steve Smith at the Jolly Bowl in New Castle a few days after beating Eddie Shea in Boston, and Smith was substituted for him here. Andy owns one victory over Bass, scored at Providence, and also has won over other stars, but finds it difficult to obtain bouts with the leaders, who almost invariably give the excuse that he is "a hard man to make a showing against."

ANDY GOOD SHOWMAN

Andy is all of that, and not because he himself is not a good showman, but because he moves so fast and shoots both hands so rapidly in the direction of his opponents that they seldom are able to get started. He keeps them off balance while he hits them at will.

Tonight's battle will be Farr's first in this section, but his record around the country is such that he stands out with Martin among the best little men in the ring. An interesting battle should result. Martin is the boxer and Farr the slugger, and combined they make up the ideal combination for a lively scrap.

Harry Williams, local Negro light heavyweight, boxes George Pavlick, of Johnstown, in the eight-round semi-final, while, in two six-round preliminaries, Herman Folins, of Ambridge, boxes Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, and Eddie Guba, of Clairton, meets Frankie Moran, of Homewood.

Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Marty Gold, of Philadelphia, box the windup at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, tonight. Tony Ross, of Carnegie and Sharon, meets Billy Stobe in a 10-round main bout at Detroit.

TOUGH ONE FOR CEDER

Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, boxes one of the real contenders for the welterweight championship when he opposes Baby Joe Gans, Negro star, of California, in the main bout of the double windup card at the Bridgeville Speedway Thursday night. Baby Joe has met virtually all of the leaders and several times has been at the point of being signed for a bout for the title.

BUC HURLERS DISPLAY CLASS IN PHILLY

By Staff Correspondent

BOSTON, July 15.—The feat of three Pirate pitchers in finishing three successive ball games at the Baker Bowl is something that might well be inscribed among the heroics of the game—and to many fans, such recognition of a noteworthy achievement in a bandbox park would be a relief from the praise lavished on a lot of ordinary hitters for making "Chinese" homers.

Mr. Ripley may have this little data for his interesting "Believe It Or Not." Three of Donie Bush's righthanders—Ervin Brame, Burleigh Grimes and Remy Kremer, in the order named, started and closed their three running fights with the Quakers.

HURLERS HAVE CONTROL

Ball games at the notorious Baker Bowl often bring on a whole parade of pitchers; the fact that the Pirate trio was able to stick it out carries some significance.

In the matter of control, for instance, it indicates that the three righthanders were throwing their offerings to the right spot to keep the Quaker home-run makers from pulling their drives into Broad street. And as control is conceded to be one of the best assets of a pitcher, it is logical to surmise that Bush's three pitchers in this feat are close to their best form.

Moreover, there is a good morale and team spirit on the Pittsburgh club. To illustrate, the Pirates were discussing their activities in the sweltering series with the Phillies

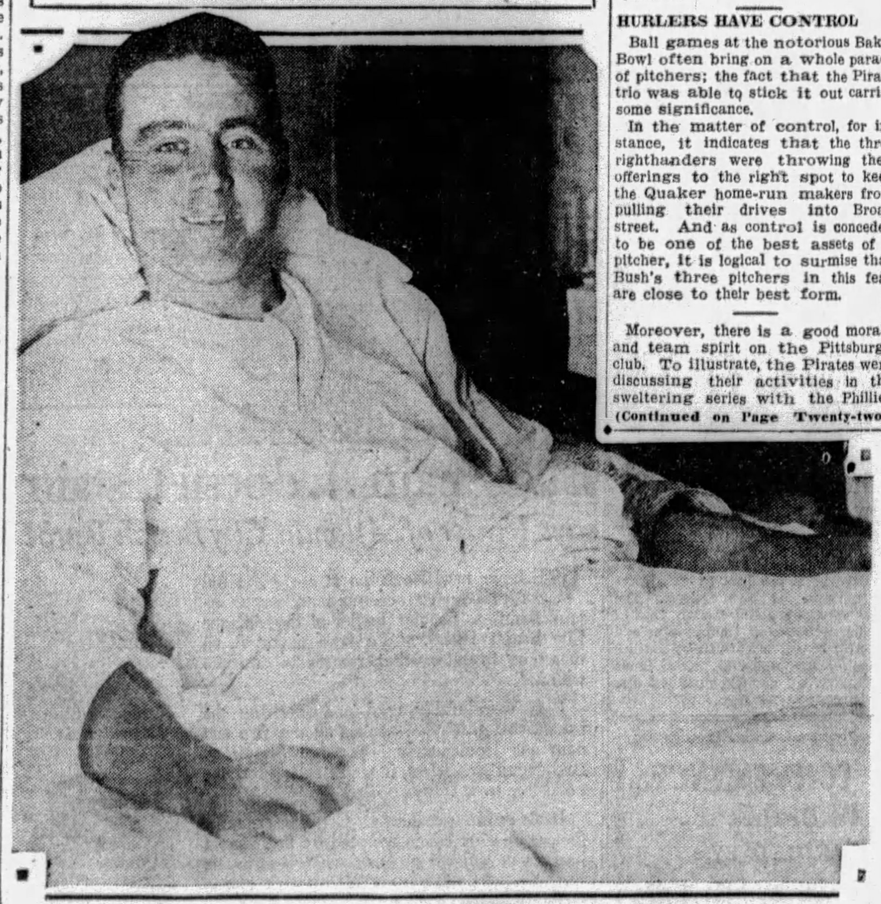
BED-RIDDEN PIE



PIE TRAYNOR

Traynor, captain and star third baseman of the Pirates, is confined to his bed in a Philadelphia hotel as a result of an aggravated condition of his old hip injury and was unable to accompany the team to Boston. He has been ordered to remain in bed for upwards of a week and will be lucky to get back for the final series of the eastern sweep, against the Giants in New York. Photo shows him trying to laugh off his predicament.

Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, July 15.—After an enforced respite, which may have been a help to them, the Pirate hosts today are keyed up for more diamond warfare. The undefeated invaders from Pittsburgh are feeling just about right on top of their seven straight victories in the East, but they had a deep feeling of responsibility concerning eight games slated with the Braves and Giants ere they hit the trail which leads to the Oakland Orchard.

Heine Meine, St. Louis Dutchman, is down on the books for the delayed opening of the four-game series with the Braves. The series was supposed to start yesterday afternoon, but showers, falling shortly before the appointed game time, cancelled the sport for the afternoon.

CARD DOUBLE BILL

A double-header has been arranged for Wednesday afternoon. Meine is expected to draw Southpaw Eddie Brandt or Bob Smith as a slab opponent. Both Brandt and Smith are ready for the mound assignment.

It is altogether likely that Stewie Clarke and Sparky Adams will continue in the Pirate lineup this afternoon. The former is a "cinch" to play the hot corner and it was felt this morning that another day's rest would be needed by Grantham.

At the present writing, young Clarke makes that famous baseball name look like it was made to appear by the man who led the Pirates to so much glory.

As an infielder, the Wichita wonder warmed the cockles of Donie Bush's heart, but there seemed to be some doubt as to his hitting. The advance information to the contrary, notwithstanding, I regard Clark as one of the best-looking recruits to come to the Pittsburgh club in many seasons.

CLARKE LOOKS GOOD

The youth ought to have some hitting power as he is a robust boy of 160 pounds who can run swiftly. In Saturday's joust with the Phillies he hammered the ball into the left field bleachers, and this isn't done every day. Another time Frank O'Doul had his back against the screen as he gathered in the rocket. Denny Southern crashed into the center field fence to spoil one extra-base blow for Stewart and yet he came out of the fight with a homer and a double.

Clarke proved to be Johnny-on-the-spot as Pie Traynor left the lineup with injuries. He already had convinced Manager Bush that he was a crackerjack shortstop and in his first game at third he handled the assignment perfectly. Right now he looks as good to Bush as U. S. Steel preferred.

ADAMS COMES THROUGH

And Sparky Adams appears to be getting back to the form that made him a big-league star. Truth to tell, the uncomplaining little fellow started the present race under the handicap of a bad leg.

Adams, however, will not get second base preference over George Grantham, who has been one of the big guns in the big advances made by the Pittsburgh entry.

Traynor, meantime, is resting in Philadelphia, but it is felt that he will be able to join his mates at the Polo Grounds Thursday. After finishing with the Braves on Wednesday, the Pittsburghers will move in, on General McGraw and his defending Giants. Four contests with the Polo Grounders are listed.

S. A. R. GOLF EVENT TODAY

The Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution is collaborating with the Pennsylvania Society in staging a one-day golf tournament at the Butler Country Club today. More than 100 members and eligible members are participating in the affair, and after the golf is finished they will join in a stag dinner this evening.

The Pennsylvania and Cornell alumni of this district are matched for a team fight at the Edgewood Country Club tomorrow in a contest that promises to be an interesting affair. Kenneth Witherow, district committeeman of the U. S. G. A. public links section, is handling the Penn end of the tourney, while Jack McGhee of Chartiers Heights, is directing Cornell's part.

Tomorrow, the four boys who tied at 70 for the second, third and fourth places in the Pittsburgh-Sun-Telegraph's William Randolph Hearst junior golf tourney at Schenley last Thursday—Elmer Davis, of Pittsburgh; Christopher Paterlini, of Monongahela; John Zamiska, Jr., of Bentleyville, and Carl Scajbarretti, of Pittsburgh—will stage a playoff over the municipal links at 9:30 o'clock. Play will be at 18 holes medal.

A'S WIN, INCREASE LEAD OVER YANKEES

GIANTS SPLIT WITH CARDS; REDS COP

By LES CONKLIN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The world champion Yankees are trailing the Athletics by exactly 100 points in the American League this morning, which is a long way from home on July 15 in any man's league. The Yanks, who had cut the lead of the Mackmen down to seven and one-half games, encountered a stumbling block yesterday in Detroit and lost, 7 to 3, while the A's were nosing out Cleveland.

George Uhle, who had lost six of his last seven games, struck out 10 New York batters and yielded but six hits. He looked like an also ran, however, until the seventh inning when his mates knocked George Pipgras off the mound and scored five runs with the aid of errors by Durocher and Dickey.

A'S BEAT INDIANS

Cleveland held the Athletics at bay until the tenth inning when Jimmy Zinn, relieving Hudlin of the pitching burden, was tagged for three hits and a 5-to-3 defeat. Al Simmons, Connie Mack's celebrated cripple, starred at bat with four healthy hits.

A pitching duel between Garland Braxton, of Washington, and Al Thomas, of the White Sox, was broken up in the eighth inning when the Nats scored five runs to grab a 7-to-1 decision.

Jack Russell, of the Red Sox, rang the bell with a three-hit performance as Boston subdued the Browns, 5 to 2. Russell pitched hitless ball for the first six frames.

After outpointing the Cardinals, 7 to 6, on Terry's hit in the eleventh, the Giants dropped the second game, 4 to 3. Denver Bill Walker held the Cards to one hit in seven innings of the nightcap, but blew up in the eighth when the champions put on a three-run rally climaxed by High's single.

ROUSH, JACKSON HURT

Injuries crippled Roush and Jackson, two of McGraw's brightest stars. Roush tripped over first base and Jackson was hit on the leg by a line drive.

The Cincinnati Reds made whoopee at the expense of Brooklyn, lacing five pitchers for 16 hits and winning in a romp, 12 to 3.

FARR, MARTIN BOX TONIGHT

LOUGHRAN A STANDOUT

In New York they are conceding Jimmy Braddock a fine chance of defeating Tommy Loughran in their 15-round bout for the light-heavyweight championship at the Yankee Stadium next Thursday night. Yet only last January Leo Lomski defeated Braddock in 10 rounds, after Loughran had rallied from two knockdowns by Lomski in the first round and come back to give the tough Pole a shellacking, and last year Joe Sekyra, the Dayton trial horse, who has been beaten by quite a few of them, won a 10-round decision over Braddock, and Nando Tassi held Braddock to a draw in 10 rounds. Braddock's reputation has been built up on his feat of breaking Pete Latzo's jaw and scoring knockouts over Tuffy Griffiths and Jimmy Slattery. He is a slow, unimaginative plodder with dynamite in his right hand and will have to knock out Loughran (a trick never accomplished) in order to win; and a slow-witted opponent always has looked bad in the same ring with the brilliant Tommy.

One of the best boxing publications is "Bang," published semi-monthly by Billy Stevens in Chicago, the third issue of which is just at hand. It contains only 12 pages, but is full of good reading matter and sprightly illustrations and sells for a dime.

RODGERS VS. GREGORIO?

Jackie Rodgers, local Negro bantamweight, may meet Vidal Gregorio, the Spaniard, in one of the bouts on the Mickey Walker-Leo Lomski card in Philadelphia, August 19. Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, refused to meet Rodgers at New Castle, Pa., tonight.

Young Rudy and Teddy Welch, those two frequent rivals, have been rematched for another windup at Butler, July 23.

Billy Jones, the Negro heavyweight, who left Pittsburgh to make good around Philadelphia, may meet Emmett Rocco in the main bout at New Castle Jolly Bowl, July 29.

I. E. Goodridge, who recently stepped out as a matchmaker at the Washington (Pa.) Gardens, plans to stage his own shows in the armory at Washington, beginning next Monday night.

Miss Kucera, Wright Star in Swim Meet

Diving exhibitions by Charles Dunsworth, of the Rock Bottom swimming team, from the 60-foot cliff, featured the big water meet held yesterday at the Rock Bottom Pool, Edgewood.

Miss Bessy Kucera, low board champion of P. A. A., won the diving event, Bill Wright, former captain of the University of Pittsburgh aquatic team, gave a good exhibition of swimming when he negotiated the 100 yards in the fast time of 56 seconds.

More than 5,000 spectators witnessed the meet. The summary:

BOYS' EVENTS.

150-yard medley—Won by P. A. A. (Weaver, Gelsinger and Bill Wright); Willows Pool, second; Rock Bottom, third. Time, 1 minute 31 2-5 seconds.

200-yard relay—Won by Pitt (Isley, Aldrussio, Corcoran and McQuinn); Willows Pool, second; Rock Bottom, third. Time, 1 minute 44 1-5 seconds.

U. S. NET STARS LOSE

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., July 15.—(A.P.)—Turning the battle into a rout, the invading tennis forces of Oxford and Cambridge universities swept 10 of the 12 matches with a combined Princeton and Williams team to win the long-drawn-out two-day contest by a count of 16 victories to five.

The Americans came up a bit, however, when first Wolf and then Appel pulled out their matches. Wolf, the Williams captain, downed De Ricou, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6, and Appel, Princeton leader, toppled Avory, 6-4, 2-6, 13-11, after a desperate struggle against the Britisher's well-rounded and aggressive game.

All told, the Britishers won eight out of nine doubles and eight out of 12 singles.

W. O. W. WINS IN OVERTIME BATTLE

By TOM BIRKS.

Overtime games seem to be the order of things down McKees Rocks way. W. O. W. outfit went 14 innings yesterday afternoon to beat New Brighton, 7 to 6. Capelli started for the Class A champions, but was bumped hard in the ninth inning, and Chuck Dunn went to the rescue. The game strung along until the fourteenth frame. New Brighton got one marker in its half, and then with two out and runners on second and third, Haram kicked in with a long single, and the game was over.

The game put an end to the Sunday losing streak that had Manager Jedinak worried.

LUNTZ FANS NINE

Immaculate Heart went into the third round of the Spalding Invitation series by dusting off the Twin City outfit, 5-2. Haas pitched a great game for the Radiator boys, only allowing seven hits, but Joe Dobbs' wrecking crew bunched their hits and copped the game.

Luntz struck out nine of the opposition for the West Penn athletes, Olsen was the big hitter, kicking in with three hits and scoring two runs. A home run, double and a single being his share of the seven hits.

Mt. Washinngton C. M. C. will show its stuff at the Schenley High School field this evening, meeting the Jimmy Coslett Club for the first time in league baseball. O'Brien has been strengthening his club, and the fans following the Herron Hill outfit should see a good battle.

HURLERS DOUBTFUL

The first game of the second half of the Commercial and Industrial League will be flashed this evening at Oliver High School field, when the Reick-McJunkin nine meets the boys from Gimbels. The officials of the Gimbel club are outspoken in admitting that they are making a big bid for the second half championship.

Russ Roberts or Gil Scannell will work against the Milk Boys, while Laboon may get the assignment for Stuhlfire's aggregation. If the playoff for the first half between Reick-McJunkin and Carnegie Steel be arranged for the first half of the week, Laboon will probably be kept for that assignment.

The Wilmerding-North Bessemer West Penn League game has been arranged for tomorrow evening at North Bessemer. Both teams are eager to get off to a good start in that loop for the second half, every club in the loop being after Verona's scalp. The same evening will find Cheswick at Universal.

The Original Cubans, fresh from their clash with the Homestead Grays, will play their final game in the West Penn district tomorrow evening, when they meet the Dormont Inter-County leaguers. The Cubans have a great club and play smart baseball. This is the first time the American Negro club from Dexter Park, Brooklyn, has played in Pittsburgh outside of meeting the Posey aggregation. The Cubans are anxious to show their stuff against the fast Inter-County League competition. A good game is expected.

ST. JOHN'S, THOMAS WIN

The St. John's and the J. L. Thomas nines went on a fine hitting spree at Sullivan Field yesterday, the Saints winning by a 16-10 score. Out at Magee Field, the Jimmy Smiths hit the offerings of two Butler pitchers hard and won, 11 to 7, and the North Side Civics got another fine drubbing, losing to the Beltzhoover Inter-County Leaguers, 16 to 0.

The J. J. Boyles, of the Wagner Central League, bumped off Reliance Life, 24 to 9, and the East End Cardinals, after holding the lead until the final inning, lost to the Hazelwood Independents by a 9-to-7 score.

BOOSTERS PLAN WELCOME TO PIRATES

Plans to accord the Pirates a public welcome when they arrive at the Pennsylvania Station here next Monday morning and to observe the week as "Pirates' Booster Week" were laid yesterday when a group of public-spirited citizens met in the William Penn Hotel and organized a committee to boost the Pirates for boosting Pittsburgh. The program is to be completed at a second meeting of the committee, to be held in room 38, William Penn Hotel, Wednesday noon.

Thomas A. Dunn, first vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, has been chosen temporary chairman of the committee. The idea which prompted the organization of the boosters' committee is a desire to take advantage for the city of the advertising possibilities of a pennant contending baseball club.

After the Pirates have been accorded a public welcome next Monday morning the Bucs and the Brooklyn Robins, who accompany them here, will be received by the committee at breakfast at the William Penn Hotel.

The program is to include expressions of appreciation at Forbes Field on Saturday afternoon, July 27, when the Boston Braves will be met in a double-header.

All-Age Crown Aim Of Blue Larkspur

CHICAGO, July 15.—(A.P.)—The title of champion 3-year-old of America is not enough for Blue Larkspur and his owner, Col. E. R. Bradley. The all-age title is their next goal.

When the plucky son of Black Servant-Blossom Time came out uninjured from the American classic in which he established himself as the peer of the season's 3-year-olds, his handlers began planning on a campaign to carry him to the crown Reigh Count won last year.

Long's Sport Comment

Brooklyn, the Pirates will still be in first place when they return home next Monday morning to be honored with the royal reception that is being arranged for them by local business men and fans. The Bucs' program appears to be much harder than that of the Cubs, but you can't always tell from surface indications.

LAST YEAR the Phils defeated the Bruins six times in succession, when the Cubs were anticipating a walk-over, and though Brooklyn has not won a game from Chicago this season out of six played, the Robins may be found in much improved form when the McCarthy outfit arrives this time.

Barney Dreyfuss

The management of the Braves wanted to move up today's game and advertise a double-header for yesterday, but President Barney Dreyfuss declined to overwork his club unnecessarily in order to manufacture a dollar-grabbing dual bill that could be avoided.

A DOUBLE-HEADER in the present Boston series became necessary after all by reason of the postponement of yesterday's game, and it is quite strange that the management of the Braves, having the whole say in the matter after the postponement, ordered a double bill for Wednesday afternoon, instead of playing a bargain card today or tomorrow.

It is not customary to wait until the final day of a series to play a double-header, and in this case it involves all the more hardship upon the Pirates because the playing of two games instead of one will prevent them from leaving Boston in time to reach New York for a night's rest before opening their hard series with the Giants on Thursday, as Manager Bush had planned.

O.G. accepts Challenge at stronghold of its rivals

Show-down test . . . at Roosevelt Field, New York, reveals the true cigarette preference of Aviators.

The question is often asked: "Does OLD GOLD pick out its strongholds . . . the places where it outsells its three rivals . . . when it makes its 'Concealed Name Tests?'" The answer is "No!" OLD GOLD doesn't seek "set-ups" but "show-downs."

As a youngster, just a bit over two years old, "O. G." couldn't be expected to match "sales totals" with the three veteran brands, each from 12 to 16 years old. Give a young fellow time!

But when it comes to comparing quality... that's "O. G's." meat. It is doing that every day. And romping home with the bacon, in the very places where the three older brands have their greatest following.

For example, look what happened at Roosevelt Field, New York's greatest airport. Here OLD GOLDS rank third in sales.

But when 68 Roosevelt aviators and their mechanics took the "Concealed Name Test," OLD GOLD won, hands down, as the most appealing cigarette! (See Certified Public Accountants' report below.)

This shows the real significance of the "Concealed Name Test." It shows that many men are buying cigarettes by sheer habit rather than by taste-preference. It shows that when brand names are forgotten and quality alone prevails, old favorites cannot compete with "O. G's." mellow and honey-like smoothness.

You are entitled to the best for your cigarette money. Why not make sure you are getting it? The "Concealed Name Test" is easily made . . . and it lets your taste decide . . . fair and square!

BRAND NAMES OVERBOARD! JUST LET YOUR TASTE DECIDE

So the test was put to 68 air skippers and mechanics at Roosevelt Field. OLD GOLD romped home with 34% of the first choices.

Certified Public Accountants' Report

"Concealed Name Test" at Roosevelt Field

We hereby certify that on April 11, 1929, we conducted a "Concealed Name Test" of the four leading cigarette brands, among 68 aviators and mechanics at Roosevelt Field. The following is a complete and accurate summary of the results of this test.

BRAND	FIRST CHOICES	RESULT
OLD GOLD	23	34%
"Brand X"	13	19%
"Brand Y"	17	25%
"Brand Z"	15	22%
TOTALS	68	100%

MAKEUP OF DAVIS CUP TEAM ANNOUNCED

YANKS CHOSEN TO OPPOSE GERMANS

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP.)—Bill Tilden, Frank Hunter, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn were nominated today by the United States Lawn Tennis Association to represent the United States in the inter-zone Davis Cup tennis final against Germany at Berlin on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Selection of the American lineup was made by the Davis Cup committee of the U. S. L. T. A. and announced through Joseph W. Wear, of Philadelphia, its chairman. Announcement of this action was telegraphed immediately to Fitz-Eugene Dixon, of Philadelphia, non-playing captain, who is with the team in Europe.

SELECTIONS SURPRISE

The team as named comes as something of a surprise to tennis followers who had expected to see Hunter and possibly Tilden shelved in favor of younger talent who might be expected to play a part in Davis Cup offensives of the future. The naming of the new "big four" means the sidetracking of George Lott, of Chicago, and John Hennessey, of Indianapolis, at least for the contest with Germany. It had been generally predicted that one of these two would play in the singles and that Hunter would not be used.

Word drifted back from abroad, however, that Tilden was urging the selection of his friend, Hunter, for one of the places on the team. Today's announcement indicates that Big Bill's recommendation is being followed.

YANKS CONFIDENT

Although the German team showed unexpected strength in eliminating England over the week-end, the Davis cup committee believes it has picked a team that can defeat the Teutons and win the right to meet France in the challenge round for the trophy a week later in Paris.

Allison and Van Ryn, on their brilliant play at Wimbledon, will be favored to win the doubles as they have beaten the British pair which easily conquered the German representatives in this event.

TEUTONS TOP BRITONS

Germany conquered England, three matches to two, in the final round of European zone play for the Davis Cup, completed yesterday. Germany thus gained the right to meet the United States, American zone winners, in the interzone finals July 19, 20, 21.

Strangely enough, it was the collapse of H. W. (Bunny) Austin, considered the ace of the British team, that permitted the Teutons to triumph. With the series tied at two victories apiece, an attack of cramps forced Austin to quit in the fifth and deciding set of his match with Dr. H. Prenn, German national champion.

So severe was the attack that Austin fell and had to be carried off the court.

Austin had taken the first set at 8-6, dropped the second at 2-6 and the third at 4-6, and squared the match by winning the fourth, 6-4. In the fifth set Dr. Prenn had run up a lead of 5 games to 1, within a game of victory, when Austin was forced to retire.

In the first of the final day's singles matches, J. C. Gregory, of England, had squared the series by defeating the German, Hans Moldenhauer, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3.

EARNS MOTHER'S KISS

When Joe Stevenson, of Wegley, Pa., a caddie at the Greensburg Country Club, told his mother he had captured the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's William Randolph Hearst junior golf tournament, held at Schenley Park, she couldn't resist kissing him. His father, James Stevenson, is similarly proud of his titleholding son.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Delvecchio, pro, and Robertshaw chairman of the caddie welfare committee at the Greensburg Country Club, give Joe a big hand on his victory.

PHOTOS BY D. E. BENJAMIN, SUN-TELEGRAPH PHOTOGRAPHER.

Mrs. Stevenson | Patricia | Daniel | Joseph | James | Eileen | Teddy | Bobby | Jane

The winner of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's tourney is one of a large family. He has four brothers and three sisters. Patricia is aged 1 year, Jane 3, Bobby 7, Teddy 9, Eileen 11, James 14, Joe 14 and Daniel 17. Joe's the idol of the brood.

TELLING SIS

Jane Stevenson, 3, learns first hand how her big brother, Joe, won the junior tourney.

JUNIOR CHAMP REAL BOY OF REAL FOLKS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Back in the hills about a mile from Penn, Pa., is a little place known to the natives as Wegley—a quiet country spot, marred only by the presence of a nearby mining operation. Along the main stem, which connects Jeannette with Irwin, now under construction, and nestled back in the side of a hill, beautified with large shady trees, one will find an unpretentious, even old-fashioned, farm house quite in keeping with its environment. It is the home of the Stevensons—James Stevenson and his big family. And though the home of the Stevensons may appear unpretentious and even old-fashioned, there is a peaceful, satisfying atmosphere that makes it fascinatingly attractive.

It was at his home that we first really knew Joe Stevenson, the 14-year-old lad who stroked the Schenley links boldly for a splendid 89, three over par, the first time he ever saw the course, and succeeded in winning the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's second annual golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy. Surrounded by his proud mother, four brothers and three sisters, one came to realize that at least one more hero had been born to the world.

FAMILY PROUD

From Baby Paddy—that's Patricia, you know—who is still celebrating her first year in this grand old world, to Daniel, 17, who is a star basketball player for Jeannette High School, there isn't a brother or sister, and we include Jane, 2, a beautiful golden-haired miss, who would capture anyone with her delightful smile; Bobby, who is 7, and Teddy, 9, who have golf aspirations themselves; Eilleen, 11, the charming dark-haired, serious-minded girl who hopes to be a school teacher, and James, who is 12, who doesn't idolize their next-to-the-oldest brother, who has won wide fame through athletic achievement.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson feel happy and modestly proud of Joe, and it would be hard to forget Mrs. Stevenson's kindly word of thanks in which she said:

"I want to thank the Sun-Telegraph for giving my boy the opportunity to win its tourney."

Yes, Joe comes from a real home. His folks are not rich, but they are wealthy in health. A happier home circle one could not find if he searched the world over. His dad is a moulder.

"Do you play at any other sport outside of golf?" Joe was asked.

"Sure I do," he answered, "but there is only one real game for me, and that's golf. I played football on the Jeannette High junior team last fall, and I play basketball and baseball with some of the smaller teams around here—but none of them come up to golf."

PLAYED THREE YEARS

The Hearst Trophy winner has been playing at the links game for three years. He caddies and helps in keeping the greens at the Greensburg Country Club during the summer months, and after school during the outdoor season while that institution of learning is in session. He attended Jeannette High last year, but will enter the Brush Creek school as a freshman in the fall.

Joe was born at Barberton, O., but he doesn't remember much about that Buckeye town, because he has lived at Wegley for the last eight years. And eight from 14 leaves him a pretty small boy, so one cannot blame his memory for not serving him.

If you ever want to see Joe's eyes sparkle and a big smile cut his face from ear to ear, ask him about the improvised golf course 10 or 11 of the lads in his neighborhood built not far distant from his home. He won't admit it, but it is said Joe and his brother Dan, whom Joe considers the better golfer of the two, were responsible for its start.

It is nine holes and covers two acres. Each hole is a mashie shot.

GREENS WELL KEPT

The greens are pretty well kept, and the cups are well fixed with tin cans. Most of the boys who do not own clubs fashion their own. And it is surprising to see what fine results they get—the club-heads are of lead, but they are moulded into real duplicates of golf clubs. The heads are heavy, and the shafts, made of whittled-down broomsticks and what not, are rather thick; but they certainly make fine substitutes for regular clubs, in the opinion of the boys.

And if you don't think the six matched clubs Joe is going to receive as a part of his prize when the presentation banquet is held next week won't get a lot of work—and admiration—you're thinking through your hat.

Joe's father is going to attend the banquet with him, if for no other reason than to help him carry home his prizes — the 16½-inch Hearst trophy, the matched irons and the solid gold medal.

A fine, clean-cut boy, whose greatest ambition is to be a professional golfer of the caliber of Walter Hagen, Joe is a good reason for anyone to be proud of. And, along with his family, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is none the less elated.

The Greensburg Country Club now has two champions, Perry Delvicchio, pro-greenkeeper there, who is soon to defend his Western Pennsylvania open title, and Joe Stevenson. When he learned of the hoonr that had come to Joe, L. O. Robertshaw, chairman of the caddie welfare committee at that club, immediately hastened to congratulate the boy.

The only other competition Joe has participated in in golf has been the caddie tournaments at Greensburg, in which he played in the subjunior class for the younger boys, and was not permitted to play for the club caddie championship. He has his eyes on it now, and he hopes to add it to his laurels.

Correct Baseball Scoring

(Watch for this instructive daily feature in correct baseball scoring if you are interested in our national pastime. It will take you through representative plays which may come up any day at the ball yard.)

PLAY NO 11.

Gilbert is at bat as first up and misses a strike which bounces out of the glove of Hogan in a game in which Henry is pitching. Gilbert races to first base and is safe.

What goes in the box score and summary?

ANSWER.

Charge Gilbert with a time at bat and credit Henry with a strikeout. Charge Hogan with the error which allows the batsman to get on base.

Chief Error in Scoring—Giving Hogan a passed ball instead of charging him with an error.

Watch for play No. 12 tomorrow.

JUNIOR GOLF WINNER WOULD BE A HAGEN

By Joe Stevenson

Winner of Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Junior Golf Tournament.

It certainly was a big surprise to me when I was infromed that I had won the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's junior tournament and the William Randolph Hearst trophy. I left Schenley Park under the impression I had one of the high scores, but I didn't think it would stand.

It surely pleased me a great deal to know I had made the best score in such a large field. My 69 was the best score I ever made, and I think I was lucky to get it. The lowest score I had made previously to the Sun-Telegraph's tournament at Schenley Park was an 82 at the Greensburg Country Club, where I caddie.

Before I started playing last Thursday, I didn't think I'd have a chance to win, because in my practice rounds every day for several weeks prior to the tournament I was scoring poorly. The day before the tourney I was a little bit encouraged when I had a fairly good practice round, but I thought maybe it was only a flash.

UPSET BY PROTEST

When I left the touranment for home, after playing, I did not know just how I stood—in fact, I wasn't sure that I had not been unfairly disqualified. Some one protested my score on the tenth hole to the tournament director and it made me feel bad. I was so worked up over the matter that I did not know whether or not I had been exonerated.

On the tenth hole, I hit my drive out of bounds. Some one said I hit my second drive into a sandtrap below the green, but that didn't happen at all. My second drive was on the edge of the green, and I sank a long putt. Under the local rules at Schenley, my long putt gave me a birdie 3. One of the boys caddying in our foursome hit a ball after I had played mine out of bounds, and that was how some one was mistaken in thinking it was my second shot.

My one great ambition in life is to be a star professional golfer like Walter Hagen—I admire Hagen and Horton Smith very much and think they make one of the strongest teams in the world. Bobby Jones is all right—but Hagen, well, he has an edge on Jones in a good many ways.

IS HIGH SCHOOL STAR

I'm going to keep practicing and working hard so some day I can reach their class. I've been playing golf for only about three years, but watching and caddying for good golfers, such as Perry Delvicchio, pro at our club, who is the Western Pennsylvania open champion, has helped me develop my game greatly.

I like to swim and play baseball and basketball and was a halfback on the Jeannette High School football team last fall—but the best game of all is golf, and I hope I am good enough to go ahead and make something out of myself in the sport that stands for everything that is good in competition, particularly gentlemanliness and good sportsmanship.

Sonnenberg and Joe Malcewicz to Meet

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—(AP.)—Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, world heavyweight wrestling champion, will meet Joe Malcewicz, Utica, N. J., in a best two out of three falls match here July 24.

Sonnenberg is reported to have been guaranteed $17,500, while Malcewicz signified his willingness to meet the champion for 2½ per cent of the gate.

Allison, Van Ryn Victors in Spain

BARCELONA, Spain, July 15. — (AP.) — Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, barnstorming American tennis stars, continued their triumphs at the expense of Spanish players yesterday.

Van Ryn defeated Durall, 6-2, 6-0, while Allison conquered Morales, 6-2, 6-3. Then the Americans paired in the doubles to defeat Maier and Saprissa, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

BUCCO HURLERS SHOW CONTROL

as they boarded the train for Boston. Naturally, the Pittsburgh boys were feeling "right smart" about their successes which ran their victory string for the tour to seven games. The fact that three pitchers had downed the Quakers without getting relief was touched upon.

FUSSELL MODEST

"That was quite a thing, wasn't it?" mused Brame, whose berth was opposite Fred Fussell's, "And," continued the Kentuckian, "If Fred had a little more luck in the first game of the series he might have worked the entire fight.

"No, I think it was my own fault—I didn't pitch right in one or two places," retorted Fussell. The lefthander, however, carried on until the seventh inning when the home batters began to solve him.

Kremer appeared to be the same wiz who won that sobriquet while starring in the Coast League. The veteran had a swifter Saturday that tied the Quakers into knots. Remy recorded his tenth victory of the seaon that saw him in a very bad start. Inasmuch as the year is only half over, the Frenchman has a chance to cop 20 games in the race. A lot of veterans of the sport regard him as one of the game's greatest.

COMMY STOPPED

The Wilkes-Barre coal miner finally was stopped after he had made 15 hits in six games. Comorosky was flagged by Sam Dailey and Bob McGraw, although in his last trip to the plate Saturday, the Polish Flyer almost toppled Fresco Thompson with a drive which was snagged by the infielder. Thompson didn't have to move for the savage smash.

The good old folks of Swoyersville, Commy's home town, are preparing to have a day for the Pirate star. The little town near Wilkes-Barre thinks much of Comorosky and they have arranged to honor him at the Polo Grounds Sunday.

Speaking of honor for diamond athletes, it develops that Capt. Pie Traynor is missing out on one of these affairs through his present misfortune. On two occasions, the popular Bostonian has been given sendoffs here, and another plan was afoot that had to be abandoned for the present.

Mack Garner Gets $5,000 from Bradley

CHICAGO, July 15.—(AP.)—Jockey Mack Garner's victorious ride on Blue Larkspur in the American classic at Arlington Park Saturday brought him profit in addition to glory.

Garner was down for 10 per cent of the purse of $59,900, and a present of $5,000 from Col. E. R. Bradley, owner of the winning 3-year-old, brought his earnings for the day to nearly $11,000.

OFFER $70,000 AT KALAMAZOO

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 15.—(AP.)—Seventy thousand dollars in purses will be awarded here this week when Kalamazoo's Grand Circuit program is staged. More than 200 horses are here and the full contingent will be in today, the first day of the meeting which will continue through Friday.

The $25,000 H. O. Reno American pacing derby, feature event of the week's card is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. There were 43 entries this year and the purse is likely to be $27,000.

The $10,000 Exchange Club purse, scheduled for Wednesday, is the feature trotting event on the card. Practically all the horses and drivers who closed the Toledo program last week will be here for the local meeting.

California Team Wins Doubles Title

CHICAGO, July 15.—(AP.)—California's team, of Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, and Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, yesterday became United States intersectional team tennis champions, defeating the Eastern pair, Julius Seligson and Eugene McAuliffe, both of New York, three matches to none, at the Chicago Town and Tennis Club.

The title was decided in two terrifically fought singles matches, in which the California stars were victorious. Both matches went five sets, and in each the Westerners were forced to overcome two-set handicaps. Gledhill conquered Seligson, 1-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4, and Vines was victorious over McAuliffe 0-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4. With their championship chance gone, Seligson and McAuliffe went down quickly in the doubles encounter, 2-6, 4-6.

BOWEN, LADEN WITH PRIZES, STARTS EAST

By PETE BOWEN,
University of Pittsburgh Sprint Star and Intercollegiate and A. A. U. 440-yard Champion.
Written especially for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 15.—The Vancouver international track meet is ended and Percy Williams is still unbeaten in the 100-yard dash. In his race here he was declared winner in one of the closest finishes I ever have witnessed. Williams, Tolan and Wyhoff were so closely grouped when they hit the tape that it seemed a shame to declare anyone a winner. However, Williams led all the way and it was only the desperate dashes of Tolan and Wyhoff in the last few yards that made it so close. Wyhoff, who was placed as third, exhibits a tape burn on his arm and wants to know if a loose and broken tape will cause such a burn. My own opinion is that if Percy was beaten Tolan was the man who beat him.

HAS FIELD DAY

I had quite a field day at this meet as far as collecting prizes is concerned. I won my quarter and tied the Canadian record of 48 2-5 seconds, for which I received a fine Gladstone bag. I placed second to Hamm in the broad jump, for which I received a large suitcase. I ran third to Tolan and Wyhoff in the 220-yard dash and received a sweater. My last effort was as a relay man on the winning team and again I was the recipient of a traveling bag. I guess I will have to travel now to wear them all out.

At the present time I am engaged in a race against time to reach New York in time to sail for Europe. Our sailing date has been changed again and the final notice said we sail July 19.

STUDIES STARS

On the whole, this trip has been a great success. I have had the opportunity to be with all the great sprinters for several weeks. In that time I have found out much about them and I am going to write these observations and present them for what they are worth. The list will include Simpson, Williams, Wyhoff, Bracey and Tolan.

Grays, Black Sox Play Here Thursday

The Baltimore Black Sox, first-half season champions in the American Negro League, the team which beat out the Grays for the honor, makes its second appearance of the season against the Grays at Forbes Field in a four-game series, starting Thursday evening. There will be a doubleheader on Saturday afternoon.

Today the Grays close their series with the Cubans at Canton, O. Tuesday the Poseymen tackle the Massillon Agathons at Dennison, O., and on Wednesday they play at Canonsburg.

Penn Crew Coach Denies He Has Quit

SEATTLE, Wash., July 15.—(INS.)—Rusty Callow, Penn crew coach, today heatedly denied a report from New York that he had handed in his resignation following the Poughkeepsie regatta.

"I haven't resigned and I don't intend to," he declared, "but any time the board of rowing stewards wants me to quit all they have to do is say so."

The Penn contract of the former Washington mentor has three years to run, but Callow asserted he would not remain if he was not wanted.

Stock Market Reacts — Fuels Strong Here

12 P. C. MONEY SENDS STOCK MARKET OFF

Chief Pressure Directed Against Motor, Copper, Steel and Utility Shares

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP.)—The stock market, which has been pointing upward for several weeks, turned reactionary today when call money was advanced from 9 to 12 per cent.

Selling pressure was directed chiefly against the motor, copper, steel and public utility shares, although soft spots also developed in most of the other leading groups. Rails, which indulged in a sharp display of strength on Saturday, offered the best resistance to selling pressure, with at least a dozen issues pushed into new high ground.

Heavy calling of loans, necessitated by the semi-weekly readjustment of banks' positions at the Federal Reserve Bank, coupled with the heavy mid-month disbursements, accounted for the stringency in call money. Little hope of any marked relaxation in rates was held out before the end of the week. The time money market was quiet, with the undertone slightly firmer.

NEWS FAVORABLE

Business news continued favorable. June foreign trade figures showed an increase in both imports and exports over the same month of 1928. Another series of excellent earnings reports made its appearance, Western Union, S. S. Kresge and Detroit Edison making favorable comparison with a year ago, while the first statement of the Allegheny Corporation showed net profit of $1,219,106, which included nearly $400,000 profit from the sale of stocks.

Renewed liquidation of the copper shares was based on the disappointing statistics of red metal stocks and recurrent fears of a further decrease in the price of the metal. American Smelting, Anaconda, Kennecott, Miami and Andes were all carried down 1 to 2½ points. Increasing competition in the motor industry, with unconfirmed rumors of price-cuts before the end of the year, brought further selling into the motor group. Chrysler again breaking below 70 while Packard, Mack Trucks and Auburn fell 1 to 3 points.

FAVORITES DROP

Such recent favorites as American Telephone, International Telephone, General Electric, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse Electric, Union Carbide, Columbia Graphaphone and Standard Gas and Electric sold off 2 points or more.

New York Central, which was one of the features of Saturday's market, fell back 3½ points and Canadian Pacific 2½ in the midday selling movement. Other rails held their gains fairly well, Delaware and Hudson crossing 219 to a new peak for the year.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, July 15.—Reports that crops over large sections of Canada were the worst ever seen in that country led to sharp new upturns in wheat values today. One dispatch received said that for 70 miles from the Alberta line into Central Saskatchewan the crop destruction is practically complete. Opening 1c to 3⅛c higher, wheat prices here fluctuated rapidly and advanced to 5⅝c above Saturday's finish. Corn and oats also went upward, corn starting at ⅝c to 1⅞c gain and subsequently rising further. Provisions were easier.

Blistering heat and continued merciless drought in spring crop territory northwest accompanied much higher prices today for wheat. Reports were emphatic that as to great stretches of wheat land rain can do very little good, as drought has continued too long. In addition to drought damage northwest, word of big purchases and of continued flood ravages in domestic harvest districts southwest, tended to stimulate buying here and to hoist prices further.

Sensationally higher closing quotations today at Liverpool added incentive to the buying side of the wheat market in Chicago. The maximum jump in values in Liverpool was 6¾ pence a bushel, a rise far in excess of what had been looked for. Despite immense profit taking sales here, Chicago values today outdid all previous top price records for the season.

Pacific Coast Flour Advanced

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—The Sperry Flour Company announced, effective today, a price of $7.60 per barrel for flour, up 20 cents.

California Packing Price List Higher

The California Packing Corporation's opening price list for the season shows increases of 20 to 75 cents per dozen cans over the 1928 scale. A shortage of all varieties of California fruit, the company's statement said, caused an advance in price to growers but insured disposition of the entire stock.

LONE STAR UP IN LOCAL MARKET

Stock Soars Several Points Closing Gap With Western Public; Latter Also Firm

Lone Star Gas soared on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange at the opening of the new week today, closing up the gap that had existed between its price and that of Western Public Service.

The stock came into the market at 36, up a fraction from Saturday's close and subsequently extended the gain several points. While there has been no definite information on the subject, the Street believes the ultimate hook-up of Lone Star and Western Public and some of the gas properties of Columbia Gas and Electric will be made. All are controlled by the same interests and there have been rumors recently that the most powerful banking group in the city is now definitely identified with the program.

WESTERN PUBLIC UP

Western Public Service shot up at the opening of the market, but met a little profit-taking when it arrived around the 40-level which had been predicted two weeks ago when the issue began its upward movement.

While a lot of the selling today was thought to have been for account of professional traders who have been following the rise "for a turn," it is said quite a lot of even the trading stock is being held for the longer future enhancement. Fancy figures are talked of for next year and the manner in which the stock has made good on past predictions, those favoring the stock feel confident that the bullish anticipations will be met.

INDUSTRIALS STEADY

Industrial issues were steady to firm. United Engineering scored a further moderate gain and Blaw Knox held around the level attained on the advance at the end of the week. Pittsburgh Screw & Bolt lost a small fraction but was not under noticeable pressure. Arkansas Gas lifted its high a small fraction but was comparatively dull.

Tourists Aid Europe

New York Curb Market

TRAVEL MONEY EQUALS U. S. PAYMENTS

Debtor Nations Discharging Obligations to America by Playing Host to Visitors

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Europe receives each year from American tourists an income which virtually equals its remittances on its debt to the new world.

Thus the debtor discharges its obligations by acting as genial host to more than 400,000 business men, school teachers, retired babbits and their families. Part of the process of debt payment consists in the courteous bows of menials. Another part consists in opening the portals of the Louvre, the Pitti and Uffizi galleries of Florence, and other precious depositories of art to curious sightseers. The gay cafes, the European theaters, the mountain resorts and the spas all do their share in collecting the income which each year must be turned over to American creditors.

ECONOMIST'S VIEW

Accordingly, the debt-paying technique is far less painful than the cancellationist propagandists would make us think.

In alluding to the balance between tourists' expenditures and debt payments, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president and economist of the Cleveland Trust Company, says:

"That the expenditures of American tourists abroad should almost equal our national income from foreign investments is an impressive fact, and particularly so when we remember that the income from foreign investments includes the interest payments of the huge war debts owed us by foreign governments. The sums spent by our tourists abroad greatly aid foreign debtors in paying the interest charges on the sums they owe us, but at the same time the fact that we have such large sums to spend on foreign travel that is mostly for pleasure suggests the thought that we can afford to be generous in our attitude toward foreign governments engaged in repaying war loans."

AUTO DEVELOPMENT

In our new prosperity, we do not continue to use commodities until they wear out. We are influenced by the style factor. We are sensitive to scientific advances, and are reluctant not to keep abreast of the newest developments in the application of research to business. This new factor of absolescence lies behind the enormous consumptive demand of the public. No industry has better exemplified this new tendency than the automobile industry. What new major advance in motor cars lies in the offing, destined to make us Americans feel that our present models are obsolete?

Col. Ayres, attempting an answer, points out:

"The automobile industry has to some extent made its rapid strides in past years by a process of systematically rendering obsolete all cars previously sold. The self-starter accomplished this once, four-wheel brake another time, closed bodies yet another. Two new developments are now being spoken of in the industry as probabilities rather than possibilities. These are the front wheel drive and the replacement by stainless steel of all parts now plated with nickel and chromium. If these innovations are actually introduced successfully the automobile industry will once more have accomplished the remarkable feat of rendering all its previously produced cars obsolete."

RADIO PATENTS

The eminent position of the Radio Corporation of America is partly ascribable to its ownership of basic patents, for the use of which other companies pay royalties. Paul Y. Anderson, Washington Observer, recently made the startling intimation that a basic patent in radio is antedated by a patent in the possession of the Navy Department. It seems that the invention of two German scientists, Scholemilch and Von Bronck, was seized during the war by the alien property custodian. Subsequently it was sold to the Navy Department, with 105 other German patents, for $1,690.

It was reported that the Fada Company, sued in the courts of Canada for alleged infringement, set up the defense that the navy patent anticipated the Radio Corporation patent, and was finally upheld by the Supreme Court of Canada. The Radio Corporation has appealed to the British Privy Council.

Seeking to check up on the question of priority, I addressed an inquiry to the Secretary of the Navy, C. F. Hughes, acting secretary, replied:

"You are informed that inasmuch as the government owned patents to which you refer have never been adjudicated by a court of appelate jurisdiction in the United States, the question of priority cannot be considered as having been settled."

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP.)—The curb market ran into heavy realizing after an outburst of buying at the opening today. A further firming of call money, which went to 12 per cent soon after noon, was rather discouraging after the long-heard forecasts of easier credit with the turn of the half year, and traders were inclined to take their profits on the sharp advances of last week.

Commonwealth and Southern opened with a block of 90,000 shares, after which it equaled its previous high at 29, but then it soon began to sag. Middle West Utilities, however, followed an opposite course, opening with a loss of 4 points, then rallying.

Allied Power, Northeast Power, Central States Electric, and Buffalo Niagara made substantial gains, many of which were reduced by early afternoon. American Light and Traction made an extreme gain of 10 points. American Superpower turned heavy, sagging a few points. Electric Bond and Share, selling ex-rights, eased fractionally. Electric Investors sold up 3 points, then fell 14 from the top.

The industrials were generally quiet. The Ford of Canada issues were strong for a time, the "A" stock opening 5 points higher, then declining. The "B" stock recorded a net loss of a few points by midday. Deere jumped 10 points in a small turnover. Air stocks were quiet, although Sikorsky and Fokker were well supported. Fox Theaters A was firm.

In the mines, Newmont jumped 5 points, then reacted. Oils turned heavy with the utilities. Humble dropped about 5 points, and Vacuum, Cosden and Gulf were in supply.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Palmer Match Co. Plans to Extend

Palmer Match Company, Pittsburgh and Akron, O., plan extensive additions in match making machines, buildings and equipment, for Kenmore, O., plant with ultimate productive capacity equalling second largest plant in the United States. Present and enlarged plant is intended to be most economic in manufacturing costs for highest quality "Strikalite" and "Palmer" matches with facilities for making safety and book matches. Necessary changes in capital and corporate structure and listing of new stock are under consideration. Palmer business shows increase in face of past and threatened continued price war among leading United States and foreign match interests.

Industrial Pace Held Up In June

NEW YORK, July 15.—Based on the consumption of electricity by manufacturing plants, electrical world reports that industrial activity of the country during June held at virtually the same high level as in the preceding months of the year. Contrasted with June, 1928, the rate was 16.1 per cent greater. The average rate of activity for the first six months of the year was 13.7 per cent higher than that established in the corresponding period last year.

Detroit Bank Makes Auto Output Survey

NEW YORK, July 15.—Production of low-priced automobiles has increased more than 240 times since 1907, while the total production of all classes of cars has increased only 10 times, the First National Bank of Detroit says in a review of the industry.

Copper Price Cut Not Contemplated In Trade Quarters

NEW YORK, July 15.—Rumors circulated in the street during the past few days to the effect that there was a near prospect of a reduction in copper prices are without foundation. In a canvass of leading producing and some of the foremost selling agents, opinion was unanimous that such a thought was furthermost from their minds.

One authority summed the situation as follows: "Having firmly held the price of copper at 18 cents a pound through the trying period of the past three months, and now that the time is nearing when the fruits of this attitude are likely to bear results in the shape of renewed buying within the next several weeks, it would be extremely foolish to entertain any idea of a reduction in price."

A better demand was reported for red metal from abroad today with early sales estimated above 1,500,000 pounds at 18.30 cents a pound c. i. f. Hamburg.

AWAIT ACTION ON SHUBERT DIVIDEND

Recent Weakness in Stock Centers Interest on Meet To Be Held in August

NEW YORK, July 15.—Interest attaches to the next regular meeting of Shubert Theater Corporation directors for dividend action, which is scheduled for the middle of August, in view of the recent weakness in the capital stock of company on the New York Stock Exchange, during which it sold down to a new low at 35¾.

The directors ordinarily take action in August on the $1.25 a share quarterly distribution which is payable in September. Present indications are that there will be no change in the regular rate in August. J. J. Shubert, vice president, in response to inquiries from stockholders earlier this week when the stock was around its lowest levels, stated that he expected to recommend that the regular quarterly dividend be declared as usual at the full rate in August.

The legitimate stage theatrical season, which ended last June, is known to have been the poorest in many years, and the fact that Shubert Theater Corporation is a leading factor in this phase of amusement activity has naturally affected the earning power of the company. During the six months ended December 31, 1928, which represented the first half of the Shubert fiscal year, the company showed earnings of 31c less than the $2.50 a share dividend requirement on the 214,900 shares of no par capital stock outstanding at the end of the period.

DIVIDEND EARNED

Although the company does not make quarterly reports of earnings, confining such statements to semi-annual and annual periods, interests close to the company state that in the three months ended March 31 last, profits were earned in excess of dividends for period, and were sufficient to make up the small amount which was not earned in the first six months, so that the company for the first nine months of the fiscal year earned its dividend requirements.

These interests state that full returns of the last quarter have not been compiled as yet. However, Lee Shubert, president of the corporation, upon his departure in May for Europe, was quoted as saying that he expected earnings for the full fiscal year to be sufficient to cover dividends.

In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1928, the company showed net income of $1,356,435, after interest, depreciation and Federal taxes, equal to $.53 a share on 180,020 capital shares outstanding at the end of the term, compared with $1,633,577, or $10.17 a share on 160,670 shares in the preceding year.

SECOND HALF OUTLOOK

For the six months ended December 31, 1928, net income was $470,822, after depreciation, interest, and federal taxes, compared with $620,526 in the corresponding period a year ago. The second half of the company's year is always the better of the two periods. There are at present 217,340 shares outstanding. In April of this year stockholders approved an increase in the authorized capital stock from 250,000 to 500,000 shares. None of the additional stock has been issued thus far.

Some of the Shubert theaters in New York City have housed a number of what have been regarded as the season's hit attractions. These include houses with such successes as "The New Moon," "Follow Thru," "Hold Everything," and "Street Scene." Certain of the company's theaters like the Winter Garden and Sam H. Harris have enjoyed substantial rental returns through lease to motion picture producers and thus have shared in the popularity accruing to theaters exhibiting talking pictures. On the other hand, some of its theaters closed for the summer season much earlier than usual because of various elements, including the earlier arrival of hot weather, and continued growth in popularity of talking pictures.

A contributing element in the recent severe break of the stock is said by one authority close to the situation to be the fact that many stockholders who bought at the high levels of the latter part of 1928 and early this year, on misleading reports that the company was to merge with a leading motion picture concern (which reports had been several times denied by companies mentioned) and who had carried their stock on slim margins, were forced to take losses in the steady decline which has continued up to the present week.

Consolidation to Aid Moto Meter Co.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE BUSINESS of the Moto Meter Company, Inc., and the Safe-T-Stat Company is expected to show a substantial improvement as a result of the consolidation of the two organizations into the newly-formed Moto Meter Gauge and Equipment Corporation.

During the past two years the operations of the Moto Meter Company have been hampered by the changing requirements for automobile instruments. The company makes a complete line of heat indicators for automobiles, airplanes and motor boats under the trade name of "Boyce Moto Meter."

Recently sales have been reduced by the fact that the automobile industry now requires heat indicators located on the dash board and included in a single panel with such other equipment as ammeters, oil pressure gauges and gasoline gauges.

To Make Entire Panel.

THE SAFE-T-STAT COMPANY makes a complete line of these automobile instruments so that the consolidation will again put Moto Meter in a position to compete on a satisfactory basis for automobile business.

In 1928 Safe-T-Stat made large additions to its plant facilities which have placed the organization in a position to handle an increased volume of business this year. In spite of these, however, the management feels that the manufacturing facilities to be obtained from the Moto Meter Company will be necessary for the company to take full advantage of its markets.

The new company, with increased producing capacity and the control of the Boyce patents, will be in a position to expand its activities in the automotive, marine and industrial fields and to take advantage of the growing demand for its products in foreign countries.

Earnings Estimated.

R. G. MARTIN, president of the Safe-T-Stat Company, has estimated that net earnings to be shown from the first year of joint operation of the two properties will be not less than $2,500,000.

On the basis of the 512,500 shares of stock of the new company to be outstanding after the deposit of all of the holdings of the old organization, this would be equivalent to $4.87 a share.

This will be substantially better than the combined earnings of the two organizations during the past three years. Disregarding certain non-recurring expenses, net profit of the two companies before taxes in 1928 was $1,570,375, or $3.06 a share on the capitalization of the new company. This compared with $1,691,829, or $3.30 a share in 1927 and with $2,168,996, or $4.23 a share in 1926. It will be remembered that both 1927 and 1928 were poor years for the Moto Meter Company due to changes taking place in the market for heat indicators.

Stock Deposited

ON MAY 9 the committee appointed to carry out the merger announced that a majority of the stocks of both companies had been deposited under the terms of the plan. Holders of the Moto Meter A stock were offered ⅝ of a share of new stock for each share of old. The Safe-T-Stat common stock is exchangeable on a share for share basis.

The new company is being started in existence with only one class of stock and with only a small funded debt which will be entirely eliminated next year.

Additional capital to bring this about was acquired through the offering of stock in the new company to holders of the old stocks at $32 a share. Each holder of Safe-T-Stat was offered rights to buy ¼ new share for each share held. Holders of Moto-Meter stock were offered rights to buy ⅜ of a share for each share of old stock held.

The preferred stock of Safe-T-Stat and the Moto Meter B stock are to be retired under the merger plan. Of the $493,531 of 6 per cent serial notes outstanding, $249,750 fall due on September 11, 1929, and the balance in 1930.

Steel Propeller Gets French Order

The Standard Steel Propeller Corporation, Homestead, has received an order for propellers from the Societe Aeronautique Francaise. This is one of the largest European aeronautical companies and the order marks the entrance of the Standard Steel Propeller into this new field. The order was placed by Emile Dewoitine, generally recognized as one of the leading aeronautical engineers in Europe

Seaboard Deposit Time Ends Today

The time for making deposits of Seaboard Air Line Railway Adjustment bonds as fixed under the recapitalization plan announced in May, expires today. Expressing the belief that consummation of the plan is for the best interests of bondholders and the company, the adjustment bondholders' committee has issued a statement recommending the deposit of all bonds still outstanding. It is pointed out that bonds which are mailed before midnight will be regarded as deposited under the plan today.

British Trade Easier Money, Revive Stock Speculation

By B. C. FORBES

THE ship of business is sailing along with all sails unfurled, making very satisfactory speed, with no rocks in sight.

The speculative sea has again begun to boil. Should the pace become reckless apprehension is expressed lest a high-money reef be struck. It should be added, however, that fear of this is less acute than it was earlier in the year.

THE second half of the year has proved unexpectedly good thus far. The traditional July recession in business activity has not set in. Agricultural prices have enjoyed rather substantial recovery from their recent unreasonably low levels. The money market is in distinctly easier condition than it was two and three months ago. Stocks have this month reached the highest peak ever attained and the volume of trading expanded notably last week.

WARS usually have been followed by periods of extraordinary development. Since the World War was the most ventful of all wars, and since the United States was in a better position than any other nation to benefit from the tremendous upheaval it caused, it is logical that this country should have gone ahead faster than any other nation. Economic achievements which ordinarily would have taken many years have been crowded into the space of a few years by the enterprising leaders of this young country.

Our economic revolution still is going on without slackening. Indeed, the last few months have brought the most noteworthy of our many noteworthy economic developments. We have witnessed combinations of capital on a scale absolutely without precedent. And even more colossal consolidations are in the making.

Not only so, but the American people have this year manifested unparalleled readiness to take part in this epochal movement. New offerings of corporation securities, especially those of enormous corporations, have been readily taken notwithstanding the high rates ruling for money. Never before have so many stockholders paid for "rights" to increase their holdings. This confidence is reflected by the rise in stock quotations to heights never before reached.

WHILE it is true that speculators have been buying hopes rather than earnings in a great many instances, the fact is that corporation reports during the current year have in a majority of cases revealed increases in profits ranging from modest amount to amazing amounts. And it is certain that the figures covering the second quarter of the year will maintain this wonderful showing.

Although it is too early to speak of definite results during the third quarter, expectations and estimates of gratifying showing are warranted. Shippers in the Atlantic seaboard states have notified the railroads to be prepared to move an increased volume of traffic as compared with a year ago. It is perhaps significant, too, that commercial failures last quarter were 12½ per cent under the first quarter and 1½ per cent below the second quarter of last year. Bank clearings likewise reveal distinct gains.

WITHOUT any question, the rapid succession of mergers sponsored by the strongest capitalistic interests in the nation are having a very buoyant effect upon sentiment. While this effect is strongest in the security markets, it is felt also by business. That business cheerfulness continues to be stimulated by the spectacular swelling of the market value of stocks is an indisputable fact.

After one or two of the market's severest relapses in the first half of the year there was immediate restraining of expenditures for costly possessions not in the necessity class. The same thing would happen again should Wall street be plunged into pessimism. On the other hand, so long as stock quotations keep booming, it is unlikely that business sentiment will lose its optimism.

IS Wall Street likely to suffer an early and serious setback? Fears on this score have abated in the highest places. Dear money already has cut down building ventures in many places. Beyond this, however, industry and business, on the whole, have astounded by their sustained vitality. The previous breaks in stocks shook out a great many small marginal traders. Since then the buying has been described in Wall street parlance as of "good character," meaning that fewer stocks have been going into weak hands and more of them into strong hands.

The Federal Reserve's position is now exciting very little concern. The ratio of reserve carried is 73 per cent, which is 5 per cent better than a year ago. An even larger increase is shown by the New York Reserve Bank. Time money in Wall street is down one and one-half per cent from the recent peak and rates for bankers acceptances are also very substantially lower.

Some surprise was expressed that call money was persistently held at 9 per cent last week after July first and July fourth requirements were met. Familiarity with past experience would have obviated the disappointment felt; it frequently happens that relatively high rates continue for some little time after the crucial date has passed. Brokers loans were reduced $14,000,000 but re-discounting was increased.

However, it is felt that the reserve authorities will not seek to stiffen money rates now that the crop moving requirements are approaching.

Assuredly their own position does not need any artificial bolstering up.

MY own guess is that within a week or two money rates will decline appreciably, provided speculation does not again run riot, causing drastic expansion in borrowing by brokers.

Kresge Shows Gain Over First Quarter

NEW YORK, July 15.—The S. S. Kresge Company reports net income of $3,835,475 for the quarter ended June 30, 1929, after charges and federal taxes, equal, after 7 per cent cumulative preferred dividends, to 69 cents a share on 5,517,929 common shares against $3,587,832, or 64 cents, on common in the 1928 quarter.

Net income for six months ended June 30, 1929, was $7,013,456, or $1.26 a share on the outstanding common, against $6,527,111, or $1.17 a share on the same basis in the 1928 period.

Amerada Sells to Dixie Oil Company

NEW YORK, July 15.—Amerada Petroleum Corporation, the operating subsidiary of the Amerada Corporation, has sold an undivided one-half interest in some 490,000 net acres of leases in Oklahoma and Kansas, on which production has not yet been developed, to the Dixie Oil Company, a producing subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, for $10,000,000 of which $5,000,000 is to be paid in cash and an additional $5,000,000 in oil produced from the properties out of the one-half interest of the Dixie Oil Company, according to E. L. De Golyer, chairman of Amerada.

Steamship Official Opposes Oil Tariff

WASHINGTON, July 15.—A duty on oil would work an injustice on American ship owners by adding to the already excessive operating costs and would also result in deflating national resources and increasing the cost of fuel oil. H. B. Walker, president of the American Steamship Owners Association, told the Senate Finance Committee today.

Chesapeake Reports Net Income $933,642

CLEVELAND, July 15.—Chesapeake Corporation reports for the period from April 1 to June 30 net income of $933,642 and for six months $1,869,863 after all charges. Gross income for the second quarter amounted to $1,642,231 and for six months $3,075,690. Balance to surplus for second quarter $258,642 and for six months $519,863.

Sales of General Baking Increase

NEW YORK, July 15.—General Baking Company reports net income $4,115,833 for first 27 weeks of 1929 after charges, against $3,418,375 for 1928 period. Sales were approximately 10 per cent larger than in the same period a year ago.

Daily Crude Oil Production Gains

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—California daily crude oil production for week ended July 13 totaled 881,500 barrels, against daily average of 876,000 barrels for the previous week. This is an increase of 5,500 barrels daily.

Curb Membership Reaches New Peak

NEW YORK, July 15.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Curb Exchange membership for $195,000, a new record high price, and an increase of $22,000 over the last previous transaction. The previous high price was $190,000.

Bourse Closed to Mark Bastille Day

PARIS, July 15. — Bourse and French sugar and coffee markets remained closed today, Bastille Day.

American Can Has Plowed Back Huge Sum

NEW YORK, July 15. — The American Can Company, during the last decade, has reinvested in plant and equipment 67 per cent of its earnings available for common stock, an analysis by Bamberger Bros. shows. Of such earnings, which totaled $80,979,015 during the period, the sum of $54,263,172 has been turned back into the company. The ratio of earnings to investment in fixed property rose from 2.07 per cent in 1920 to 14.02 per cent last year. The concern now has 56 factories in the United States, Hawaii and Canada.

Gold Movement in First Six Months Mark Foreign Trade Market,

FOREIGN trade figures for June and the first six months were interesting chiefly for the marked change in the flow of the gold movement in that period as contrasted with the first half of 1928. Last month exports of the metal totaled only $550,000, and imports $30,762,000, leaving a net gain to this country of $30,212,000, while a year ago June showed a net loss of $79,931,000. For the six months recently ended exports totaled but $7,000,000 whereas imports aggregated $181,000,000, indicating a net increase in gold stocks of $173,000,000, whereas in the first six months of 1928 exports aggregated $455,000,000 and imports but $82,000,000, leaving a net loss on balance for that period of $373,000,000.

Though expecting little or no change in the money situation in the immediate future, George Reynolds, chairman of the executive committee of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company sees prospects unusually bright for general business in the current half year. In fact, the Chicago banker looks for larger business volume and general improvement in the current six months over the highly satisfactory half year just concluded. Relative to money, he finds a keen demand continues for credit, pointing out among other things that interest in the bond market has not yet become sufficiently enthusiastic to relieve the frozen condition of credit tied up in those securities.

ANOTHER flurry in the speculative money market was among the factors which contributed to widespread irregularities in stocks. The fresh tightening in call money was not the occasion for any great surprise, inasmuch as last week's bank statements had revealed that member banks had failed to cut their heavy indebtedness incurred in supporting the money market over the July 1 period of strain. On the contrary a further slight expansion in such borrowings was reported.

Money renewed at 9 per cent, but heavy calling, approximating 60,000,000 in the aggregrate, brought a pinch which sent the rate to 10 per cent in the noon hour, and to 12 per cent in the early afternoon. Banks with large indebtedness at the regional institution, were reported bidding as high as 6 per cent for federal funds against 5¾ per cent on Friday.

Selling of the copper mining shares continued persistently, with Anaconda Copper still feeling the full force of this liquidation and speculative offerings. That stock dropped for a loss of around 3 points at the low, with American Smelters and other mining issues showing corresponding recessions. The selling was based largely on the widespread expectation that lower metal prices are likely, though authorities in the trade appear to hold the opposite view of the situation. Apparently the belief that lower prices are ahead has its basis in the recently published monthy statistics, which were not specially bullish.

SPIRITED demand for the leading rails, lifting many of them to new record levels, proved the backbone of today's market, with strength in the carriers supporting the list against heavy selling which brought out in most other directions at frequent intervals. Gains ranging from 1 to around 11 points were the rule in the transportation group, where Chesapeake and Ohio was the outstanding strong feature. It has been pointed out several times previously that rails were perhaps the most strongly held of the various groups, with the floating supply relatively limited. Furthermore even after their steady rise of the last few weeks, the rails generally are selling on a basis of 10 to 12 times earnings, as contrasted with 25 to 30 times earnings for a great many industrial and specialty groups, not to mention public utilities.

Duplicating the performance of the stock market in the same period, wheat at top levels today on an advance of more than 5 cents a bushel in the July option, was in new high ground for the year. Late in May wheat prices generally were at the lowest levels in more than 14 years, coincident with predictions of bumper crops both here and in Canada. At that time the July option, now the spot month, sold as low as 95 cents, indicating that the recovery in the last seven weeks has reached no less than 38 cents a bushel at today's prices of around $1.35. The grain has recovered steadily, but the pace of the advance has quickened since the appearance of last week's government condition report, and was accelerated today by further bullish reports such as the persistent drought in Canada, where the wheat stand is now said to be the worst in years.

WORLD BANK IMPORTANT FACTOR

Mechanism Set Up to Handle German Debt Will Aid All Nations

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP.)—European political adjustments scheduled for completion during the next few months will have more than ordinary repercussion in the United States because of their bearing on international credit matters.

All the mass of intensive analysis that has been brought to bear upon the latest project for settling the German reparations issues has served to emphasis one conclusion, from which there are now few dissents, to the effect that the International Exchange Bank set up by the Young plan is probably more important to the financial world than reparations themselves.

This banking mechanism, though set up primarily to negotiate the payments from Germany to the Allies, will constitute a federation of central banks of the world, and if once established will remain a permanent feature, possibly a dominating feature, of the increasing business of international monetary exchange. From the start it will be licensed to enter general business, and it will be owned in common by the chief banking nations of Europe. American participation is expected through the private activities of the greater credit institutions in this country.

RATIFICATION OUTLOOK

Little doubt now appears that the institution will be brought into existence. Germany is considered by qualified observers to be certain to ratify the plan; the French disposition to do the same has been manifested clearly; and the establishment of the Labor party government in England is almost a guarantee of acceptance in behalf of that power. It now looks as if a few months would see the institution set up and in working order.

T. A. T.'S FIRST WEEK

Paul A. Henderson, operating head of the Transcontinental Air Transport, snatched an opportunity to return to Washington headquarters Saturday, at the end of the first week's run of the Pennsylvania-T. A. T.-Santa Fe cross country passenger service, and bought a new plane. The addition, an 18-passenger Curtiss Condor, compares with the 10-passenger ships that began the transcontinental flight, and marks the almost instantaneous transition towards larger units that is set up with every commercial flight installation.

"What interests us is that we made our first week's schedule with every ship on the dot," Mr. Henderson said, "without the slightest failure to deliver passengers. One machine was damaged in getting off, and the passengers transferred with less than a 30-minute delay, easily made up over the whole distance.

"It's costing $5,300 a day to operate the line, and receipts aren't nearly equaling that. Still, I look to see our earnings run up to within $2,000 a day of the expense total in a very short time, using our present equipment. After that, the way in which income can be made to match outgo is by increasing the size of planes, and getting into service new machines like the one I've just ordered."

Another characteristic of the new air service is the extent of luxury achieved in plane fittings and equipment. The new condor has leather easy chairs for passengers, which cost $100 apiece; has silk tapestry for wall coverings; tiny little compartment effects and clever baggage-carriyng devices. The emphasis is to be placed on smartness regardless of cost.

18-CENT COPPER

In the prosaic figures that register the fluctuations of world copper supply, there can be read now the history of one of the most tense and exciting of international commercial contests. Either by force of direct association or by indirect bond of common interest, the great copper producers, predominantly American, are seeking to maintain an 18-cent per pound price on a commodity for which average production costs are certainly below 12 cents and may be under 10. World buyers, who are not weaklings in affairs, since copper is the material most used by all branches of electrical industry, are and have been for weeks testing out the stoutness of that price maintenance.

In the last calculatiou of the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, it appears that during June world stocks of the metal increased 2,000 tons, and that means an advantage for the buyers. The surplus is trifling, but any surplus normally affects price. It is quite certain now, however, that copper conditions aren't normal. The tendency of demand to increase, the power of the producer group, whose profits in hand from recent months of high prices are great, and the prevailing lack of new copper deposits outside of the hands of the established enterprises—all these count. The struggle may cantinue for many months before the price turns one way or the other.

June Money Ease May Terminate Next Fall.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The widely heralded ease in stock market rates during June may prove to have been a tantalizing illusion, encouraged by a temporary relaxation in banking policy with regard to market loans, in the opinion of the J. Henry Schroder Banking Corporation, expressed in its July review of finance and trade. With the coming of the fall demand for credit to move the crops, the present money situation may be expected to break down, the review says, and follows with the suggestion that at that time, barring unexpected gold movements to this country, the credit situation might very well be similar to that existing last February.

"Perhaps the biggest bone of contention in the credit picture, namely loans of member banks against stocks and bonds, may again become a stock market skeleton," says the firm. "An increase of about $435,000,000 in this item took place in June. The gain of last month practically eliminated the previous decline in security loans of member banks, which followed the warning of the Federal Reserve authorities last February against the use of credit for speculative purposes.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables was slow today at the wholesale produce markets in Pittsburgh. No changes were noticed in quotations.

The poultry market remained steady, demand fair, supplies nominal and quotations showing no changes.

The butter, egg and cheese markets were steady, demand fair, supplies moderate, with no changes in quotations.

Car lot supplies were very light, with 138 cars on track. Arrivals included 14 cars of apples, 1 car beans, 4 cabbage, 3 currants, 41 cantaloupes, 2 honeyballs, 5 honeydew, 4 corn, 3 celery, 13 cucumbers, 3 lemons, 8 lettuce, 7 onions, 7 oranges, 26 peaches, 3 pears, 1 garlic, 71 potatoes, 6 sweet potatoes, 23 tomatoes and 1 watermelons.

WHEAT CRISIS FACING BOARD

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP.)—Facing a serious wheat marketing situation as the first test of their ability, members of the new Federal Farm Board assembled here today to begin the task of solving the American agricultural problem.

Created by a law which embodied the views of President Hoover, and appointed by the chief executive after an exhaustive study of available agriculturalists, the board was called to hear a short address by Mr. Hoover summing up the accomplishments he expects of it, and to begin its "collective thinking" through an initial interchange of views.

An engagement in Baltimore acted to limit the President's participation in the opening session to his short address. To enable him to leave for the Maryland city well before noon, the meeting was called for early in the day.

Strangely, in view of the situation, the board today was without a spokesman for the wheat growers, because of the President's desire to select a man acceptable in every way and a difference of opinion among the grain men who disagree over the co-operative and pool plans of wheat marketing. Nevertheless, President Hoover is hopeful that a decision can be reached within a few days and the personnel of the board be completed.

Of the $500,000,000 the board is authorized to administer as it sees fit in making low interest loans to co-operative marketing agencies, $150,000,000 has been made available for immediate use, together with $1,500,000 for administrative expenses.

Sheep—Receipts, 300 head; market not yet established.

Reynolds Foresees No Money Easement

CHICAGO, July 15.—George Reynolds, chairman of the executive committee of Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust Company, sees little prospect of change from the present close money market for the immediate future.

A keen demand for credit continues, according to Mr. Reynolds, who believes interest in the bond market has not yet become sufficiently enthusiastic to relieve the frozen condition of credit tied up in those securities.

Independent Oil Stages Comeback

TULSA, July 15.—The Independent Oil and Gas Company reports for the quarter ended June 30 consolidated net income of $1,616,205, after depreciation, depletion and federal taxes, vs. $112,517 in the 1928 quarter. The second quarter net is equal to $1.21 a share on 1,333,572 capital shares vs. $2,018,850, or $1.51 a share, in the preceding quarter, and $112,517, or 17c a share on 650,000 shares, in the 1928 quarter.

Six months net income was $3,635,055, equal to $2.72 a share, vs. net loss of $306,881 in the 1928 period.

Claude Neon Firm Gets Injunction

NEW YORK, July 15.—Judge J. R. Hazel, of New York Federal District Court, granted a preliminary injunction to Claude Neon Lights, Inc., restraining Sun Ray Neon Corporation, a New York operating unit of Sun Ray Gas Corporation, of Cleveland, from further manufacture and sale of cap type electrode, employed in tubes using luminescent rare gases.

OHIO STEEL IS UNCHANGED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 15.—Youngstown steel companies started the third week of July with their production schedules unchanged over last week and showing but slight declines over operations with which district plants started June, the first hot month.

While the pace of incoming business has slackened somewhat for leading producers here, the steel business apparently will experience no real recession this year and manufacturers will be able to hold their mills near capacity until the fall upturn in the steel business.

As the third week of July starts, the steel industry is seeing a slight loss in openhearth production of steel ingots, but sheet and pipe production is holding unchanged. Forty-five openhearths are active for independent companies.

Average operations for Youngstown industry, including fabricators as well as steel companies, is continuing at 85 per cent and manufacturers are openly hopeful that no further decline from this mark will be experienced. The summer of 1929 will be a record one for the Mahoning valley.

Announcement by leading automobile manufacturers, such as Ford, that the motor industry probably will maintain its record pace through July and August insures high operations of the steel sheet plants of the Youngstown district.

Obituary

DAILY SHORT STORY

Successful Sister

By N. FLORENCE LEACH.

ALICE MAY JARVIS and her sister, Sarah Lee, had always been different. From the time they were small girls their paths of interest diverged. Alice May enjoyed helping her mother keep house, planting a diminutive garden, and entertaining the neighbors' children with little original verses and stories. Sarah Lee selected the daughter of their richest neighbor for friend. They used to promenade up and down the sidewalk, dressed in their best.

During high school days, Alice May brought home comfortable 80s and 85s and 90 in domestic science. Sarah Lee made 99 in English, and had a leading part in the class play when she graduated.

After college, Alice May returned home and married Will Devers, her first sweetheart, and the son of a poor lawyer. Sarah Lee could not attend the marriage as she had gone abroad with a party of moneyed friends. On her return Sarah Lee, who now spelled her name Saralee, began working on a newspaper in New York. She wrote home glowing accounts of writers she interviewed, of banquets she attended, and of her bohemian apartment in which she entertained celebrities. Alice replied placidly, mentioning that Will had been promoted again, the baby had cut another tooth, and she had read some of her little verses when she entertained the Neighborhood Mothers' Club.

Time passed, polishing some lives, adding thick moss to others. Busy, successful Saralee commended herself for her sentiment. Twice a month she wrote a letter to her only sister; and sometime, when she was not too busy, she intended visiting her. She wondered, when she had time to think of it, how an intelligent girl like Alice May could be contented in the routine of small duties which bound her horizon. Four small children, still in school; her husband an average lawyer; her duties, housekeeping and homemaking. Saralee had not married. She had been engaged to Sidney Thruman years ago, but he was an unsuccessful journalist, so she broke the engagement, and was successively engaged to a playwright, a banker and an actor. But she could not bring herself to give up her beloved freedom, and share their lives. In her heart she knew she still loved Sidney.

And now she was 45. She was a successful writer, had published several books of verse, and was much in demand as a lecturer by women's clubs.

All at once Saralee realized that she was tired. She could not endure the jangling of her telephone, or the laughter of her friends; and writing, her chiefest joy, became an abomination. With vast effort she managed to finish the novel which had to be at her publisher's in September, then she collapsed.

"You need a change of climate," the expensive specialist informed her. "Go to France for the winter. Rent a cottage on the Mediterranean, and rest."

Saralee wrote a check for his fee and instructed her maid to make reservations on the first steamer sailing for France. Then she retired and dreamed that she was a little girl again, and Alice May was rubbing her head and telling her a fairy story. Alice May—quiet, placid, restful Alice May! Saralee rose abruptly, and rang for Felice.

"You may cancel those steamer bookings in the morning," she informed the startled, sleepy-eyed woman. "I want you to telephone this night letter to the telegraph office at once."

"Madam has changed her plans?" ventured Felice.

"Madam is going to visit her sister," answered Saralee, "and we start tomorrow."

All was as it should be, and exactly as she had expected, Saralee told herself. Alice May was surprisingly young and pretty. Will greeted his sister-in-law cordially, but she detected a flattering expression of awe in his eyes. The home was large and rambling, and set back in tree-shaded seclusion. Here she could rest, Saralee knew, for Alice May had the gift of understanding others' moods. Saralee was surprised to realize how much she loved her gray eyed, low voiced sister.

That very night Saralee's dream almost came true, for Alice May lifted her sister's head, with its beautifully marcelled waves into her lap, and rubbed her temples gently while Saralee talked in a half whisper, telling in rambling fashion of her success during the years.

"It is almost impossible to sell poetry, but both my volume of poems, especially Moods of a Moment, went over big," she whispered, dreamily.

"I have copies of them. I buy everything of yours that is published. We're so proud of your success!"

"Yes, I'm a success," murmured Saralee, and was vaguely glad to feel Alice May's tear-wet cheek pressed close to her feverish one.

As the pleasant days passed, Saralee discovered an interest in Alice May, and Alice May's life.

"What have you been doing all these years?" she asked, as she lay relaxed on a chaise longue near a sunny window.

Alice May laughed merrily. "Just lived," she answered. But she saw that Saralee was really interested, so began picking up a thread here and there of the many-hued fabric of her life.

"I've raised four lovely babies who are my pride and joy," she began. "Will, Junior, is finishing military school this year, and has a sweetheart waiting for him." She sighed sentimentally. "I don't feel old enough to have a grown son, Saralee," she confessed. "Berkley is almost twenty-one. He is studying law. You remember he almost died when he was five with mastoiditis."

"Yes," Saralee answered. From the realm of forgotten things came the memory.

"For days and nights I stayed right by his side. But he recovered," she added, more brightly. "You never realize how precious a baby is until you almost lose it, do you, Saralee?"

"No," whispered Saralee, a vague ache in her voice. She had never borne a child.

"Betty is 19, and quite pretty. We think she's like you."

"She's lovely," admitted Saralee. "She's teaching school, isn't she?"

"Only until she is 21. Sister, she's engaged, too." Pride was in Alice May's voice.

"And what will you make of Dick?" Saralee inquired.

"Dicky is just a baby—scarcely 17. He says he wants to be a writer—he idolizes you, Saralee. But I tell him to weigh the decision carefully. Of course you've been successful," she hastened to add, "but writing is a stern taskmistress, and I do so want my children to be happy!"

To be happy! As days flowed into weeks and months, and the time of her return to New York could not longer be delayed, Saralee began to wonder if Alice May after all had not made a success of her life. She had a charming home, a loving husband and devoted children. She had a close-knit circle of friends with whom she was entirely congenial. She was president of the Mountvale Garden Club. She and Will were prominent in the life of their church. Her poems, sincere and wholesome like herself, were published frequently in the church papers, and she always was called on to write verses for Memorial Day and other special occasions. Saralee weighed her own struggling, hectic years of labor against her half dozen published books; her many superficial friends, her exquisite apartment, against a husband, children and a home.

Saralee Jones was a success; no one dare deny that. But was not Alice May a greater success?

START BUDGET HEARINGS

WASHINGTON, July 15.—First step in definitely fixing the Federal budget for the fiscal year 1931 will be begun at the Treasury Department this week when the Treasury's budget committee will open hearings on requests for money by the various Treasury Departments and Bureaus it is learned.

With President Hoover's ultimatum that the budget must be kept within the limit of that for the present year, and faced with legislation for increased expenditures in some departments, the committee will face the necessity of applying considerable pressure for a reduction of expenditures in other directions.

After the hearings by the Treasury committee the Budget Bureau will consider the totals. They will be reconsidered by the Treasury and finally the Budget Bureau will hold such hearings of its own as it sees necessary.

Already several departments and bureaus are seeking or planning to seek larger amounts of money for next year. The total which the President seeks to hold the budget within is slightly less than $4,000,000,000.

Borden Goes Free From Investigation

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Federal Trade Commission announced it did not plan to investigate recent acquisition by Borden Company of stocks and business of a number of companies engaged in milk and Dairy business. No action will be taken unless merger is protested as being in violation of Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

BUGS BAER Says

GIVE US THIS DAY OUR DAILY FAD.

"Bugs" Baer

THE 18-day diet consists mostly of making three-cushion caroms with a set of olives and a grapefruit for a cue ball.

But the way that diet swept the country, like a new broom in the hands of an epileptic janitor, proves that we are a nation of fads and faddists.

All we need is a bell-cow, and we follow the jingle of silly chimes like coal pouring down the chute.

Although Beau Brummel once had England wearing vests that looked like wall-paper in a damp cellar, fads are not confined to the English speaking publics.

A fad of orchids once ruined the usually reliable folk of Holland. The lumber-footed burghers gave farms, fortunes and rebates for the spasmodic looking blooms.

We all remember the crossword puzzle and the braggart who claimed that he was so powerful he did 'em in ink.

We chipped away at the crosswords until our brains whirled in a tempestuous adagio and our hats remained on our heads via centrifugal force.

Give us a good press agent and a fractional fad and, inside of three weeks, we will have the world growing beards for the export trade.

If Ethel Barrymore can start the dieting industry then there is no reason why Ambassador Charley Dawes cannot have everybody refusing to wear pants.

Dawes refused to wear pants for King George. Suppose Charley cabled the Senate: "I won't wear trousers for you, either."

That would start a fad that might result in a war between the pantless nations and the best-dressed men of next winter.

Is there any reason why we shouldn't start collecting polka dots of all sizes and colors? Suppose Clara Bow had a picture taken in an orchard of polka dots?

All the ladies in the land would immediately wear lavalieres of inkspots. They would carry bouquets of egg-stained picnic plates.

This fad would only run a month or two. But it would have the world dizzier than a left-handed cobbler trying to vulcanize a rubber heel.

At present, there is a gin fad raging through the land. People think it is ultra-cosmoline to take a snorter of gin and then blow soap bubbles through their ears.

All that shooting in Chicago is merely the boyish pranks of faddists with blase trigger fingers.

We admire the man who can stay sensible when all these fads are swamping America. He is missing a lot of fun and the chance to have his memory perpetuated to posterity and the opportunity to have his valor rewarded by the congressional animal cracker.

EXCELSIOR!

WASHINGTON, D. C.,—Congressman Horace Frisby, who suffered a collapse from the heat last week, was back on the streets today. It must have been something he ate. He was revived quickly, however, and made some of the best speeches of his career.

"I deny," shouted Frisby, "that I am not my old self."

He offered to let husky shoppers feel the muscle of his right arm. He then went rapidly through a series of sitting up exercises, and played a record on a portable phonograph to show he was normal. Later he tiptoed here and there, noiming whispered conversations and pinching people. He was in the best of spirits, and repeatedly threw kisses and peanuts to the gutter.

Community Is Proud Of Montefiore Hospital

Pittsburgh is proud of the new Montefiore Hospital, a modern institution of mercy with 227 beds, dedicated yesterday. It is proud of our Jewish citizens who erected this noble structure, dedicated to the alleviation of human suffering. It joins with them vicariously and actively in the three day program preliminary to the actual reception of patients, which is to begin Wednesday with the transfer of those now occupying beds in the old Montefiore in Center avenue.

Old Montefiore for 25 years has been engaged in treating the ill and the maimed. Years ago it was realized that its quarters were too limited. The dream of a larger institution began to be a reality five years ago, when the Montefiore Hospital Association decided that a new structure was necessary. Nathanial Spear, first subscriber to the building fund, was made chairman of the building committee. The work of Mr. Spear and his associates now is in evidence in the form of a commodious, thoroughly equipped hospital, designed to meet all modern demands in the treatment of patients.

Pittsburgh always looked upon old Montefiore with sympathetic interest. It regards new Montefiore with a proud eye and extends to its builders the congratulations of a community grateful for all ministrations to its sufferings. It is certain that the new hospital will add lustrous stars to the crown of achievements of the one it replaces.

British Open Championships

And Some, More Important.

The British are supposed to worry, and feel ashamed, because foreigners nearly always win the "Open Championships" on British soil. The British Tennis Championship for men was recently competed for by two Frenchmen, and won by one of them. The British competitor did not count. And two California girls, Helen Wills, of course, one of them, conquered all the British women.

Intelligent Britishers are not disturbed by foreign victories with ARMS and LEGS.

Only victories of the HEAD count.

Germans winning open championships in industrial chemistry and Americans holding the championship in mass production of automobiles, farm machinery, etc.—those are the really important championships.

And those are the things that worry Great Britain.

If the British Islands possessed a city like Detroit, turning out millions of automobiles a year, the wise British would not worry about Helen Wills' "poker face," the wonderful legs and arms of the Frenchman Cochet.

Needed, Indeed

Voltaire Said It, Long Ago.

Dr. Scherer, pastor of the Church of the Holy Trinity, addressing the Young Women's Conference of East Northfield, Mass., denounces the idea of a "Godless world, and the suggestion that man was finding in a big social relationship the peace he used to find in God."

Voltaire put it more briefly: "If there had been no God, it would have been necessary to invent one."

In these days, when a reflector telescope reveals other universes, 25,000,000 "light years" away, adding that a "light year" means trillion of miles, we realize that a God, and a very great one, is needed to manage so vast a universe.

It is only necessary to enlarge the idea of a universal ruler, and that must be different from a ruler capable of managing only a universe baby such as our ancestors imagined, with this earth, the center, the sun, moon and stars fixed in the sky a few miles away to light our important doings.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WHEN people hear that poor Lon Allen is in another jam, or that his wife Lena is sore again at somebody, they just say—"Aw, well, they don't know what it's all about."

"You've known people like that—people who muddled along through life or were everlastingly in hot water. And you, too, have said—"they don't know what it's all about." You said it carelessly, slangily, but if you had been the greatest psychiatrist on earth you couldn't have analyzed their trouble better. That is exactly why so many people are making a mess of their lives. They DON'T know what it's all about and, what's more, they aren't trying to find out.

Just what IS it all about?

What does this mysterious performance, into which we enter daily, mean—this vast business we call life?

We spend our lives in that performance and our happiness depends on our ability to manage ourselves while in it. Then what IS it all about and why do the Lons and the Lenas fail where others succeed?

As children we start by thinking that it is all about US.

Many of us continue to think that way all through our lives. We fumble along like Lon, or fret along like Lena.

We're only interested in things which concern US.

Life is a picture book and the only thing that interests us is OUR little part of it.

That is a child's way of thinking and a savage's. Savages, too, don't know what it's all about, for they have no conception of the larger world of affairs.

If we persist in thinking as children and savages think we're in for a hard time, for the world has no time to waste on fumblers and fretters.

Life isn't all about YOU nor all about ME.

It's all about millions of people, their work and worries, their hopes and fears, their successes and failures. Everything you do, and everything you have done to you, ties up with all those other lives.

AND THE SUCCESS OR FAILURE OF YOUR OWN LIFE DEPENDS ON YOUR REALIZATION OF THS FACT.

YOU'LL NEVER MAKE GOOD UNTIL YOU REALIZE YOUR RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER PEOPLE AND THEIR RELATIONSHIP TO YOU.

People who "don't know what it's all about" act as if no one existed in the world save themselves. They have no sense of proportion—no perspective. They do not see themselves in relationship to life—THEY JUST SEE THEMSELVES. And so they miss the meaning of things and fumble about and commit all sorts of foolishness.

Realize other people!

Realize your relationship to them and their relationship to you. Realize your vital importance and YOUR VAST UNIMPORTANCE in the scheme of things. And so find your place in the Big Parade.

For there IS a Big Parade. And we're all in it, getting somewhere TOGETHER. And we'll get there a lot faster if each one of us realizes what it's all about and acts accordingly, instead of thinking that he's the Whole Army.

Bible Passages

The Widow's Oil

(II Kings 4; 1-7)

NOW there cried a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets unto Elisha, saying, Thy servant my husband is dead; and thou knowest that they servant did fear the Lord: and the creditor is come to take unto him my two sons to be bondmen.

And Elisha said unto her, What shall I do for thee? tell me, what hast thou in the house? And she said, Thine handmaid hath not anything in the house, save a pot of oil.

Then he said, Go, borrow thee vessels abroad of all thy neighbors, even empty vessels; borrow not a few.

And when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the door upon thee and upon thy sons, and shalt pour out into all those vessels, and thou shalt set aside that which is full.

So she went from him, and shut the door upon her and upon her sons, who brought the vessels to her; and she poured out.

And it came to pass, when the vessels were full, that she said unto her son, Bring me yet a vessel. And he said unto her, There is not a vessel more. And the oil stayed.

Then she came and told the man of God. And he said, Go, sell the oil, and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy children of the rest.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

A YOUNG guy that had just met a girl with pretty good eyes was looking around for some encouragement on the marriage business. He went to the big banker and says, "Say, Mr. Rox, d' you think a young man ought to be rich before he gets married?"

"Well," says Rox, "are you asking me that just in a conversational way, as a kind of sociable friend of the family, or are you talking to me as the family banker, and asking my very best opinion, just as if you was paying for it?"

"Why, I'm kinda serious about it. Now, what do you think really? Should a guy get rich before he gets married?"

"Well, then, I'll tell you. That depends on whether he's ever going to get rich or not. If he's ever going to get rich, yes, he'd better do it before."

All Mothers

ALL mothers doubtless trembled so
At clasp of rose-leaf hands,
And thrilled to hear shrill laughter flow
In other times and lands.
Since Eve, all mothers must have known
Such joy as this I share
In touching skin like buds, new-blown,
And silken wisps of hair.
Those other women, ah they, too,
Were glad of dimpled feet;
The shining look and happy coo,
All mothers found them sweet.
All mothers? What a traitor, I,
To rank with theirs my bliss;
No other knew such ecstasy,
No babe was like to this!

GRAVITATION

By Archibald Henderson

THE revolutionary nature of Einstein's theories is nowhere so fully exhibited as in the case of gravitation. Newton assumes that space everywhere and invariably is Euclidean. This means that the geometry of space is the same as the geometry we learned in school. Einstein assumes that the geometry of a given region depends upon the amount of matter in the vicinity. At a very great distance from matter, the geometry is Euclidean; or as the mathematician says, space is "flat." The greater the mass of matter in the neighborhood, the greater the deviation of the geometry from Euclidean; or as the mathematician says, space is "curved."

Einstein, as I pointed out in a former article rejects the classic notion of action at a distance, or as we otherwise express it, mutually attractive "forced." He asserts that bodies fall through space in virtue of inertia, or their tendency to follow natural tracks. Newton's conception has been satirized by Eddington in the following way: "A race of flat fish once lived in an ocean in which there were only two dimensions. It was noticed that in general fishes swam in straight lines unless there was something obviously interfering with their free courses. This seemed a very natural behavior. But there was a certain region where all the fish seemed to be bewitched. By-and-by a theory was proposed; it was said that the fishes were attracted towards a particularly large fish—a sunfish—which was lying asleep in the middle of the region; and that was what caused the deviation of their paths. The theory might not have sounded particularly plausible at first. Some fish grumbled that they did not see how there could be such an influence at a distance; but it was generally agreed that the influence was communicated through the ocean and might be better understood when more was known about the nature of water."

The natural philosopher of today deals with a new order of ideas, in the effort to explain the operation of gravitation. The ancient conceptions of space and time were inadequate to explain the very principle enunciated by Newton as universal—since it failed to account for the motion of the perihelion of Mercury. A law virtually identical with that of Newton, but exhibiting extremely slight variations therefrom, was required. The nature of space and time and their inter-relations must be reformulated in the light of modern discoveries.

Newton assumed the existence of "force," and in particular of "force acting at a distance." Moreover, he postulated the following principle: "If any force generates a motion, a double force will generate double the motion, a triple force triple the motion." This postulate, which seems entirely reasonable, is incapable of demonstrations; for forces are measured only in terms of their effects. "Double the motion" does not categorically imply "double the force." The motion of "force acting at a distance" is abhorrent to Einstein, because it appears to violate the principle of continuity. Time and space must be thought of in some new and different way.

In Newton's view, gravitation is a pull, a tug. In Einstein's view, gravitation is a law concerning the metrical properties of space—time in the immediate neighborhood. Space-time is four-dimensional; the universe, with three space dimensions and one time dimension. Gravitation is uniform and universal in its operation; and so its mathematical form remains unchanged under all changes from one set of them (Gaussian) co-ordinates to another. The meaning of Einstein's 20 equations embodying the law of gravitation is the radius of spherical curvature of every three-dimensional section of the world, cut in any direction at any point of empty space, is always the same constant length. This is only another way of saying that a massive body, in threading its way in space-time, is cautiously proceeding so as not to alter the curvature of the empty space around it.

Absolutely Happy

What Is Happiness?

CARVING AN ELEPHANT

These happy natives of Angola, in far away Africa, would not change places with any of us white people, with our automobiles and our cares.

THEY ARE ABSOLUTELY HAPPY. A white man has brought down an elephant, gigantic creature, weighing thousands of pounds. The white man wants only the tusks, long pieces of ivory, to be sold for profit or kept as trophies.

The white hunter also might keep the four feet, with nails polished, skin preserved, to make interesting seats or cigar holders for a smoking room.

The rest of the elephant goes to the natives. They hope the white hunter will NOT want the feet, most tender part of the elephant.

White men in a gold rush are not more eager than these natives in a rush for elephant meat.

There is more than they can possibly eat, and when they leave, gorged, many eating the raw flesh, too impatient to cook it, there will be plenty left for lower animals.

Lions, hyenas and, finally, the jackals, will all get their share.

Much nourishment is stored away in the great bulk of a big elephant, that lives more than 100 years, making and building up meat through a century.

No need to despise or pity these natives, believing themselves happy because they have plenty of meat, freshly killed.

We have thousands of misers with millions of dollars, earnestly adding to the millions, believing that THEY are happy.

They cannot even eat the gold as these natives would eat the elephant meat.

They cannot take the gold with them when the undertaker calls, as these natives will take heavy pieces of meat back to their huts.

DAY BY DAY

SOMEWHERE IN MISSOURI, July 15.—Everybody has a favorite state or so. Missouri is one of mine. In a village cemetery about 40 miles from where the train now thunders westward my mother and father sleep and in a city through which we have just passed lives my sister.

These are among reasons I feel a trifle more at home out where the grass grows taller. It seems to me rigid social codes begin to relax at Chicago and when you reach Missouri the broad "a" has tightened up to a twang and an old friend becomes an "onery old son of a sea cook."

However, we have with us much eastern "scenery." Samuel Goldwyn, movie impresario, does a turn of the station platform here and there in a startling blue suit. Two cinema cuties spangled with corsages of orchids also give the crossroads an eyeful. And there is a tweedy Britisher in snow white plus fours.

Chicago seems to be a little resentful these days at twitting about its gunmen. In a between trains taxi ride this morning I observed to the driver: "Any first class murders lately?" He replied: "None to compare with the murder of Arnold Rothstein, Margaret Lawrence or the torch affairs in New York."

All of which buttoned up my big mouth in a hurry. And a waitress in the Santa Fe depot—they're depots out here—restaurant yanked something or other from under me when I inquired if she had crullers. "Yes," she responded, "and very good doughnuts." And the way she accented doughnuts!

Fleeting glimpses of Chicago: The back-porch activity in the frame flats . . . The doleful who-ee-e of the police whistles . . . The Parmalee transfer wagons . . . Corn fed country boys who become crossing cops and taxi drivers . . . Ashton Stevens and Frank Scott in the Congress Lobby. . . . The crazy winds.

The departure of a coast train has much of the emotional glamour of a liner shoving off for Europe. There are the tearful as well as the light-hearted groups, the leaning out windows, the fluttering of handkerchiefs and the usual instructions to put out the cat and sprinkle the geraniums.

Every train westward ho carries its quota of elderly married couples who have attained their long cherished dream—retirement and a rocking chair life on the veranda of a California bungalow. They are mostly gnarled and workworn souls who have given the best years to drudgery for a few declining years of peaceful repose. And California is the place to find it.

To the wobbly legged colt in the field near Streator, Ill., that looked at the train, kicked up its heels and made a blue streak for its mother: Fraidy cat!

One of the travel myths is the Pullman car story. Outside of a cathedral I know no place offering such dignity of manner as the smoker. The atmosphere is stodgy with diffidence. Strangers glance at you, move over a little grudgingly to give you a seat and continue to stare out of the window. I have spent many hours in the smoker and have yet to hear the first off-color story. Maybe its the gray hairs! Or my pontifical dignity!

On the observation platform in the gathering dusk I watched the glaring red sun—like a huge ball of fire—blend with the purple and pinkish colors of the western horizon. For reasons I cannot put into words the dying sun is most convincing of all proof to me of immortality. It bespeaks a beauty and intelligence beyond human grasp and of Something Beyond.

There would be one of those wrist tapping cigarettists on board to begin singing "Kansas City Kitty" when the conductor called out the metropolis. He's already calling people "Old Top" and if we reach Los Angeles one passenger shy, honest I didn't trip him. He just missed his step and fell between the cars.

Out of 95 people on this coast train, I would draw space next to the most pronounced snorer extant. He is not content merely to touch a high note. He leans on it.

At Fort Madison, Ia., I took of my pedigreed pup in his new white harness from Paris. "What do them fool things cost, podner?" inquired a lanky native, who was told in a soprano yanh, yanh, yanh to pull in his neck—as the train was chugging away.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

THE position you hold and some of your duties are displeasing to you.

Sometimes you think you will quit and seek another position.

Under certain conditions it might be wise, but there are circumstances which combine to make such action not to be considered seriously.

If you are delivering the goods in the place of your employment, you have certain standing with the firm.

What you have done and what you are capable of doing is not known to any of the other organizations to which you might apply for a position.

It would require some time to make yourself a necessary part of the system.

Possibly you could not qualify.

Certain employes have worked themselves into positions which call for the performance of certain duties.

They are relied upon to carry on according to schedule.

The duties of trustworthy old employes will not be turned over to you as a new man—certainly not at first.

If you are established in a place, you better stick to it.
